

Centennial Report

1867 | 1967

by JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

Canada's teachers have the opportunity in 1967 to help make a visit to the Confederation Train or Caravan exhibitions a memorable and valuable experience.

The Train, starting January 9th at Victoria on a cross-Canada tour of 63 cities, and the Confederation Caravans, visiting more than 700 communities are, in effect, travelling teaching aids. The story of Canada from primeval times will unfold before the eyes of children and they experience, by sight and sound, an adventure through history. Life-size models, sound effects, lightings, artifacts and photography will enable children to live through great events since the pre-ice-age era.

Standing on the timbered deck of a Viking ship at sea or peering through the slit of a sandbagged trench in no-man's-land amid the din of battle — such experiences produce a more lasting impression than would a film or television program.

Visitors to the exhibits will be in a three dimensional world which will affect all their senses. As a good stage presentation usually creates a more lasting impression than does the two dimensional cinema or television screen so will the Confederation exhibits influence youngsters.

The exhibits also are likely to develop a curiosity among children, and adults, too, about the historical background of our country. A journalist commenting on a pre-tour visit to the exhibits, told us that they "make you want to head for the library to check the why's and when's of certain developments in Canadian history."

What, for example, were the underlying reasons for the Riel rebellion in 1885? Were English laws enforced in Canada up to 1831 when the Statute of Westminster was passed? Were the west coast Indians descendants of early immigrants from Asia? Questions like these are prompted by a visit to the Train or Caravans.

A Quebec writer visiting the Train also said "It's like another world to me — I've discovered so much about the history of the West, I simply didn't know anything about."

The Train or Caravan exhibits do not constitute a complete history of Canada. In fact there are many gaps. But they do provide a broad impression. Teachers can ensure that a visit is a valuable experience by helping to fill in some gaps both in the exhibits story and in children's knowledge of history.

A guide to classroom discussions is to reach the desks of teachers, well before the Train and Caravans arrive in communities, in the form of an attractive Centennial Commission color folder. It indicates how the story of Canada is told by the exhibits. Classroom discussions based on the folder can help children grasp the significance of what they will see and hear on their visits.

The Centennial Commission has a great appreciation for the contribution teachers can make to the Train and Caravan projects.

lions based on the folder can help children grasp the significance of what they will see and hear on their visits.

Name Armbr Flight "Horse of the Year"

Winner of the world's $100,000 International Trot last summer at New York when he beat the champions of France, Sweden, Norway, Italy, the U.S. and West Germany, Armbr Flight has been voted Harness Horse of the Year in the Canadian Trotting Association poll.

It marked the third successive year that the 4-year-old trotter, owned and bred by Elgin, Ted and Charles Armstrong, and winner of $493,602 in three seasons of racing, had been the association's poll headliner. A team of racing secretaries did the balloting.

Lameness after the Roosevelt International kept the daughter of Star's Pride-Helicopter on the inactive list at Joe O'Brien's Shafter, Calif. farm but her trainer-driver, a native of Alberta, P.E.I., will attempt a comeback with Armbr Flight early in the new year.

Armbr Flight's nine wins in 13 starts this year, and a world record mile of 1:59 flat earned her the aged-trotter of the year award as well in the

THIS BUSINESS OF FARMING

This is the title for three one-hour programs to be presented on CBC Television, January 10th to 12th, from 10.30 to 11.30 a.m.

On Tuesday, January 10th, the topic is "Soils and Good Soil Management". This features discussions and illustrations on soil testing, drainage, soil fertility, and other methods of managing our soils for greatest crop returns.

On Wednesday, January 11th, "Farm Machinery Management Today" is the topic, and some of the matters to be discussed are: Selection of Machinery to Do the Job; partnership arrangements in purchasing or using equipment; how to keep equipment operating efficiently, etc.

This program is to be part of our Halton Soil and Crop Improvement Association annual meeting, in the Masonic Hall, Milton, with everyone watching the TV series.

After dinner Harold Kitching of the Massey-Ferguson Company, Toronto, will be discussing the "Future Design of Equipment and Cost of Machinery". Martin Wrubelaki, Agriculture Engineering Specialist for Halton, will cover some of the economic considerations in machinery ownership.

The January 12th TV program is on "Family Farm Business Arrangement". This program gives a thorough discussion about the importance and kinds of farm transfer arrangements.

Halton County Farmers cannot afford to be out in their barns at the time of these programs.
