

Huttonville Fears River Widening To Affect Them

Concern is being expressed by residents on the Credit River in Huttonville, that operations of widening the river at Glen Williams is going to affect them. They are also concerned that nothing appears to have been done to prevent a recurrence of the flooding experienced at Huttonville in February of this year.

Chingacousy Council has scheduled a special meeting this week with James A. Knox, of Canadian Mitchell Associates, to learn what his firm has determined following a survey on the Credit River in the Terra Cotta and Meadowvale area for the Federal authorities.

Mr. Knox told council he had submitted a proposal for the work at the Huttonville dam, but the Credit Valley Conservation Authority appears to have taken no action yet on the proposals.

Frank Lyons, township representative on the Credit Valley Conservation Authority, put the blame for this squarely on the shoulders of H. H. Parker, flood and pollution control officer for the Authority.

"At the meeting last Thursday I brought up the question of Huttonville and put it right on him," Mr. Lyons added. "I think Mr. Knox you will be hearing from Mr. Parker shortly."

Last Thursday's meeting of the Conservation Authority was held for the first time in the new headquarters at Meadowvale.

Mrs. Ella Prue, Huttonville resident, said that a large number of the residents were angry because work is being done on the river at other places than Huttonville.

"Is there any guarantee that people above us at Norval won't be blasting again this winter if the ice threatens our property?" asked Mrs. Prue.

"We are going to recommend that the Conservation Act be changed," said Mr. Lyons. "The Authority is bound because the Conservation Act forbids us to do certain things. There is no clearcut policy for the future," he said. "As far as I know there is nothing to cover this blasting situation."

"Norval is not in our township or county," said Deputy-towns Edward Blair.

Government Select Committee Tours Credit River District

The Select Committee of the Legislature studying Conservation Acts in the province, made a tour of the Credit Valley watershed Tuesday, travelling from Orangeville to Meadowvale by chartered bus.

The Select Committee was set up earlier this year to study the constitution and powers of such Authorities, their systems of financing and ability to pay their share of any endeavour the authorities powers to acquire and appropriate and their administrative practices.

At the conclusion of the tours, throughout the province hearings are to commence and each Authority has been asked to submit briefs to the committee by Oct. 15th. Briefs have also been invited from municipalities, commissions and individuals.

About 10 people made up the select committee and included Parquhar Oliver, Gordon Pettick, Donald C. McDonald, NDP provincial leader, and George Kerr, MPP for Halton County. Members of the Credit Valley Conservation Authority also took part.

Frank Lyons, of Cheltenham, Chingacousy Twp. representative on the Credit Valley Authority said he felt that representations should be made at the committee's hearings wherever they are held, to have something done about the Huttonville pond.

It is most essential that the pond be kept there," he said.

"At last Thursday's conservation meeting," said Mr. Lyons, "I brought up the question of straightening the Credit River near Camp Nyvelt, but a property owner would benefit and he should be asked to contribute to the cost."

He said it would require a three-way split in the cost, amounting to $500 each. "If it was Conservation land there would be no trouble, we could go ahead, but the Conservation Act ties our hands up very tight."

Learns About Contempt Lectured by Magistrate

A youthful gum chewing spectator in Georgetown magistrate's court got a lesson in court etiquette Wednesday from magistrate D. A. Graham of Toronto.

The youth was offended when Magistrate Graham instructed an officer to remove "that fellow chewing gum" from the court room during a case.

As he was led away the young man muttered something and the magistrate called him back to the bench.

"Take the gum out of your mouth," magistrate Graham ordered. The youth did so. "Now what did you say?" he asked. "I said punks."

"Who were you referring to?" "I was referring to everybody."

"Do you realize that you can be held in contempt of court? Do you realize that you can go to jail for contempt?" the magistrate asked.

The youth said he didn't realize it was serious, and at the magistrate's suggestion apologized to the court.

"Now remove this man from the room," magistrate Graham told the policeman.

As he was led away a second time the young man remained silent.

LET'S PLAY BRIDGE

BY BILL COATS

Do you like to pick up a big hand? How do you do with 21 points when the opponents bid your best suit. Do you punish them as they should be punished?

A good example of this occurred last week at the Arton Bridge Club. This is board number 12. The dealer is east and north-south - see vulnerable.

North
S-7 4 3
H-10 7 5 4 3
D-K J 10 7
C-9

West East
S-Q 10 8 6 S-8 3
H-A Q H-8 6
D-A 3 D-Q 9 6 5 3
C-A K 10 7 3 C-8 4 3

South
S-A K J 9
H-K 9 3
D-8 4
C-Q J 8 6

The bidding:

West South West North
Pass 1 C Dble. All Pass
1 D 1 S Dble. All Pass

Look at West's hand. Nineteen points in high cards and two points for distribution - 21 points in all. When South opens one club, West doubles. This is an opening bid and requesting partner to bid his best suit. East obliged by bidding his diamond suit. South didn't feel like giving up so he bid one spade.

West figured that, since North-South were vulnerable, the best way to make points was to set South a few tricks for his indiscretion.

West lead the club king in order to get a look at dummy. When a singleton club showed up he switched to a trump to ruff down club ruffs in dummy. South won and lead the club queen but West refuses to cover so South discarded a heart from dummy. The club jack was led covered by West, and ruffed in dummy. A heart was lead and ducked all around to West's queen.

West didn't like the idea of giving South another free finesse in trump so he lead the ace of diamonds and a small diamond. Dummy's king of diamonds won and a heart was lead - West's ace winning.

West is in a spot since he has no good lead. If he leads a club dummy will ruff and if he leads a spade, declarer gets a free finesse. If West is not careful, South will make an overtrick.

Why do I present this hand? It is a reminder to some and a lesson to others that good doubles are not always made on strong hands. If East-West's points were more evenly distributed between the two hands I am sure South would have been set. Think twice before you double with a big hand - you may be so strong that you'll have trouble getting off the lead.

Last week's winners were: 1st, Harry Frost and Bill Hutton; second, Bill Harbour and Bob Dickson; third, Jack Coats and Mrs. A. Dawson.

Munday's winners: 1st pair, Lou Bertasson, Jack Coats; 2nd pair, Cam Sinclair, Bill Coats; 3rd pair, Duke Wilson, Dick Frost.

Colour Tour Enjoyed By Senior Citizens

Georgetown Senior Citizens aboard a chartered bus enjoyed a colour tour Thursday that took them through some of the most picturesque parts of the vicinity. The weather did its best to spoil the trip but the forty young-at-heart who took the excursion didn't apparently mind that the scenery was rain-soaked.

"We had so much fun that we are not even sure now where we drove," one of the tourists commented after. "It was a most enjoyable trip in spite of the really dismal weather," she said.

The party stopped at Chingacousy Golf and Country Club at Inglewood for afternoon tea.

The Senior Citizens Club's next project is a bake sale at the United Gas Office Oct. 29.
