Report Record Hay Crop Dry Pastures, Less Milk

After three weeks of warm dry weather, haying is finished on many of our Halton farms. Several report a record hay crop with an average yield of over 2 tons per acre. Yields of 200 bales per acre or 4 tons have been reported. The two heavy rainfalls in early June caused the hay crop and especially the broom to grow rapidly. Thus farmers will be able once again to fill up barns that had been emptied from the poorer crop in 1965 and from the sale of hay to Eastern Ontario and the United States.

One-Tenth Inch Rain

The fields that were harvested in early June are growing a good second crop of alfalfa. However, there has been no growth on fields harvested during the past two weeks due to lack of rainfall. Less than one-tenth inch has fallen on central and northern Halton since June 15th.

Pastures are drying out and the grasses and clovers maturing. This is resulting in a lower milk production.

Not Normal Growth

The winter wheat crop looks very good with very little winter killing and enough height to produce considerable bedding for the livestock farmer. Early seeded oats and barley looks good, but will require an early rain if it is going to fill properly and produce plump seed. Late seeded grain crops have not grown as well as normal.

Excellent Control

Atrazine has given excellent control of weeds when applied in early June, just before or immediately after the June rains. Many farmers who did not use this herbicide have very weedy fields. Several have cultivated the corn crop. During the past two weeks, cultivation is drying out the soil resulting in withering of the corn leaves. Roots are being broken off by deep cultivation which will further decrease yields. Unless sufficient rain falls in the near future, corn yields will be below normal.

Seek More Esqueuing Money For Township Fire Calls

Termining payments received from Esqueuing Fire Area "inadequate", Cr. Arthur Speight on Monday moved to negotiate a new agreement with the township for services of Georgetown fire department in part of Esqueuing.

Deputy Reeve Young supported him. "Acton has been receiving better payments than us for some years," said the deputy. Council voted to notify the township that the present agreement would be terminated at the end of three months.

For several years, Georgetown has served the surrounding rural area. Esqueuing originally purchased a fire truck which is housed and serviced in Georgetown.

most of the off-beat alarms, cats perched atop telephone poles, has not been a problem lately. "People are getting smarter. They're starting to realize if the stranded kitty is left alone she'll come down by herself."

Bat In Room Takes The Cake

The bat takes the cake. That was Georgetown Fire Department Chief Erwin Lewis' exclamation when telling The Herald about the most recent of unusual requests made of people seeking aid from the Department.

But even when this frantic damsel in distress asked the aid of the firefighters in removing a bat from her bedroom last week the Department Chief wasn't too surprised.

It was just one more in a long list of queer emergencies for which people have called the firemen.

"We've been asked to remove bees from chimneys, birds from drain pipes, dogs from culverts and just about everything else from predicaments. We've even asked from time to time to come to a caller's house to identify an odour."
