

Four Georgetown District Farms Have New Owners

A number of well-known Georgetown farms have changed ownership recently. The 200 acre Alexander farm on the 8th Line, a few miles south of town, has been sold by owner Robert Alexander to C.F. Lampe, who lives at Hildesheim, Germany, near Hanover.

Mr. Lampe has engaged Gerhard Treviranus as farm manager and Mr. and Mrs. Treviranus and their family arrived from Germany a few weeks ago and have now taken up residence in the farmhouse. Mr. Treviranus is familiar with this district. In 1953 he came out from Germany to learn Canadian farming methods, and was employed for a time on a farm at Meadowdale, and later in other parts of Canada.

Returning to Germany three years later, he had his own farm there. He is a B.S.C.A. graduate of Herford Agricultural School there. His mother-in-law is presently visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Treviranus and their children, Jutta, who will be starting school in the fall, Hans, Barbara and Gerhard, Jr.

The Alexander sale included the Alexholme holstein herd as well as buildings and implements. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander and family are moving to town, where he has purchased the Rexway Drive home of Mrs. Bernard Bebenek.

Dr. Ernest W. Brown is the new owner of the Denney Charles farm on the 5th Line. A psychiatrist at South Peel hospital, he is a Toronto native and University of Toronto graduate. His wife, Jean McLaughlin, comes from Palmerston. They have moved here from Cooksville with their three young children, Jeffrey and Catherine, who will be attending Limehouse school, and Carolyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles have retained a portion of the farm which abuts the Check Line and are planning to build a new home there. Meanwhile they are living for the present in a house on the Roger Vincent farm nearby.

Another recent sale is that of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Curry, whose property at the 5th Line and Check Line corner has been purchased by a Burlington man, Alton Breck.

The Breckons also have three children, two girls of high school age and a boy in high school. The Currys are remaining on the farm for a time until the Burlington family moves here later this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Loozeley of Oakville have moved into their new farm home on the sixth Line which they purchased from Fred McNeill. The property was formerly owned by the late J.J. Thompson.

First Class Graduates Heavy Equipment School

An experimental heavy equipment school run by the Ontario Department of Education and sponsored by the construction industry graduated its first class this week.

The Halton school is the first in Ontario. The only other school of its kind in Canada is located in British Columbia.

The graduation was termed an amazing success by Principal C. C. Lloyd who added that the nine-week course offered by the school had surpassed all expectations.

Heavy equipment at the school and the grounds on which the school is located have all been loaned by the heavy equipment industry of the province through the cooperation of the Ontario Road Builders' Association.

Visit Cattle Breeders Barns 4-H Members Learn of Quality

On Thursday, July 14th, a bus load of Senior 4-H Calf Club members in Halton County travelled to the Central Ontario Cattle Breeders' head office at Maple. Dr. Beeds, general manager of the Unit, discussed the history of artificial insemination, from its beginning in 1941 to the present.

Members were shown through the barns, where they looked over each bull, through the laboratory, and freezing room.

Merv McQuarrie, who is in charge of sire analyses, then spoke to the Club members. He stated that no one can call himself a breeder, unless he uses production testing and type classification in his herd. By production testing or the use of R.I.P. or D.H.I.A., the guess work can be taken out of the dairy operation, and steady milk producers can be determined.

Type classification is an unbiased guide of the animal by a qualified person. Both production testing and type classification are now required for sale of livestock to foreign markets. Mr. McQuarrie stated that artificial insemination has been improving production and type of livestock greatly over the past twenty years.

The 4-H Club members were then given examples of selective mating, to guide them in their 4-H project which they will carry out on their own farm. Following a lunch at the Central Ontario Unit, members travelled to the farms of Mel Armstrong, and Aubrey Livingstone in Peel County.
