

BELL LINES

EXTENSION ONE
Mirror, Mirror, on the wall,
What is the fairest spot of all?
The kitchen, my dear, you see,
To aid you through your cookery.
You call and talk and be called too,
With little fear for time of steer.
And when the phone hangs on the wall,
It takes no counter space at all;
You roll your eyes around at will,
Or pass the butter-mutter with.
And when the phone hangs on the wall,
The phone's at hand, not in the way,
And costs you only pennies a day!

This may not be the best poem in the world, but it is true; an extension telephone costs only pennies a day, but what a help it offers in the kitchen! Why not order one today? Just give us a call at 877-XXXX.

TOTS AND THE TELEPHONE

Any Georgetown area parent know the magic that the telephone holds for children. Learning to use the telephone properly, like learning to do many other things in the home, can be taught with a little pre-planning. Here are a few tips to help your youngsters use the phone correctly and conveniently:

1. Make it fun to learn. Teach your child how to answer the telephone promptly and in a friendly way.
2. Make a few basic rules — (and stick to them): Explain to the children that calls should be brief, that they should speak directly into the mouthpiece, (and not shout), and that the receiver should be put down gently.
3. Practice makes perfect. Let your child call a friend, grandma or other special relative under your supervision.

Using the telephone can build a child's confidence expand his "social graces", and help him communicate effectively. Its magic can also be used advantageously to help instill in children those qualities of respect and responsibility that will ultimately mark them as mature adults.

CLEANING PROBLEMS

Occasionally the question arises as to the best way to clean a telephone. The answer is quite simple: a damp cloth keeps any phone clean and shining. Never clean your telephone with soap and water, as water may penetrate into the set and put your service out of order.

Incidentally, the outer plastic shell doesn't require any special waxes or polishes — it's self-polishing.

Magistrate Fears Little Headway in Drink Problem

Magistrate Kenneth M. Langdon, Georgetown, said in police court last week that he was "beginning to feel like parrot."

Magistrate Langdon, before serving judgment on three youths found guilty of consuming liquor while under age, said the court deals with the offence as frequently it says the same thing over and over again.

"The court is beginning to feel like a parrot," he stated.

Magistrate Langdon wondered if the court's dealing with the offence in the past months had "done any good."

He said it is normal process when a youth wants to mature, to drive an automobile and drink alcohol.

"Youth does not consider it committing an offence by drinking liquor," he said. "They see their parents and their neighbours do it all the time."

Magistrate Langdon said he had taken an extension course to probe the problems of alcohol but seemed to be making "little headway" in the fight to combat inebriating.

The magistrate noted those addicted to alcohol usually are of high intelligence and better than average personality.

Magistrate Langdon said the court has tried probation, remanding in custody, and heavy fines to combat the growing trend to underage consuming.

"Nursing Elderly" Seminar Attended by Manor Chief

Superintendent Stanley Allen of Halton Centenial Manor is to attend a special week long workshop on the problems of nursing older people at McMaster University beginning August 28. Mr. Allen, a long time resident of Georgetown is a former Georgetown council member.

Mr. Allen said he would make a full report on the seminar upon his return from Hamilton.

Through the support of the National Council of Jewish Women and the co-operation of the School of Nursing, McMaster University the special lectures and panel leaders will discuss practical ways of helping older people retain mental stability and good physical mobility and of helping those who have lost these regains them.

Theme of the workshop, open to all persons actively engaged in the care of the aged, is "The Rehabilitative Potential of the Older Person." During the August 28 to September 3 period, the participants will live on the campus.

Says Mars Photos Evidence Of Authenticity of Bible

"Further evidence of the Bible's authenticity and accuracy can now be seen in the 21 pictures taken by the Mariner IV spacecraft recently released," said Mr. Taylor presiding minister of the congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Mr. Taylor was commenting on the statement which appeared in the press recently to the effect that "the photographs provide new evidence that planet earth is something special and unique in the solar system." This finding agrees completely with the Bible account in the first and second chapters of Genesis detailing the preparing and finishing of the earth by God for human habitation," Mr. Taylor said. He quoted a statement from the book "A Physician Examines the Bible" to the effect that,

"There are probably a thousand and conditions which would have to be fulfilled before man could inhabit the earth. Not only must there be light, many kinds of food, water, proper atmosphere, appropriate temperature, the nitrogen cycle, etc., but there are hundreds of them, local reactions in the body which contribute to man's life process. The chance that all this conditions for life would have been fulfilled by pure chance is one in billions."

Scotch Block Native Trustee Stone School

In encouraging the members of the local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses to attend and support the "Word of Truth" district assembly at the London Western Fairgrounds, August 26 to 28, Mr. Taylor explained that the program will provide those attending with scientific archaeological and other evidences of the Bible's correctness, testifying to the fact that faith in it will never be misplaced.

Member of one of Zedding's oldest families, Mrs. George A. Henderson, 88 died August 13 in Georgetown hospital after a short illness.

The former Marion Janet Black, who was the daughter and last surviving member of the family of George Washington Black and Janet Moore, was born in the Scotch Block, lived with her family in town for a few years before her marriage in 1911, and since had resided on No. 7 Highway between town and Silvercreek.

A member of Knox Presbyterian Church, she belonged to the Scotch Block Circle of the Women's Association. She was also an active member of Silverwood Women's Institute. She served as a school trustee of SS. 18, the old Stone School on the highway, for a number of years and had been a member of the Knox church choir.

She leaves a family of three children, Mrs. N. J. Thomas (Marjorie) of Guelph, George on the home farm and Mrs. Elmo Archibald (Janet) of
