

WHAT THEY'RE SAYING WITH TIME RUNNING OUT THE CANDIDATES STEP UP FIGHT

IN GEORGETOWN the major party headquarters' stand like bookends at the north and south ends of the downtown business section. This is a view of the Masson campaign office at 39 Main St. S.

THE GEORGETOWN LIBERALS have located campaign headquarters in a vacant garage at 64 Main St. N. Signs on the building proclaim that "Liberal Times Are Good Times."

With less than two weeks to go to voting day candidates for Halton riding's seat in the House of Commons have accelerated their campaigns with speaking engagements at the coffee parties and public meetings throughout the riding almost a daily occurrence.

NEW DEMOCRATS
Murray Kernighan the New Democratic standard bearer, speaking at a meeting in Milton on Saturday pledged $200,000 to completely free University education.

He said the amount was twenty times bigger and more realistic than the Liberal party pledge.

The N.D.P. candidate described higher education as an answer for the National unity problem, the increased leisure time problem, and unemployment.

At the same meeting he challenged his Halton opponents to publish their finances during the campaign, instead of afterwards. He outlined his own finances which include $1,000 from the Steelworkers Area Council, $1,000 from Oakville and District Labour Council, $100 from the Halton N.D.P. Association, $100 from Local 1256 of the C.I.C., $50 from Acton United Rubber workers and $5 from Clarkson C.I.C.

INDEPENDENT CONSERVATIVE
A Georgetown stock broker and area farmer entered the race last week making it a four horse race in the riding. The 38 year old R.E. Iman attacked the Liberals in his first public statements, claiming they had carried out a poor foreign policy and drummed up a phony issue of a divided Canada.

Henry Timmins says the major election issue is to get rid of the Liberal government.

Mr. Timmins said he will attend all Meet The Candidate nights beginning with meetings in Acton Nov. 1 and Milton Nov. 4. He said he plans to visit people in all municipalities in the county during his campaign.

PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE
"Where ever I go I find people are not too happy with the Liberals," PC hopeful Allan Masson said this week after a heavy schedule of coffee parties and meetings.

On Thursday he spoke to a hundred and fifty history students in Burlington, separate school students in Oakville, and still found time for some main streeting and visits to shopping plazas.

Mr. Masson said people are swinging to the PCs because of a demand for honesty and integrity in government. He said there is no other alternative for people who wish to see the Liberal government swept out of office because there is no other party capable of taking over the reins.

LIBERAL
Dr. Harry Harley, the Liberal member of the last parliament, said he would be holding public meetings in Nassagaweya and Esquesing in an effort to personally reach the rural population.

He said he has found Halton farmers reacting favourably to the Liberal agricultural policies in the past 2 1/2 years.

Giants Baseball Pitcher Takes Bride in Ottawa

In a double ring ceremony in St. Basil's Church, Ottawa, at noon on Saturday, October 2, Marianne Jean Pitton became the bride of James Bernard Lindsay. The bride, a registered nurse at St. Joseph's Hospital, Guelph, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard G. Pitton of Ottawa. The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Lindsay, 119 Crescent St., Acton, is a salesman with Beardmore and Co. He is a pitcher with Georgetown Giants baseball team and his father is also well known in town, having managed the Georgetown ball team for the past two seasons.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white embossed brocade with round neckline and long sleeves, its front panel extending to the bustle back and fastening in a bow at the waistline. A caplet of brocade held her embroidered net veil — the same veil she had worn in her First Communion.

She carried a bouquet of large white chrysanthemums and wheat.

Her maid of honour was Miss Mary Jefferson, who wore an empire styled gown, its bodice in spruce green velvet and the skirt of pale green brocade. She carried large bronze chrysanthemums with wheat.

Junior bridesmaid, Miss Mary Jane Lindsay wore a spruce green velvet empire styled gown with pale green brocade bow and streamers. Her bouquet was of yellow chrysanthemums with wheat.

