Presentation Ceremony as Nurses Complete Course as Instructors

During the month of April, twenty four registered nurses completed the instructor's course in Red Cross First Aid. These nurses, who are now qualified to teach first aid, met in the Cafeteria of the Georgetown and District Memorial Hospital on Tuesday, June 21st, to receive their pins and certificates.

Mrs. Mary Simpson, Home Nursing and First Aid chairman, introduced the guests and local branch executives.

Mayor Joseph Gibbons extended greetings from the town, and congratulated the nurses on their perseverance to continue their education.

The program consisted of two films. Mr. W. B. McGregor, Co-ordinator of Halton County Emergency Measures Organization, gave a short resume on the first film: "Though the Earth Be Moved," which was photographed during the earthquake in Alaska on Good Friday, 1965. It is through the daring of the cameramen aboard a large ocean vessel, berthed alongside the wharf in the Anchorage Harbor, that this disaster was completely recorded. The spirit in which the Alaskans faced this crisis was remarkable.

Mrs. Bette Stanley, who is Red Cross Public Relation Co-ordinator of the Blood Transfusion Services for Metropolitan Toronto, introduced the second film "Innovations in Blood Transfusion Therapy." Through the use of plastic packs (which have replaced the glass bottles) advances in the treatment of blood diseases, such as Leukemia and Haemophilia, have been made possible. After the film, Mrs. Stanley informed the group of experimental work being carried out at the blood depot of the Ontario Division in Toronto. Many members of the staff are taking an active part.

Those present were impressed with the high quality of the films and felt that they should be seen by everyone in the medical field and those who could be involved in disaster services.

The films were shown by Mr. Dan Scarborough, Chief of the Georgetown Volunteer Ambulance Service, and Mr. Fred Whittaker, Administrator of the Georgetown and District Memorial Hospital.

The following nurses enrolled in the instructor's course:

One Soaking Better Than Sprinkling For Gardens

by Gordon Lindsay Smith R. R. 1, Georgetown

WHEN WATERING

A lot of mistakes in using the hose are made by those unfamiliar with the likes and dislikes of grass and other plants. One thorough soaking of the lawn or garden that will take the moisture down a couple of inches is worth a dozen sprinklings and it will last for some time. Sprinkling never gets the moisture down, more than a fraction of an inch and the roots must come up to the surface to get it, thus exposing themselves more and more to drying and killing by heat and sun. Heavy soaking, however, does not mean turning the nozzle on full blast. The nearer we get to a fine mist the better as soon after watering as possible it is advisable to cultivate to create a loose spongy top on the soil to block evaporation. And in the rose garden especially it is never advisable to water in the evening as that will encourage fungus growth. Early in the morning is the safest time.

EXTRA LIVING

There is no reason why all the ground around the modern home, front and rear, cannot be turned into an attractive and convenient living space, especially the secluded part at the rear of the house. Actually, properly shaded with lots of lawn, it can serve as an outdoors living room and particularly if there is a door and big low windows immediately facing it. Then we can sit in the regular living room and see through into the garden, to the lawn, the flowers and the shrubs and vice versa. In that case the lawn is another big cheerful room like a sun porch. Still more useful it is an excellent idea to have an electrical outlet or two outside, where lights and appliances can be plugged in.
