

CENTENNIAL PROJECT — First of a Series

IN GEORGETOWN, THE BIRTHDAY PRESENT HAS ALREADY BEEN OPENED

Canada's birthday year is just forty-five days away, but already Georgetown's Centennial project is proving its worth. The Cedarvale building in Centennial Park on Main Street S. is a beehive of activity these nights. Because of the large number of rooms it's possible for several local organizations to carry on meetings, hold rehearsals, or stage work sessions at the same time and this they do as anyone who visited the building on a weekday evening will attest to. In order to make the public aware of the good use being made of the Centennial building The Herald is inaugurating this week a photo series focusing on activities there. The following pictures were taken on a Tuesday evening.

IN A GROUND LEVEL MEETING ROOM one of the YMCA-YWCA sponsored clubs, the Handicapped Club meets to discuss their upcoming season. Talking it over are Lois Darch, Doris Mendham, Jack Wilde, Dalton Bastedo and Clifford Lesperance.

EVEN SERVICE CLUBS FIND THE BUILDING'S warm sitting room ideal for a conclave. Here the Rotary Club holds a regular session.

EARLIER IN THE YEAR the Pallet and the Pencil Club, another Y-backed group, held a painting session on the Centennial Park grounds. Now they find a spacious room inside the building is just right for their regular meetings.

BOYS' LAUGHTER used to rebound off the walls of the audi classes. Now the rafters ring with barbershop harmony. Here, the SPEBSQSA, is caught tuning up for a future engagement.

Maple Baptist Church Folk Bid Pastor Woods Farewell

His last Sunday as pastor of Maple Avenue Baptist Church was a memorable one for Rev. Bruce Woods.

Mr. Woods preached to large congregations at both the morning and evening services, many of which had been won to the Lord under his ministry. The morning service was followed by a communion service, and in the evening there was a baptismal service with six believers being baptized.

After the evening service there was a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Woods at a social gathering of over one hundred and fifty of his friends. The church's young people performed a short program of music and presented him with a desk set. Two presentations were made on behalf of the church, a purse of money and a silver tea service.

Leaders representing each organization of the church took part expressing their appreciation for his ministry and their prayers for God's blessing upon Mr. and Mrs. Woods and their children. The ladies of the church served refreshments and everyone had an opportunity for a personal word with Mr. and Mrs. Woods.

Mr. Woods has been called to Ruthemorton Church in Vancouver. In his six years here he guided Maple Avenue Baptist church in its building program, and led its growth from a small group to a membership of 110.

Stress Physical Fitness in Talk To Chiropractors

Chiropractors from all parts of Ontario gathered in Toronto last Saturday to hear Dean Miller, one of the most sought after speakers on Physical Fitness. Dean Miller originated and developed the exercises for the "Man in Space Programme" for the United States Government.

Donald A. Gay D.C., well-known local chiropractor, attended the session.

Dean Miller was invited to Toronto as part of a Program for Canadian Physical Fitness which is a project sponsored by the Canadian Chiropractic College.

Miller's method of exercise recognizes the boredom involved in morning push-ups and that physical fitness is not bulging biceps but stamina and endurance involving the cardiovascular system.

Miller urged Chiropractors to become more involved with physical fitness in the younger generation and suggested Chiropractors offer their skills to high school football teams, for example, as a community service.