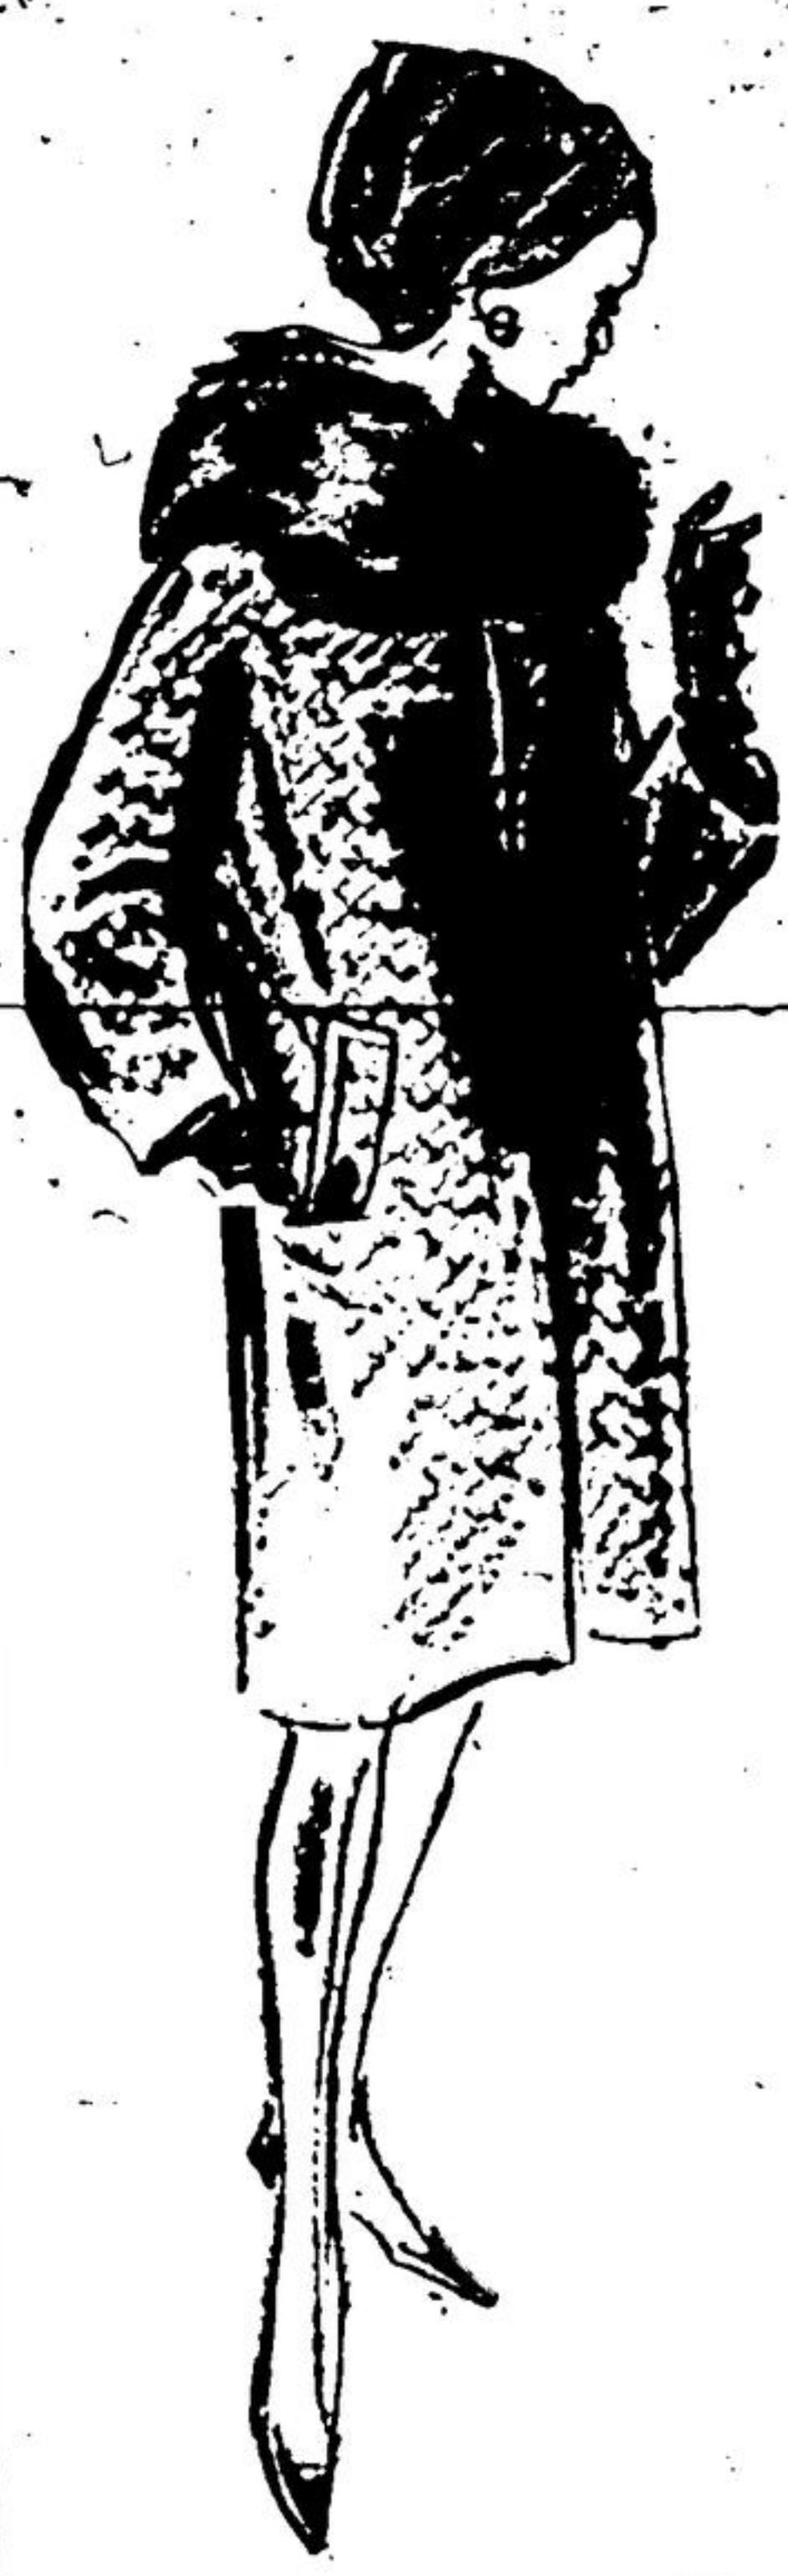

Groomsmen were Bruce McArthur, Acton. Ushers were Ronald Pitton, brother of the bride, and Daniel Stringer, Ottawa.

Wedding breakfast was in the Golden Lotus dining room at Ottawa airport.

Guests were present from Guelph, Burlington, Welland, Belleville, Kingston, Toronto, Rockwood and Hamilton, as well as Ottawa and Acton.

The couple left on a motor trip to Quebec and the eastern States. She left wearing a white wool coat dress with red and black accessories.

"They are making their home at 341 Westcott Rd., Acton."
