

ONTARIO SALESMAN IN MIDDLE EAST — Harry Regier, export manager of the Canadian Coleman Co. Ltd., Toronto, demonstrates a Canadian-made portable ice cooler to Arab traders in the Middle East. Mr. Regier is a member of the 49th Ontario Trade Mission currently travelling through eight Middle East countries. The sales group is sponsored by the Ontario Department of Economics and Development. The Trade Mission in its first two weeks has been assured of over $100,000 in domestic appliance sales in the Middle East.

Where Were You When The Lights Went Out?

"What were you doing when the hydro failed last Tuesday?" was the question asked of the following.

"I was in the office building in Toronto, where I work, about to get on an elevator. When the lights went off, I had to walk down six flights of stairs, all by myself in the pitch dark, but it was better than being stuck in the elevator." Mrs. June Gosling.

"I was driving home, when everything blacked out. When I got home we had no candles, nor supper, so we just sat around in the dark with coats on." Tony Hayward.

"We got out our camp stove and lantern, and made out just fine." Gene Green.

"We had a leisurely supper, cooked on a grill in the fireplace, then ate by candle light." Mrs. Betty Halfant.

"We sat around by candlelight and scared each other with stories of invasion from outer space." John Sawmuer.

"I was in the middle of giving a man a hair cut, so was the other barber, we had to leave them with half a haircut. They sat and waited for an hour, but had to come back the next day for the rest of the haircut." Wright Smith, Main St. barber.

"We got out our Coleman stove and lantern and continued
