THE GEORGETOWN GARDENER

Grass, Leaves Excellent For Natural Fertilizer

By Gordon Lindsay Smith
R. N. I., Georgetown

Notwithstanding all that has been written by conservationists and others, one still sees big cardboard boxes filled with grass clippings waiting for the garbage collector on every urban street. And in the fall these are supplemented with even larger containers filled with raked up leaves. Often, too, if we went around and examined the soil in the flower gardens surrounding these houses we would find it to be of the stiffest clay or barren sand. In either case the very thing necessary to correct this condition is being deliberately thrown away. It is not necessary to make an elaborate compost pile to salvage grass clippings. Simply spread this material over flower and vegetable beds and dig in loosely. It will soon disappear and gradually in a year or two the clay will become richer and hold moisture. Of course, the real garden enthusiast will have a compost heap, concealed behind vines, shrubs or a trellis and here with alternate layers of soil and plant refuse he will make first-class compost. He keeps the pile level on top to absorb rain and watering and to hasten matter he may sprinkle with some special chemical to speed breaking down, and add a little chemical fertilizer to enrich. Even clean garbage, such as orange rinds, vegetable tops, peelings, etc., can be used in these compost heaps and when covered with a layer of soil they will neither attract flies nor give off objectionable smells.

GROW YOUR OWN VITAMINS

Most people grow vegetables because they like to eat them while they are really fresh and crisp, something that one cannot get otherwise. But there are valuable vitamins in them, too. Lettuce, for instance, and especially leaf lettuce which is more exposed to the sun than the other kinds, is high in vitamin A. Carrots will supply the same vitamin for a longer period as this vegetable, of course, will keep well in storage. For vitamins B and B2 as well as A, Kale is highly recommended. It contains about twice as much vitamins as ordinary cabbage, and it is easier to grow. For the highly prized vitamin C, nothing is better than a fresh tomato right out of the garden. But you can only be sure of getting these vitamins while the vegetables are really fresh. Within a few hours after picking they begin to disappear.

Easter Thankoffering For Women of Ashgrove UCW

The junior groups met in the Church on Sunday afternoon. The Messengers with their leaders Mrs. George Wilson and Mrs. C. H. Dick opened with a little game called "Pass the Penny," then all sang the Messenger hymns and repeated the motto and prayer.

The minutes of the last three meetings were read by Jamie Critchell, offering was dedicated by Ricky Critchell and the story from the Study Book was told by Mrs. John Belloddy - "The Baby found in the bushes."

Paul Dick read the Scripture and the Easter story was told by Mrs. C. H. Dick.

Closing prayer was by Carolyn Bird and then all made an Easter egg.

The Tyros and Explorers and their leaders, Mrs. John McNabb and Mrs. John Bird opened their meeting with a Worship Service. The theme was "Standing Firm." Scripture was read by Lorne Wilson, Call to Worship was by Douglas Macdell. They held their final study on Trinidad.

Mrs. Harvey Nurse told the story of a Hindu family and the struggle of one member to become a Christian. Prayer was by Ken Austin. The Tyros brought in used Sunday School papers and stamps and the meeting closed with several games being played. Lunch baskets were Mrs. C. H. Dick and Mrs. John Bird.

The Easter Thankoffering of the UCW was held on Tuesday evening, April 6th in the Church with president Mrs. W. Bird presiding and opening with an Easter message and a hymn and prayer. Secretary Mrs. Bob Cunningham read the minutes of March meeting also the correspondence and letters of thanks from sick members.

Mrs. Vera Pickett gave a lovely Easter Devotional and said let us remember the day the Son of God was crucified and his resurrection a few days later. Mrs. Frank Wilson reported on the Co-Op banquets that the members had catered to in March, after which the beautiful hymn "Beneath the Cross of Jesus" was sung by Mrs.

Clayton Wilson. The speaker, was Mrs. Linstead, who left the members with some splendid thoughts from Dr. Leslie Weatherhead's book "Christ is Alive Today." His friendship won everyone, keep your appointment with Christ. He can change your life as He is the Saviour of the World.

Mrs. John McNabb thanked everyone who had taken part in the meeting and a closing hymn was sung.

Deepest sympathy to Mrs. Frank Russell in the death of her brother Harry Christian of Hamilton, also to Mrs. Clayton Wilson and her family in the death of her mother Mrs. McCullough of Norval and Mrs. Ernie Tindale in the death of her mother, Mrs. Dredge of Naasgrove.

New Bus Service Is Well Patronized

The newly inaugurated bus service through town, which is an extension of the Georgetown Transportation Company's regular Bramalea service is being fairly well patronized, according to the owner.

Friday is the service's big day with many residents of the far eastern end of town coming to the Main Street area, and to the Plaza.

Many requests are being received for additional service, but as yet only the lines of the regular Bramalea runs would be feasible. Many parents would like to see the bus operate on Saturdays, to take the children to their hockey games, however, the service to Bramalea does not run that day. In the summer the children will be able to travel by bus to their swimming lessons, for only a dime.

"Everybody down here thinks it's wonderful," said a resident of Weber Drive, describing the general feeling.

If the patronage warrants it, Mr. Scott is willing to make changes. However, this service is not subsidized, and must pay its own way. As an extension of an existing run this is much
