

Removal Plant Will Solve Rusty Water Problem

ABC men direct replacing of fill around the foundation of the Georgetown iron removal plant.

No, it's not a swimming pool being built down by the entrance to Cedarvale Community Centre, as someone said the other day. It is an iron removal plant being erected at a cost of $130,000 adjacent to the water works.

The iron removal plant will do just what it says, it will remove the iron content from the water, which at present is creating the rust condition in some parts of town.

The building itself will be thirty one by forty five feet, two stories high, and will look like the waterworks. The two large filters will be in this building. The large concrete area behind, which at present does look like a swimming pool, will be the iron oxide backwash basin. The iron oxide will be trapped here.

Town foreman Frank Moretto explained that there may be more rust evident in the water while the building is going on, since the service has to be disrupted occasionally by shutting off the reservoir and feeding directly from the pumps. This, in turn lowers the pressure. When the pressure is returned to its normal 130 pounds per square inch, the water is rolled up, and with it any iron content.

The work is being done by Armstrong Brothers, and was recommended by the OWBC.

Since the automation of the water works is being done in conjunction with the iron removal plant, it will take about a year until the whole project is completed.

Georgetown People May Soon Be Asked for Eye Donations

Georgetown and district residents may soon be asked to pledge their eyes to Eye Bank. Success of such a campaign in Acton recently was recognized Monday night, November 14 when the Halton County Advisory Board of the Canadian National Institute of the Blind held their annual meeting there.

Acton people donated 148 pairs of eyes this year when asked for pledges. "Other centres will soon be asked to do the same thing. You fellows sure started a fire," chairman Murray Fisher commented at the meeting. A Georgetown member of the Board, Dick Léca, told The Herald that Georgetown is one of those "other centres."

Field secretary, partially sighted Bill Lawson of Hamilton spoke on the present Halton eye bank, an all-time high, and the specialized services including registration, job placement, Hamilton workshop library services, Lake Joseph camp, prevention, the 16 children registered etc.

He showed the taped books, plastic braille cookbooks, "marked" decks of cards, abacus for the blind, Braille typewriter, an adaptation of checkers, cribbage thermometers and clocks to aid the sightless.

He reviewed and explained the financial statement, showing income from donations throughout Halton and a provincial grant of $10 per capita amounting last year to $830. Expenses last year totalled $19,671.85. With continuing donations, the books balance.

Public relations officer for the Ontario division of the CNIB, partially sighted John A. McDonald, spoke on the progress of the eye bank and his delight at receiving the 145 pledge cards from Acton.

The Eye Bank was just formed in Toronto 10 years ago with two eyes and two successful transplants. Although it is now operating across Canada, and there are thousands of donor cards on hand most of these donors are still alive and healthy. There are 1,500 on the Ontario waiting list for cornea transplants alone, and 1,108 transplants have been done so far.

Older people are apt to think their eyes are not suitable since they have had vision problems. All eyes are acceptable, either for transplants retinal operations or for practice for doctors.

the various tables were — bake table, Mrs. Gordon Casley and Mrs. Phyllis Sadler; vegetables, Miss Sadler; aprons, Mrs. E. Simson; fancy work, Mrs. Harold Gollop and Mrs. Vera Taylor; varieties, Mrs. A. Norton and Mrs. Llewellyn, the tea room, Mrs. Harvey Dewhurst, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Barrie Cannon, Mrs. Sylvia Coomber and Mrs. E. Rawlinson.

The Young People of the Church had a booth of candy, etc. in charge were Marie and Gordon Fendley.

A dressed doll was won by Mrs. Helen Willett, Ontario St. Georgetown and a cake made and decorated like a doll, made won by Mrs. Alice Walker, Delver Blvd., Georgetown.

Four baby boys were baptized at Norval United Church on Sunday November 13th by Rev. W. Ridley. They were — Russell Allan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Burke, Georgetown; Terry Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Castle, RR 2 Norval; William Stanley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ellis, Georgetown and Bernard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otrified Malchin, RR 2, Norval.

