

DIGGING NEW CHANNEL FOR TROUBLESOME RIVER

FOUNDATIONS OF THE NEW two-lane bridge under construction at the western entrance to Glen Williams off the 9th line of Esquimaux indicates where the Credit branch, with a long record of unruliness will flow once a new channel is completed. In the background is the old single lane bridge which spans the river in its natural channel right at the 9th line. The rechanneling is a project of the Credit Valley Conservation Authority and is designed to deepen the river's course and eliminate sharp corners which have been the cause of ice jams during recent springs.

A BULLDOZER, one of several pieces of heavy equipment being used in the taming of the river, pushes earth against one of the new river banks in another part of the village where work is showing results. Here, behind St. Alban's Anglican Church, an artificial river bed is being carved out of a field which was under water during this year's flooding. The new course indicated by dotted lines, will take the river away from the base of a steep cliff which was moving back toward Glen cemetery through erosion. The natural course of the river here can be seen at the lower left corner.

Tell Clubwomen of Work with Alberta Indian Children

Mrs. Maurine Walker, newly elected president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, was in the chair for the regular meeting at the North Halton Golf and Country Club on Monday evening. During the business portion of the meeting, after the regular reports, it was decided after discussion, not to sponsor the Careers Preview program this year. It was felt that the program had been launched and that the High School could now carry this on to better advantage to their present needs, rather than the Club.

The club will again sell UNICEF Christmas cards, host notes and engagement booklets and the chairman was authorized to order several sample boxes. Plans were finalized for the Mummage Sale to be held in the Muckart Building, opposite the Legion, on Friday October 15th and 16th. Everyone was urged to canvass for goods of all kinds for this sale.

Plans were also finalized for the Regional Meeting to be held at Prudhomme, St. Catharines, on October 30th and 31st. Seven and possibly nine members will represent the local club. This Regional conference, comprising three regions, is a new pilot project and it is hoped that it will be most successful.

The president presented a past-president's pin to Mrs. Gladys Aiken who resigned owing to the fact that her family had moved to Weston.

Miss Prior, an exchange teacher from Kent, England, was introduced as a guest and spoke briefly on her experience since coming to Canada five weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Perrott were introduced as guest speakers of the evening. Mr. Perrott is assistant principal of Holy Cross School and Mrs. Perrott is a kindergarten teacher. They have recently come to town from Alberta, where they have been teaching Indian children.

Their talk was an illustrated one and thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present. They had taught at a reserve on Manitoulin Island prior to teaching children from a reserve south of Calgary and Mr. Perrott had worked during the summer with Indians of the Alkali reserve. Listening to them and watching their pictures gave one a clearer insight into the nature and problems of the Indians. Beautiful examples of the Indian crafts were displayed and explained. Mrs. Aileen Bradley expressed the appreciation of the club to Mr. and Mrs. Perrott. The meeting closed with the Club benediction.

Great - Grandmother's Cameo Worn by Bride at Brampton Vows

Recently married in Harrison's United Church, Mr. and Mrs. James Stuart Richardson are making their home at 14 John St., Orangeville. The groom who graduated from Lakeshore Teachers College, is a member of the teaching staff of Arthur public school. His bride is employed as secretary with the T. J. Lipton Co., Bramalea.

The bride, Donna Marie Black, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Black, R.R. 1, Brampton and is a graduate of Central Peel Secondary School. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robin Richardson, Brampton, and lived in Norval when his parents operated a grocery store there. He attended Georgetown high school.

(Rev. William Wilkinson, a cousin of the bride, assisted Rev. R. Pike in the wedding ceremony. Mrs. Orval Hostrawser was organist and the junior choir, for which the bride is leader, sang O Perfect Love and Wedding Prayer. The church was decorated with white and peach gladioli.

The bride wore a full length empire style peau de chamois gown with an A-line skirt. The dress had a scooped neck and long pointed sleeves. The waistline was accented with lace applique. A train was attached at the neckline with a bow, and edges were trimmed with lace applique. She wore a scalloped shoulder length veil, and a cameo brooch which had belonged to her great-grandmother. Her wedding bouquet was of white baby mums and a purple-throated white orchid.

Mrs. Lorna Spelrs was her cousin's matron of honour. Mrs. Gill Godden and Mrs. Ann Haw were bridesmaids, and two cousins of the bride, Shirley Harrison and Sandra Wilson were junior bridesmaids.

band. Their dresses had scooped necklines and elbow length sleeves. They wore a large pink rose in their hair and a train was attached to their gowns with a large bow at the neckline. They carried bouquets of pink sweetheart roses and white baby mums.

