 Thursday, June 24, 1:45 a.m. — A highway accident and emergency run from Highway 601 and the Guelph Line to the Hamilton General Hospital, taken by H. Shorthill and G. Porter.

ISUZU BELLETT FROM C.M.I.
 optional equipment: Launching Pad

We're having fun of course because a Bellett is all fun. You can't really buy a launching pad for the Bellett. It just feels like you're on one every time you touch the accelerator.

Bellett's engine delivers 71 horsepower; more than its number one competitor. Seems funny that cars in Bellett's class are selling for up to $600.00 more, while Bellett prices start at just $1898*.

As a matter of fact there are only two extras you can buy for a Bellett. A clock and a radio. Everything else is standard equipment. That includes padded dash, de luxe interior, bucket seats, four-on-the-floor, tinted glass, back-up lights, electric windshield wipers, gas tank lock, trip meter, undercoating, whitewall tires and a complete tool kit you're never likely to use, and the Bellett has the support of C.M.I.'s full Canadian service network.

With all the equipment Bellett gives you, who needs a launching pad anyway? Besides, countdowns aren't half as much fun as driving your Bellett.
