

LET'S PLAY BRIDGE

By BILL COATES

Have you ever read about a certain play or bid at bridge and felt that you would really like to use it? Such a thing happened to me with the Lighter double. This double has a special meaning and is used only when doubling a slam bid by the opponents. I have waited years since I first read about it and it wasn't till last weekend that I had an opportunity to use it.

Before I describe the Lighter double, I had better mention about doubles or slams in general. When a competent pair of bridge players bid a slam, you normally do not expect to set it. If you have two aces, chances are one of the opponents has a void. If you have unexpected trump, then by doubling you caution declarer and he may play the hand differently. I do not wish to go into the mathematics of it, but you are laying about five to one odds when you double a slam. There odds may seem high, but they apply when good bridge players have bid the slam.

Normally then, you should not double the opponents' slam, but if you set them, doubled or not, you have a good return for your money. Here enters the Lighter double. This bid is used only when declarer will make his slam unless you double.

The Lighter double asks partner to make an unusual lead. He is not to lead a suit bid by your side. It often calls for the lead of the first suit bid by dummy.

Let's see it in action.

I do not recall who was the dealer but I know that North opened the bidding. The bid was 6NT. North was in a bit of a hurry and he didn't see the Lighter double.

South four club was the Gerber ace asking convention (similar to Blackwood). North's reply of four no trump shows three aces. The last double by East was the Lighter double.

Notice that East does not want a spade lead, even though he has bid the suit. If East had bid the suit, he would have to lead a spade. Therefore, East doubles to tell partner to make an unusual lead as the only way to defeat the contract.

West's long clubs are a clue and in fact, West led a club. I ruffed and quickly cashed the diamond ace.

Special bids like this don't find much use but when they occur, they are well worth waiting for.
