KIDS - SUMMER - AND A STRAWBERRY PARTY

LORNA AND ALAN MACKAY, 151 Raylawn Cresc., are all eyes for the dishes of strawberries and ice cream being served by Mrs. J. Pickup, 171 Raylawn Cresc., at the St. Andrew's United Church Women's strawberry dessert party Friday. The novel idea, underlining the strawberry theme to add a festive overtone to a tea and bake sale, worked for the UCW who were kept busy accommodating the crowd.

Rotary Holiday Show is Presented at the Manor

Sparkling entertainment that choir leader wore a white jacket included excellent singing, et and black trousers. The visitors had brought agile dancing and for the a bountiful supply of refreshments was provided for the residents with the presentation menu with them, sandwiches, on Tuesday night, May 26th, relishes, fancy small cakes of part of the show Ah, Holi- and cookies, which were served by a group of young ladies presented recently in Georgetown and gentlemen sponsored by the Georgetown Rotary Club. The show was directed by Ralph Ursel with Bernard Shrubsale as choral director. The musical accompaniments were played by an orchestra of five men, Ralph Ursel, piano; Keith Barber, cello; Hugh Hunter, clarinet; Ian Cass, guitar and George Rowe, drums.

After a brief speech by Anne Currie, in which she identified the show, the stage curtains parted to reveal a stageful of ladies and men about to depart on a plane trip from Gander to various countries of the world. While waiting for the plane, they sang, as chorists, Let's Get Away from It All, Gander and Sentimental Journey. Later in the program they sang Holiday, a medley of songs celebrating the various public holidays of the year and a medley of folk songs from a music of Russia, Scotland, Spain and Israel. Still later on in the program when they were supposedly in a London "pub" they sang I Belong to Glasgow, Bill Bailey and Oom-Pah-Pah.

In addition to the above choral numbers there were several solos sung and several dances performed. Sandra Greig sang Charade, Vera MacDonald sang the solo part of Oom-Pah-Pah and Jim Turnbull sang The Isle of Capri. Several amusing dances and skits were performed. One of the skits was a song and dance in the "pub" by two Cockneys, Joyce Van Leeuwen and Ron Hunt. There were other very entertaining numbers on the program, all performed by very talented persons.

The pleasure of watching and listening to this gay, toe-tapping program was increased by the bright-coloured dresses of the ladies and shirts of the men and by the fact that a spotlight was used expertly to light up the stage. A pleasant refreshment hour during which the visitors and residents enjoyed tea, coffee and cookies together, brought a very happy evening to a close.

On Wednesday night, May 27th, the residents had an opportunity to make the acquaintance of a group of delightful new friends at a concert arranged by the Lakeview Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, of Burlington. The concert itself was given by some forty ladies and gentlemen, who make up the choir of Number 6 Region, O.E.S.

A number of ladies who belong to the Burlington Chapter came also. After Mr. Mathieson had extended greeting to the large audience, he conducted a large song of many old songs. At the close of the sing-song, the forty choir members took their places on the platform. They proceeded to present a very fine program of choral and instrumental numbers and recitations. The ladies and gentlemen presented a fine appearance to the eye also, the ladies being dressed in floor-length white silk gowns and the gentlemen in black suits. The

It Was Fun in the Sun For Aircraft Families

The Avian Aircraft Recreation Club held its first annual summer picnic Saturday at the Kelso Dam Conservation Park under sunny skies. An endless schedule of organized games and the usual picnic treats for the youngsters made the initial outing by the AARC a complete success. The chefs for the day, Charles Trott and Art Mattison, did a fiery job, but, as one picnicer put it, "burnt offerings never tasted so good". Susan Glover and Anne Ditchfield won the girls' three legged race. Graham Ditchfield and K. Good won the boys' three legged race. David Warman won the senior egg and spoon race, and Andrew Sampson won the junior egg and spoon race. As the conclusion of the games program every child had a lucky dip and by their expressions a belated Christmas Party couldn't have been more a delightful surprise. Swimming in the Kelso lake rounded out the occasion. Unanimous opinion was that it was a fine first effort by the Recreation Club.
