Says Chances of Shutdown Slim

There is little chance the Murray post office will be closed down, postmaster Robert Campbell said Monday.

"No stated that if it was shut down in order to centralize the Ottawa depot, a number of north Ottawa persons would be put at a disadvantage."

"Just to get a stamp, some would have to go as far as 12 miles," he stated. "This is inconvenient."

He added: "The convenience of the people should be considered, besides the cost."

There are two routes in the Murray postal district, servicing less than 200 persons. About 20 individuals pick their mail up at the post office.

The Oakville and Burlington rural areas are serviced by many different area post offices. It has been suggested that mail come into the central post office in each town and then be distributed.

Dr. Harry Harley (MP—Halton) has pointed out confusion results from a town not having all its areas on the same mailing address and it also means extra postage if mailing from one post office zone into another.

He said that if mail from the rural areas comes to the town's central post office address, "Oakville" it is returned to the sender.

"It is this point which causes much confusion," he stated.

Call Traffic Survey In Look to Future

Cited For Work With French Canadians

Miss Therese St. Jean, who with the late Father Beaugard established Notre Dame de Beaugard farm here some years ago, was honoured in Ottawa last week.

At a convention of L'Association Franco-Ontarienne d'Education, she received a decoration and diploma. It was awarded for her work among French Canadian residents in St. Catharines and Georgetown.

Corporation Being Run by Engineers Claims Gibbons

Over the lone objection of Mayor Gibbons, Council hired the engineering firm of Damas and Smith to conduct a traffic survey in and around town, providing the cost does not exceed $24,000.

In violent objection to the by-law, Mayor Gibbons stated that during 1964 and 1965, the town would have paid over one hundred thousand dollars in engineering fees, mostly to Damas and Smith, and Proctor and Redfern. "While I know we need access over the tracks, I don't think the people can afford this kind of money," he maintained.

Deputy Reeve Hunter said the survey is necessary, since government red tape demands they be done before any action is taken, "and besides we only pay 25 per cent of the cost," he added.

"When we can get $24,000 of work done for $6,000, we should do it," claimed Reeve Elliott. He said it was the only way the town would ever get better access across the tracks, and be able to plan for future traffic arteries.

"Just because you get a part refund is no reason to spend money, according to my business methods," replied the Mayor. "It looks to me like the business of this corporation is being run by the engineers."

Continuing he said, "I'm even told that Proctor and Redfern have been assured by two men that they have got the contract for the water tower, and that's not all, somebody took the money out of the office, when there is a motion on the books that no documents will be removed from the office without a court order."

"This expenditure will be recouped many times in benefits to the town" was the final comment on the subject by Coun. R. Francis.

Llewellyn New Anglican Rector for Glen, Norval

Appointment of a new rector for the Anglican parish of Glen Williams and Norval was announced this week.

Harold Llewellyn of Hamilton, who will be ordained a deacon on May 23, will officiate at his first services on Sunday, May 30th in St. Alban's and St. Paul's churches. He replaces Rev. Ronald Stables who took over a new parish in West Plamora this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn and their three daughters will be moving into the rectory at Glen Williams in the early summer. The girls will finish their school year in Hamilton where they are in Grade 12, Grade 9 and Grade 7.

Council Passes $55,000 Cedarvale Borrowing

With Deputy Reeve Hunter's only opposing vote, a by-law to authorize the borrowing of $55,000 for the purchase of Cedarvale School from the United Church of Canada, was passed, Monday night. The remainder of the $80,000 purchase price will come from Centennial grants.

However, the Ontario Municipal Board has not given its approval to the scheme as yet.

The $55,000 will be paid in ten years, at $7,250 a year.

Mayor Gibbons said the whole matter is taking far too long, since the original offer was made last September. He is enthusiastic about the state of the building which he had just inspected, and reported all the damage done recently was repaired, except one place.

Centennial Committee Chairman W. Smith commented: "This by-law is the last document as far as I know, now we wait for O.M.B. approval, or disapproval."

Deputy Reeve Hunter who has opposed the purchase of the school, all along, repeated that the building does not lend itself to a community centre, and forecast high renovation costs in the future.

Davenport Winners In May 6 Concert

Georgetown people have an opportunity May 6, to hear singers which for three straight years have won the highest number of points in a Toronto music festival.

St. John's United Church won the festival challenge cup during the competition in Easter week. It was the Davenport Festival of Sacred Music. Thirty-five winners will be heard in a "Festival Musicale" in St. John's at 8:00 p.m.

Rexway to Maple Wider Highway Plan for Summer

The reconstruction and widening of Highway No. 7 (Guelph St.) between Rexway Drive and Maple Avenue will begin in June, and it is hoped, finish two months later.

It will be a four lane highway, the same as the part of the highway rebuilt last year. In addition a new interchange will be constructed at the corner of Maple Avenue.

Every effort will be made to keep any inconvenience to the property owners at a minimum, according to the town engineer, who in turn hopes for co-operation and understanding from them.

