SENIORS GET THEIR KICKS AT PICNIC

GEORGETOWN SENIOR CITIZENS Mrs. Syd Robin and Mrs. Harry Hayward watch while Mrs. Bertha Bell makes her try in the shoe-kicking contest, one of the highlights of a Senior Citizens Zone Picnic held in Brampton last week. The three were part of a large Georgetown contingent at the affair. The day long program included a luncheon, games and contests and concluded with grand finale sing song.

Some Opposition, But Church To Get Fence

"You're spending money you haven't got, gentlemen," Georgetown District High School Board vice-chairman Donald Lawson commented when a motion to recind a May 10 motion to instal a chain link fence along the school property bordering on St. George's Anglican Church property was defeated.

"We're getting the short end of the stick if we're required to pay for the entire cost of fence on our property" WILLIAM Carr, the board chairman added.

to the lowest tender or o the job to the lowest tender to the next lowest bidder because he is a taxpayer in the high school area prolonged the board's dealing with the fence matter. The trustees were reminded that a May 10 motion obligated them to accept the low bid.

The vice chairman was the seceder of the motion to recind made by Finance committee chairman H. H. Breckenridge. The 552 ft. fence will be erected by a Streetsville company, Hult Fence Limited for $1,450, the lowest price of three received by the board in a call for tenders.

Discussion on the chain link fence the unsuccessful motion to recind came after a letter from Mr. Charles Harris, chairman of property for St. George's granted permission for the board to proceed with fencing.

The Breckenridge-Lawson motion would have the whole fencing question put off until the fall when the board would have a better budget picture."

"This matter has been kicked around for 38 years," trustee E. W. Gorth commented. "I'd like to know how the picture has changed from the last meeting, when we voted to go ahead with it."

E. E. Hall said, "We have a moral obligation to instal this fence now. We said we would when it became necessary, and in view of the trespassing by pupils it is certainly necessary."

Severe Dry Spell Affects Production Of Hay, Milk

Lack of rain in this area is beginning to become a serious problem, district Agricultural Representative Henry Stanley told The Herald yesterday.

As well as affecting crops the dry spell is the cause of irrigating ponds being unusually low and could result in a milk shortage if it continues.

"A couple more weeks without a substantial rain and the situation will be quite serious," Mr. Stanley said.

He said hay crops are anywhere from half to two-thirds of what they were last year and some farmers are cutting their hay now hoping to get good rain from now on a second cut.

"The corn looks not bad, but late sown oats and a few barley crops have germinated very unevenly because of the lack of moisture," Mr. Stanley said.

"The irrigation farm ponds are also a source of fire protection and their dropping level is of great concern to local farmers who have them.

"Milk production will start to taper off because of the dry weather," Mr. Stanley said. "Dairy farmers will have to feed their herds grain and it will cost them a lot more to produce the milk if it keeps up," he said.

Weed control in corn fields has also been a problem because of the dry spell. The controlling chemical to work effectively must be carried into the soil by rain.
