Schurman of London. The Denhams were Georgetown residents before moving to London some years ago.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother Ronald A. Denham, Ottawa, wore a floor length gown of chintilly lace trimmed in satin. Sleeves were lily point and the bodice was styled in the empire design featuring an A-like skirt with a slight train. Her veil was floor length mantilla of silk illusion and she carried a nosegay of white roses, carnations, lily-of-the-valley and leather fern.

There were five attendants. Mrs. R. M. Reynolds was her sister's matron of honour. Bridesmaids were her sister-in-

Law, Mrs. Bruce R. Denham, her cousin, Misses June Urquhart and Sharon Moore and Mrs. Maureen Hudswell. They wore floor length gowns of mint green or gansa over satin, with empire waisted. A-line skirts and semi-circle headpieces of white mums. They carried nosegays of white mums.

The groom's brother, C. Davis Schurman, Woodstock was groomsmen. Ushers were another brother Jack Schurman, Toronto, the bride's brother Bruce Denham, London and Larry Olsson and Harry Roth, London.

Among wedding guests was the bride's grandmother Mrs. George Denham, 4 Academy Rd., Georgetown.

Mr. & Mrs. Schurman left for a honeymoon cruise in the Caribbean. The bride wore a dress and coat of white wool crepe trimmed with white hand-embroidered roses, the coat reversing to a white peau de soie evening coat. Her hat was of matching wool crepe, accessories were antique beige and she wore a corsage of cymbidium orchids in green and brown-tones.

Little Theatre Reading For 'Shrew' Production

The Georgetown Little Theatre is again launched on an ambitious programme for the coming year.

Spurred on by their successful venture into Shakespeare last year, their first production in October will be "The Taming of the Shrew," directed by Michael Polonschak. Readings for parts will take place September 1st and 2nd at 89 Edward Street.

Christmas time will see the over-charming tale of Cinderella brought to life, with this version both written and directed by Eric Ming.

This year's entry in the Western Ontario Drama Festival will be "The Caretakers," directed by Lynne Hyde, while the final offering will be Oscar Wilde's well known satire of the century "The Importance of Being Earnest." Director will be Betty Fisher.

A large scale membership and subscription drive is now underway, without which "live theatre" cannot be kept alive in Georgetown.

Mr. & Mrs. Schurman will live at 84 Lincoln Place, London.

Lois Denham Marries in Ceremony in London, Ont.

Two graduates of the University of Western Ontario were married on August 13 in Calgary, United Church, London.

Rev. D.A. Welsh officiated at the marriage of Lois Edna Denham, daughter of Mrs. William Arthur Denham, 427 Coombs Ave., London and the late Mr. Denham and George Edwin Schurman, son of Mr. & Mrs. Ursula J.G. Schurman of London. The Denhams were Georgetown residents before moving to London some years ago.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother Ronald A. Denham, Ottawa, wore a floor length gown of chintilly lace trimmed in satin. Sleeves were lily point and the bodice was styled in the empire design featuring an A-like skirt with a slight train. Her veil was floor length mantilla of silk illusion and she carried a nosegay of white roses, carnations, lily-of-the-valley and leather fern.

There were five attendants. Mrs. R. M. Reynolds was her sister's matron of honour. Bridesmaids were her sister-in-

Little Theatre Reading For 'Shrew' Production

The Georgetown Little Theatre is again launched on an ambitious programme for the coming year.

Spurred on by their successful venture into Shakespeare last year, their first production in October will be "The Taming of the Shrew," directed by Michael Polonschak. Readings for parts will take place September 1st and 2nd at 89 Edward Street.

Christmas time will see the over-charming tale of Cinderella brought to life, with this version both written and directed by Eric Ming.

This year's entry in the Western Ontario Drama Festival will be "The Caretakers," directed by Lynne Hyde, while the final offering will be Oscar Wilde's well known satire of the century "The Importance of Being Earnest." Director will be Betty Fisher.

A large scale membership and subscription drive is now underway, without which "live theatre" cannot be kept alive in Georgetown.

Mr. & Mrs. Schurman will live at 84 Lincoln Place, London.