The stretch from Rexway to Maple will be all that is undertaken this year, but it is assumed the rest of the highway through town will be reconstructed in following years.

The weather last weekend may have been damp enough to complain about but it was dry enough to allow grass to be grown. Georgetown fire department answered its first grass fire alarm of the season Saturday afternoon and doused it in short order.

Georgetown Pilot Safe As Airliner Crashlands

A Georgetown pilot was one of the three crew members aboard the Air Canada Viscount which crashed landed at Toronto International Airport Sunday night after its left undercarriage jammed in the up position.

Stan Hegstrom, 7 Gairry Dr., Georgetown, as co-pilot on the flight with Captain David Humphrey, circled for 3 hours to burn away excess fuel before putting the aircraft down safely.

Fifty-one passengers and the three crew members made a hasty escape from the plane after it skidded to a halt on its left wing in a shower of sparks.

A fire in its left outside engine was quickly extinguished by Transport Department firefighters. The aircraft was doused with foam as soon as it stopped.

The trouble was discovered when the flight arrived at the Malton airport from Chicago at 9 o'clock Saturday night. A warning light on the instrument panel indicated the malfunction of the left wheel unit, and the control tower operators confirmed the trouble as the aircraft made a low pass over the airport.

Community Fireworks Cost an Extra $100

When a delegation from Branch 120 of the Canadian Legion through spokesman, Dave Bowman explained, to Council Monday that the cost of the annual 24th of May fireworks display was closer to six hundred than the previously accepted five hundred, Council decided to word their motion that the town would pay half the cost, rather than pay $250 as they had in previous years.

Mr. Bowman explained that the additional cost of wire and two-by-fours had frequently brought the Legion's share up to three hundred dollars.

In addition the Legion asked permission to erect another flagpole on Mill Street, and assured Council that any damage to the sidewalk would be repaired. Also they plan to add a

Tories Name Masson Federal Election Choice

Oakville mayor Allan Masson was nominated last Friday night to contest Halton riding by the Progressive Conservative Association at the next federal election.

Mr. Masson won the first ballot over Naasagweya Terevee Williams Coulter, his only opponent. Masson will contest the seat won by Dr. Harry Harley of the Liberals from Conservative Sandy Best in the 1963 federal election.

The jubilant mayor asked for the support of the 500 Tories present and promised continued victory for Halton in the election which he termed "forthcoming."

About 400 of the 500 were voting delegates at the nomination convention. It was held in the newly built auditorium of the Williams Avenue high school.

Mr. Masson was elected following a rousing 10 minute talk in which he predicted that the Liberals would lower taxes before calling the election.

Bill Gismelick

He referred to the predicted tax-cut as a "vote-buying gimmick" which the Liberals would try to cash in on. He added that they would also try to take advantage of the present business economy, which "Canadianians earned, not the Liberal government."

To be successful at the next polls, the Conservative Party "must reorganize from the bottom up," Mr. Masson stated. He observed that some of the delegates were offended by a recent newspaper report in which he was critical of the local association.

He had stated that a "house-cleaning" was necessary and that he was not "too happy" with some of the work the association has done.

Mr. Masson explained that he was criticizing only those who

No Flu Alarm Here Says Halton M.O.H.

Neither Georgetown nor any of the neighbouring municipalities have any serious cases of influenza according to Halton County's Medical Officer of Health Dr. Archie Bull.

Dr. Bull said common cases of the flu have been noticeable but not in any different proportion than during other years. "Minor infections are not reported to me," he said.

Dr. Bull said there appeared to be no danger of the strange cases of influenza encountered in Midland last week moving to this area. A number of deaths resulted from influenza in Midland which doctors have not been able to determine the cause.

The medical health officer referred to the classical influenza outbreak of 1918 and said no such an epidemic has since occurred in Canada since that time.

He also stated persons may be inoculated against influenza and that the inoculation is used by many general practitioners.

Dr. Bull said it is still early in the year for allergies which become common in Southern Ontario during blossom time. He said the pollen count in southern Ontario is higher than the count recorded in the north.

One man's dream of a billion's paradise is a stretch of beach for local lovers of the outdoors.

Seek Town Assistance to Honour Hockey Champs

An eloquent plea for some financial support from the town was made by members of the Hockey Support Group at Council meeting Monday night.

Ray Norton pointed out that Georgetown had two teams in playoffs this year, and the coaches had depleted their resources. The Easter tournament gives the town favourable publicity and brings business to the town.

"I'm supporting it helps the players of our town."

He explained the need for jerseys and trophies for the boys, of whom "we are justly proud," he concluded. He concluded by saying, "We don't want to let hockey in this town down, and we're not going to,—about five hundred dollars would help quite a bit."

Pay Attention to Der Olt Professor

High School Students Alex Goudekelling, Mary Jane Emmerson, Terry Lane and Betty Barber give one of the pillars of knowledge on the high school teaching staff their full concentration as he attempts to prepare them for that great test "outside."
