Learns Pride in Canada During Trip to Capitol

by Joanna Gordon

I had the opportunity to visit our national capital for five days due to the generosity of the Georgetown Rotary Club. It was a fabulous experience and made me much more aware of the potential of our country.

There were 250 students from all over Canada and we invaded Ottawa Sunday, May 13, where we met the Rotary club there and billeted in private homes of members or friends.

The actual program started Monday morning in the Chateau Laurier, with an official welcome from the Rotary Club and Mayor of Ottawa. Following lunch, there was a hectic tour of Parliament and we sat in the House of Commons for half an hour. I was very disappointed in this part. There seemed to be no air of dignity at all. The twelve members of parliament that were there showed no interest in the speech of the speaker. Most of them sauntered in and out and read newspapers as the mood struck them.

That night there was a dinner and dance at Fisher Park High School. Before the dance, there was a variety of entertainment, from the school band to the mocking of the Tijuana Brass and a folk group "The By Town Three". The climax of this evening was the choral arrangement of the Centennial feature "Proudly We Prate" conducted by composer Dan Wright.

Tuesday and Wednesday morning we broke into small discussion groups at Carleton University. Each group was headed by a professor. Topics were picked at random. My group hashed-out parliament, Vietnam, the educational system, new morality and Walter Gordon's stand on Vietnam. These groups were very beneficial because it was rather like a cross-country poll, with participants from British Columbia and Newfoundland.

Tuesday's luncheon speaker was the Right Honourable John D. Diefenbaker. I must admit he surprised me very much. I expected some dull senile man, and discovered quite the opposite. He has a dry humour and genuine love for Canada. His favourite story involves the time he was mistakenly introduced as "John Studebaker."

On the agenda that afternoon were visits to the Public Archives, the National Aeronautical Collection, the RCMP Training Division, where the musical riders performed, and a visit to the National Gallery of Canada.

Tuesday night was one of the most impressive events for me. We went to Nepean Pt. across from the Parliament Buildings to view "Son et Lumiere," presented by the Canadian Federation of the Arts. It is a documentary on Canada's history and the parliament buildings are lighted at appropriate times to signify important events. Describing it, it seems prosaic and technical, but however silly it may sound, when I was looking out over the Ottawa River and the city skyline and listening to the story of our past, I felt a genuine surge of patriotism well inside me.

Wednesday the "adventurers" were guests of the National Capital Commission. We attended the opening of the Ottawa Telly Festival for Her Majesty Queen Juliana, followed that afternoon by a guided tour of the Capital. Wednesday evening our MP's dined with us at the Chateau Laurier, followed by another dance at Fisher Park High School.

Thursday was Expo -- and what a day that was! We had to travel and once there were on our own until 7:30 that evening. It's impossible to see the fair in one day -- it merely serves as an appetizer. I managed to squeeze in about five pavilions, the most impressive of which were the British and Bell Telephone exhibits. One of the most dominant impressions I received is that everyone seems to speak French. The majority of people I encountered spoke it and French precedes English on all signs and announcements. I was also in the Bell Telephone display and it was a weird experience. I felt almost like a foreigner! Personally I think Expo is magnificent and that we, as Canadians, should be less reticent about blowing our own horns. It's a fabulous success, so why not be proud of it?

Friday was departure day, much to everyone's regret. In the morning we received Certificates of Citizenship, presented by the Honourable Pierre Elliott Trudeau, P.C. M.P., Minister of Justice and Attorney General of Canada. This was followed by a farewell luncheon at the Chateau. At this luncheon, a representative from each province spoke briefly, about their feelings of our "Adventurers". Some were friendly, others cordially serious, but all displayed a new-found pride in Canada which had grown on us all in the past week. I realized that what Arthur Long had meant when he said to us, "to know Canada is to love her."

I had a lot of fun on this trip and met students from all over the country, but more important, while I was enjoying myself I learned two things. I had some, like the majority of students, highly sceptical and slightly contemptuous of my country, and the people who ran it, but now I am very proud to call myself Canadian.

Finally, I learned the importance of bilingualism. One who speaks French has a distinct advantage. French no longer symbolizes a "foreign" language to me -- it is one of Canada's tongues.

Welcome Six New Members To Business Women's Club

Mrs. Maureen Walker presided at the last dinner of the season of the Business and Professional Women's Club, at the North Halton Golf & Country Club on Monday evening.

The new executive for 1967 and 1968 were installed in a candlelighting ceremony by Mrs. Aileen Bradley.

Mrs. Ada Wilkinson gave a report of the Provincial Conference held in Ottawa in May which she had attended as delegate of the club along with four other members as observers.

During the regular order of business correspondence was read and invitations received for the Emblem Breakfast at the Old Mill on Sunday sponsored by the Toronto Council of Clubs and an invitation from the Toronto Club to their Clubhouse for a reception and strawberry tea in the afternoon of the same day. Several club members will attend.

Six new members joined the club at this meeting, Miss Janette Dykstra, Mrs. Gladys Thompson, Mrs. Lorraine Stevens, Mrs. Jean Narey, Mrs. Anne Rudy and Miss Carol Hopkinson. Mrs. Margaret Parker was a guest.

Miss Jean Mackenzie gave a report on the coming fashion show, "Portraits of the Past" to be held on June 28th in Knox Church Hall at 8:30. Homemade cookies and tea will be served. Tickets were distributed to the members for sale.

Mrs. Gisby, who is president of the W.I. this year was presented with her award by Mrs. Frank Brown and Mrs. J. Noble.

Mrs. Ralph Turner, who is retiring as secretary-treasurer, received a W.I. cup and saucer in appreciation of her service to the branch.

Mrs. Webb of Campbellville, who is district president attended the meeting and spoke on "Changes in our Times."

At every turn, she said, there is a challenge to develop a deeper appreciation of what we have. Change is the one permanent thing in our whole life. She was presented with a centennial tea spoon.

Roll call at the meeting, which was held in Memorial Hall, was "Why I am proud to be a Canadian."

Delegates to the district annual gave short reports, a community picnic was discussed and Mrs. F. Brown gave the catering committee report. Mrs. Kirkpatrick reported on historical research and Mrs. Roughley on home economics and health, comparing canned, frozen juices with big cans of fruit drinks which look cheap and attractive but have large quantities of sugar and water added.

Mrs. Jean Anderson reported on safety discussing new road signs.

Mrs. S. Kirkpatrick was lunch convener.
