Invest Twelve New Scouts In Week-End Camp Ceremony

The 4th Georgetown Scout troop spent a weekend in camp at their property on the 6th line recently.

On the Saturday evening, they were hosts to the 4th and 8th Cub packs and to all parents.

The Cubs and Scouts formed up on opposite sides of the creek for the ceremony.

Venturers of the 4th had constructed a bridge over which the 'Leaping Wolves' were conducted to their new level in Scouting. This resulted in a very impressive ceremony.

The following leaders were invested by D.D. Norm Herbert, Wayne and Noreen Fiebig, Ann Nix, Richard Succca, Paul Savoie.

Scouter John Schwinghandl was promoted to Scout Master.

The many visitors showed great interest in the 4th Scouts' ambitious building project which will get under way in the fall.

After the ceremonies the young guests sat around the campfire and devoured numerous hot dogs which they roasted on the end of sticks, each to his own particular taste.

The general trend was to a black semi-charred type of cuisine.

No illness resulted, but one small fry was heard to exclaim between burps: "if you gotta go — then this is the way to do it!"

Prepare To Become Scouts
Cubs Learn Camping Skills

Fifty-eight cubs, and nine leaders from the Georgetown District camped at Goodyear Memorial Scout Camp near Orangeville recently. The purpose of the camp was to introduce some of the cubs who will be elevated to Scouts next year to some of the Scouting camping methods.

The Cubs learned cooking skills

During the weekend the boys gained some skill in firefighting and cooking over an open fire. They learned how to make themselves comfortable and turn the camp into a home away from home. The fact that they were able to survive the cold weekend weather should qualify them to withstand all the rigors of the outdoor life.

The weekend, however, was not a case of all work and no play as the Cubs found time for games and hikes. Leathercraft added to the variety as the boys made link belts and name tags for themselves.

The program from Sunday morning included a church service and a Scout's own.

Since no camp is complete without a campfire each day closed with a singing and story telling in a friendly get-together around the flames. A number of Scouts from a neighbouring camp were invited to join the company and one of them added the strains of a guitar to the harmony.

Camp broke up Monday afternoon with the Cubs departing wiser, happier and tired. The same might be said for the leaders who were: Mrs. Gordon Douglas, Ross Colter, Mrs. Terry Colter, Debbie Young, Mary Hay, Sandy Keir, Jim Young, Anne VanHoekelen and Howard Coles.

Brownies Become Guides In Ceremony By Candlelight

Five new girls joined the sisterhood of Girl Guides when they were enrolled May 9th in an impressive candlelight service. The following were enrolled by Mrs. Mary Thucko and welcomed as members of the 4th Georgetown Girl Guide Company, Roxanna Sweezer, Chris McNamara, Sharon Laitler, Brenda Dickenson and Darlene Magloughen.

On the same evening six Brownies flew up to Guiding Land after receiving their Golden Hand Badge and Wings. Mrs. B. MacKenzie, Brown Owl of the 4th Georgetown Pack and the Brownies held a core money to say goodbye to Laura Moore, Ann Meal, Sherry Scarrow, Joanne Seaton, Heather Elliott, Cathy Lindsay.

Allison Henderson also came to the Girl Guides after receiving her Golden Bar. The Girl Guides welcomed their new members then they all played some games and closed their meeting with taps.

Georgetown Air Rangers Win Trophy At Hespeler Weekend

The long weekend proved to be both exciting and rewarding to five members of the First Georgetown Air Rangers. At about 9.30 Saturday morning they left Georgetown to attend the Steer-Rover-Range at Hespeler — a centennial project put on by the first Hespeler Rover crew to show what Rangers and Rovers are.

The townspeople were invited to a steak barbecue dinner and then a tour of the displays and campsites of visiting Rangers and Rovers. Rangers - Roved competitions for the day included dart throwing, sawing wood, tug of war, and a game of tippy played like baseball, only with broken hockey sticks. Saturday ended with a dance.

Sunday morning began with a 'Rangers - Rovers' Own' church service organized by Rangers and Rovers themselves, that was held in the early morning sunshine of Hespeler's park. After this about seventy-five Rangers and Rovers lined up for breakfast. Final closing was at 12 noon. Steer horns mounted on wood plaques made by the Hespeler Rovers were the trophies presented to the Ranger and Rover companies, contributing the most to the weekend.

The group receiving the trophy for the 'best Ranger effort' was First Georgetown Air, and the 'best Rover effort' was 15th Galt Rover crew.

May Building Permits Valued at Half Million

A similar trophy was presented to Mr. E. Erhart, the 1st Hespeler Rover skipper, without whom the weekend would not have been a success.

Those attending from here were Susan Asseltine, Sharon Collier, Norma Hole, Judy Nichols, Linda Rudiger

Building permits totalling $668,605 were issued during May, according to the building inspector's office. An addition to E.W. Bliss Co. came to $32,500. The remaining building permits were for residential development, with Wimpey Homes applying for all but one.