Rev. W. Ridley also baptized seven babies at Home Church on Sunday November 13. They were — Gordon Lance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brownridge, RR 3, Brampton; Carolyn Barbara and Bryan Lloyd, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cook, RR 2, Brampton; Laura Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Critchlow, Brampton; Robin Kathleen and James Ross, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Gerbutt, RR 4, Georgetown and Christina Mariene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hammond, Orangeville.

Plan Telephone Campaign Urge "Get Out and Vote"

Representatives of the Acton Lions Club, which headed the two-week drive for pledge cards for the eye bank, handed over the cards and accepted the grateful thanks of the group.

Guest speaker John A. McDonald, public relations officer for the CNIB, spoke on the eye bank to members of the board.

President Murray Fisher, ending his second term, chaired the meeting and introduced guests.

He explained the board decided to hold meetings in various towns so more people would realize the services available. He stressed need for more education about glaucoma "the thief in the night."

He spoke of Mrs. Jack Ball, a former director who had just passed away leaving her eyes to the eye bank and body to the U. of T. medical services. Need for legislation to aid handicapped was reviewed: disability pension requires a means test; there is a possibility leg-

"Get out the Vote Campaign" was launched by the Georgetown and District Civic group at their meeting last Wednesday night in Cedarvale Community Centre.

After reviewing the voter turnout at last year's Georgetown elections it was decided to have members telephone a number of names on the voters list, reminding them to vote. If transportation is needed it will be provided. Most of the phoning will be done on the weekend prior to the December 5th election day.

Cr. W. Smith addressed the group briefly outlining the history of Cedarvale Community Centre, and the forming of the Centennial Board. He commented wryly on the difficulties of running the Centre with a minimum of funds. "Thirty-five local organizations are using this building at present", Cr. Smith stated, "and many more will avail themselves of the opportunity in future years." In conclusion he reminded his audience the future plans for the centre would be as wide and varied, as the money available for the purpose.

President Jim Warren urged all the members to attend the nomination meeting, ready to ask any questions they felt were pertinent.

CHURCH LADIES PROVIDE NEW DRAPES FOR RECTORY
At their regular bi-monthly meeting at St. George's Anglican Church, on Monday evening the Daughters of the Church voted to turn over $300. to the wardens and repairs to the rectory. An account for dry-cleaning vestments for the boys' choir was also paid.

President Mrs. Gordon Spence conducted nominations for officers for the coming year. Mrs. Stan Finlay, convener of the November buffet luncheon reported that plans were well under way. A Christmas pot luck supper will be held in early December.

Mrs. Jeff Duck and Mrs. Tom Van Sicker served tea and refreshments.

Halton Juniors Fifth In Winter Fair Judging

On Thursday, November 10th, Halton County's "Royal" Livestock Judging team competed against thirteen other teams of three members each, from various parts of the province.

The Annual Inter-County Livestock Judging competition is held at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, and the majority of members participating were Junior Farmers from the various counties and districts in the Province. The Halton team consisted of: Bryan Marshall, Milton R R 4; Don Brander, Norval R R 1; and Larry Pickett, Georgetown R R 3. The Halton team placed Fifth, out of fourteen teams competing.

During the morning, the team members were required to judge the following classes of livestock — Holsteins, Jerseys, Ayrshires, Sheep, Swine, Hog, Cattle, and Angus. Short-horn and Hereford Beef cattle.

Following lunch, reasons were given on seven of the ten classes.

At a banquet in the evening, results and prizes were awarded to the various winners. The champion team was an entry from Wellington County with a score of 2388, out of a possible 2550 points.

The following Halton members placed sixth and eighth respectively, out of forty-two contestants; Don Brander, Norval R R 1, and Larry Pickett, Georgetown R R 3. They will each receive $10 prize money as their award.

Guest speaker for the evening was Nelson Hann, instructor in English and Economics at Kempenville Agriculture School. Mr. Hann is very well known amongst Junior Farmer members, as he has instructed at the Junior Farmer Effective Speaking Course each year, held at the Albion Hills Conservation School, near Bolton, and the Junior Farmer Leadership Camp held at Geneva Park, Lake Couchiching, each year. His talk for the evening was centred around Centennial preparations for '67.
