

Active Year Behind, Now Red Cross Plans for 1965

Due to moving circumstances Mrs. Ronald Lytle had to resign as Secretary of the branch after several years of excellent service.

In 1965 the Georgetown and District Red Cross Branch will be listed in the Georgetown Telephone Directory. The regular branch meeting will be held every first Thursday of the month in the Georgetown Public Room at 8:30 p.m. sharp on Tuesday, January 26.

HOME NURSING COURSE

A 15 week course will start on Monday, January 4, 1965, from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Georgetown Volunteer Ambulance Building, which will be instructed by Mrs. M. D. Simpson K.N.

BLOOD DONOR CLINICS

Again three clinics have been planned for Georgetown and District. The dates have been set for Mondays, February 15, June 7 and October 4, 1965. Further information will follow in this paper.

Holy Meaning of Christmas Expressed in Church Services

"And the angel said unto them, Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day, in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord." Like the shepherds who left their flocks to seek the Babe of Bethlehem, men, women and children of this community will put aside not only their everyday concerns but the more immediate interests in tree-trimming and package wrapping and go to find once again the holy meaning of Christmas by solemn midnight masses.

To commemorate the Nativity, Protestant churches will hold candlelight and communion services and children's programs.

The custom of saying mass at midnight derives from an old belief that Christ was born at that hour. Actually, mass may be said at any hour during the night before Christmas and in some countries the first Christmas mass is said at four or five in the morning.

According to early Roman regulations, Christmas mass was celebrated "when the cock crows" — about 3 o'clock in the morning. Spanish speaking people still call midnight mass "Misa de Gallo," while the Portuguese term is "Missa do Galo" — in both cases, "mass of the cock."

SANTA GETS HIS GARB FROM POEM, CARTOON

Santa first appeared in his now traditional guise as a plump, jovial, white bearded and pipe-smoking old gentleman — "a right jolly old elf" — in the poem, "A Visit from St. Nicholas," written by Dr. Clement C. Moore in 1822.

Earlier, "Santa Claus" had been pictured dressed as a bishop, in a book called "The Children's Friend" and in Washington Irving's "Knickerbocker History of New York," published in 1809. Santa was said to wear a broad-brimmed hat and huse breeches.

Even Dr. Moore's poem did not apparently clothe Santa in a red suit. "He was dressed all in fur from his head to his foot," says the poem.

Santa as he looks today was first sketched by cartoonist Thomas Nast in 1860. The cartoon showed Santa in his familiar red garb, smoking a pipe.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE

First National Community Christmas Tree in the US was placed on the White House lawn in 1923, while Calvin Coolidge was President. The tree was a spruce from Coolidge's native state, Vermont.

In the following year Coolidge presided at a ceremony under the sponsorship of the American Forestry Association, to urge the use of living Christmas trees.

"Oh Christmas Tree" Means Fir to Most

Traditional for trimming, the fir is the tree most people think of when they sing "O Christmas tree, O Christmas tree, how lovely are thy branches".

Although there are close to 40 species of firs found in Central and Southern Europe, Asia, North America, the holiday favorite — the Douglas fir — is not even a true fir.

Originally named "false hemlock" with yew-like needles, the Douglas fir is neither a yew, hemlock, spruce nor fir. But it does have some of the characteristics of all four evergreens, and its identity confused botanists for years.

The Douglas fir's graceful, upturned growth and ability to hold its needles when cut have put it in the top spot for Christmas use. It also produces top quality lumber. The state of Montana is an important source of Douglas fir.

Next popular Christmas tree is the balsam fir. Also called Canada balsam or Balm of Gilead, according to the Encyclopedia Americana, balsam grows from Newfoundland to Virginia, west to Iowa and north and west deep into Canada.

Balsam retains needles well and gives off a pleasing fragrance. It is especially well liked in the Eastern United States.

Included among the many other Christmas trees are the eastern and Canadian red cedar, black spruce, Scotch pine Christmas trees, from seven provinces, are part of the holiday scene in many countries.

The U.S. alone, accounts for about 80 per cent of Canada's annual production of trees still others are shipped abroad, from Ethiopia to Venezuela.

The shepherds were simple men
Doing an honest job,
Men with hopes and homes,
With faith and fears.

But they were awake that night,
Awake and aware;
And they heard the proclamation,
"Peace to men of goodwill!"

In our day
Let men with the shepherd heart,
Honest men, awake and aware,
Heed the timeless tidings,
"Peace to men of goodwill!"
