Metal Tree? Nix Lights Fire Chief's Advice

The Christmas tree which brings joy to children can also be a terrible threat to the little ones unless parents follow all the safety rules for a happy fire-free holiday season. Fire Chief Erwin Lewis warned yesterday that a happy Christmas can change in a few seconds to a family tragedy in a home where the rules are neglected.

The Fire Chief calls on the public once more this year to pay special attention to the following points:

Buy a fresh green tree and keep it outdoors or in an unheated garage until you are ready to decorate it. Once indoors, keep the tree in water, after cutting off one or two inches from the butt. Replenish the water supply at regular intervals.

Check electric lighting strings for frayed cords or short circuits. Buy only C.S.A. approved lighting sets, and only non-flammable decorations.

Make the tree a non-smoking area, and keep matches out of the reach of little hands.

Clear gift wrappings away from the base of the tree as soon as the gifts are opened. Have a large carton handy, just in case.

Even a moist tree will burn if ignited by wrapping around the base.

Be sure the tree is set up well away from such sources of heat as fireplace, radiators, or TV sets. Be sure also that it does not block access to doors or windows in the event of fire.

Especially at Christmas never leave small children unattended in the home.

Switch off tree lights when leaving home or going to bed, and have a happy, fire-free Christmas.

Chief Lewis points out that tests have proved that a tree set up with its base in water is the safest tree. If the tree has already dried out before it is set up, however, it cannot regain its safe moisture level. A dry tree can be ignited by a match, to burn violently to a charred state in 18 seconds.

Extra attention to fire precautions, says the Fire Chief, should head the list of a sensible family's preparations for a happy Christmas season.

Promissory note: political promises to provide more are also promises to tax more.

Settle Jail Issue, Plan Combination with Peel

County Council decided at a special meeting Wednesday to negotiate with Peel County on a regional detention centre to serve the two municipalities.

Acton deputy-reeve Roy Goodwin claimed the project would cost Halton and extra $100,000 over its share in the Hamilton-Wentworth-Halton jail.

Figures compiled by the department of reforms institution showed Halton's share in the Peel-Halton complex would be $277,000 or 48 per cent.

The figures indicate that the county would have to pay $1.66 per each resident in Halton.

Peel's share is $770,000 at per cent — or $2.85 per capita.

Halton's decision to negotiate with Peel on a jail comes after Hamilton and Wentworth decided to build their detention centre without Halton.

The county has been holding up proceedings on that jail through an unwillingness to join a project that doesn't include Peel.

Discussion on the jail subject took about two hours with some spirited councilors proposing that Halton drop everything.

DROP ISSUE

"I would say we drop the whole damn issue," Oakville deputy reeve Lester Whiting said. "We don't need a jail for five years; what are we sitting here for?"

A recorded vote carried the motion for Halton to negotiate with Peel. Voting against the motion were Reeve Gordon Galagher and deputy-reeve Frank Rogers representatives of Burlington, deputy-reeve Roy Goodwin of Acton and Oakville deputy-reeve Lester Whiting.

The vote was 19 to 13.

HELP KIN HELP KIDDIES

Just a few of the gifts you'll receive when you give her an Automatic Gas Range or Dryer for Christmas

You know the gifts you always get anyway: five pairs of insufferable socks, a troupe of tattooed lies, at least one unsporting sports shirt, and a pair of pink and purple polka-dot pyjamas... this Christmas, why not get a year-full of gifts you'll really appreciate?

Gifts like: Thick, juicy steaks cooked under the smokeless flame broiler of the gas range. Soft, fluffy towels washed gently dry in the gas dryer. Vegetables still tasty and hot even though you got home from the office two hours late. (They've been temperature controlled by the gas range's 'Burner With a Brain.' Wash-n-Wear shirts, dry and wrinkle-free after just minutes in the automatic gas dryer. These are just a few of the gifts you will get when you give her an automatic gas range or dryer for Christmas. But don't breathe a word to your own Mrs. Claus.

Visit your gas appliance dealer, department store or gas company showroom and arrange for delivery of a new automatic gas range or dryer. (We might even be able to get it down the chimney.)
