Esquesing Population 187 Increase Assessment 4.9%

During 1964, the Esquesing assessment went over the ten million dollar mark. Assessment Commisioner Art Benton revealed to Esquesing Council Monday night. The assessment now is $10,309,215, an increase of $504,238 over last year, or in percentage an increase of 4.9%.

The population too, has increased. It now stands at 6,885 an increase of 187 over last year.

As Esquesing becomes less rural the percentage of farm land has decreased, there is 42.97% farm land, 37.01% residential, and 20.02% industrial and commercial.

A motion was passed allocating Esquesing's Centennial grant to Halton County for the Museum Board, since Esquesing plans no centennial project of their own.

"If we give it to the County, it's fair", opined Coun. G. Currie, "everybody benefits, if we give it to one municipality the others would be mad" he added. Georgetown had asked that it receive it, if Esquesing was not using it.

At first Coun. W. Linham proposed dividing it three ways, between Acton, Milton and Georgetown, however, he finally agreed with Cr. Currie that allocating it to the County was the fairest method.

An unusual request from a Dovercourt Road, Toronto man provoked some discussion. He wanted to purchase rockery stone lying on the roadsides in Esquesing.

"He's very honest, anyway", commented Coun. Currie, "Most just take it".

"If we legalize it by selling it", thought Coun. H Lawson, "then if it is left a mess, the ratepayers will blame us."

It was finally decided it was too much trouble for all that was involved, so a letter will be written to him, telling him to make any deal he wants with the adjacent land owners.

Ubo Mierama, of Norval complained that a small addition to his garage had been ordered torn down by Building Inspector W. Hulls, after he had brought it up to the specifications ordered by Mr. Hulls.

"He said it was too close to the fence", said Mr. Mierama, "but why didn't he say that in the first place, before I made the changes he recommended?

After trying to contact Mr. Hulls by phone, and finding he was sick, Council decided to have both the Inspector and Mr. Mierama at their next meeting.

"It's only fair to hear the building inspector's side," commented Coun. Linham.