The junior bridesmaids were gowned in floor length dresses of hot pink peau de chamois with empire waists and A-line skirts, with underlying pleat in front. The waist was accented with pink velvet ribbon tied in a bow at the back and their headdress was a large bow. They carried baskets of pink sweetheart roses and white baby mums.

Mr. Black gave his daughter in marriage in the double ring ceremony. John McCauley, Brampton was groomsmen and ushers were Robert Black, Brampton and William Richardson, Georgetown, brothers of the bride and groom.

Mothers of the bride and groom received afterwards at the Thunderbird Motel. Mrs. Black wore an autumn green beaded sheath, gold and green accessories and a corsage of yellow orchids. The groom's mother wore a powder blue sheath with chiffon collar falling off the shoulder, blue feather hat and a pink orchid corsage.

For a honeymoon trip to northern and eastern Ontario and Montreal, the bride chose a navy dress with A-line skirt, neck and sleeves accented with ruffles, red accessories and a white orchid corsage.

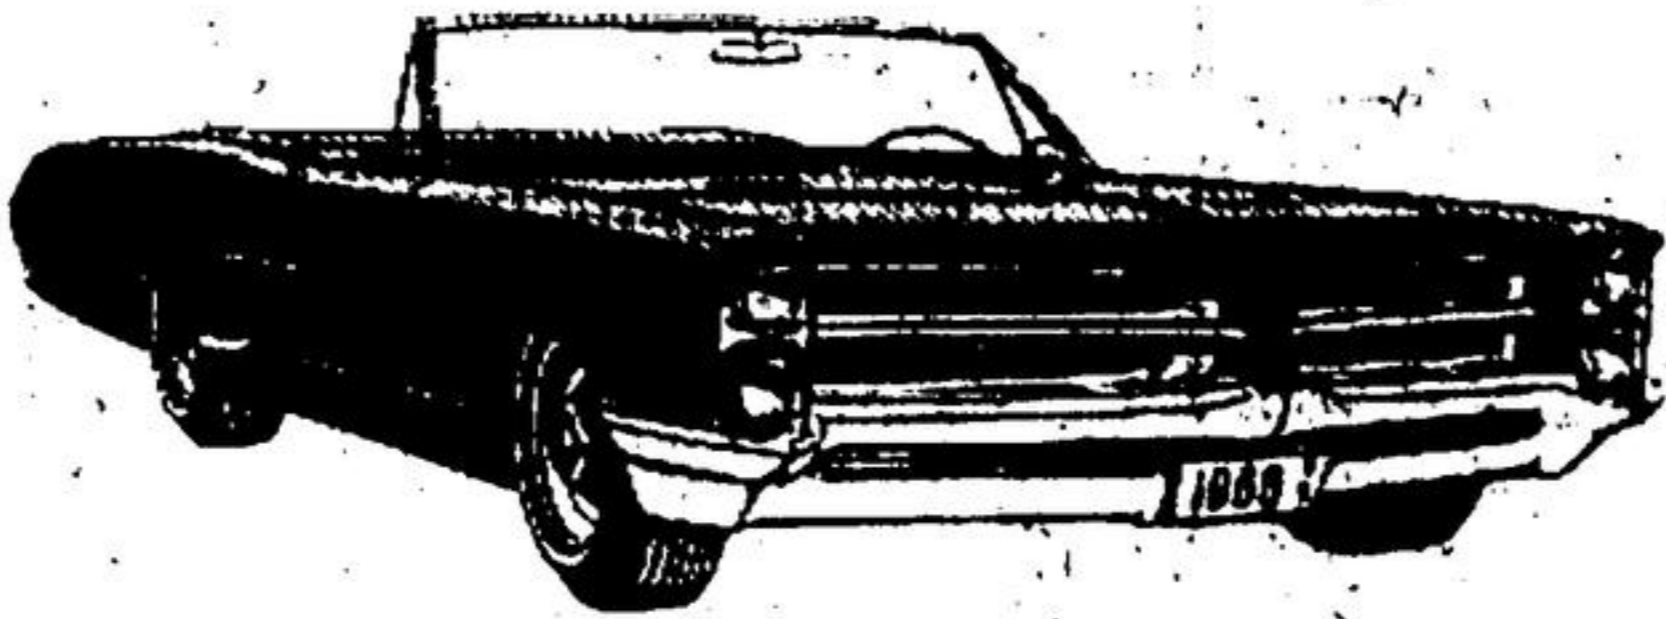

Among the wedding guests were the bride's grandparents Mrs. Edna Heep and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Black. Guests were from Alma, London, Gorrie, Burford, Oakville, Hamilton, Lillington, Weston, Bolton, Georgetown, Arthur and Norval.
