Saturday Morning Hockey Fate Still Undecided

Ralph Hawes

The fate of Saturday Morning Hockey is still uncertain. Nothing conclusive came from Wednesday's meeting between the Parks Board and representatives from the Branch.

President Bowman was most forthright and explicit with the Board and left no doubt in any one's mind regarding the astonishment and dismay that was felt by those concerned by the demands of the Board.

Comrade Bowman expressed his surprise at the very limited time given by the Board in which the Branch could make necessary changes to cope with the situation supposing the demands were accepted. Board Chairman Crabtree agreed more time should have been given. He explained the ever rising cost of operating the arena made it imperative to raise funds this year.

got a moose but the number of hunters was such that when the carcass was cut up and shared among the group, the meal cost $13 per pound. However, the most important point of these hunting trips is the relaxation, the participants derive from the few days away from it all.

A Failure

The weekend was disappointing as far as the Branch Executive was concerned. Friday evening was the occasion for the Branch Bi-Annual initiation and membership evening. Members to be initiated were forty one. Those who were present to be initiated numbered eight. In consequence, the whole evening was a failure and not only cost the Branch money but cost a lot of effort and time given by those who strive to put such evenings on. Those who were initiated were: Comrades V. Sandelands, D. Appleton, H. T. Russell, C. O. Looze, R. H. Ponsford, J. T. Hayes, N. A. Blair, and H. Page.

Pitiful

Saturday was a day for the Branch to be eminent in the eyes of the public. The Branch was chosen to lead the Fall Fair parade headed by the Pipe Band. It could have been a spectacular sight with less than a quarter of the Branch members on parade which would have been approximately one hundred members. Instead, it was pitiful. A mere handful of members and W.A. found time to give to their Branch on this one Centennial occasion. Let it be said, that those few who were on parade were a credit to the Legion. They were smartly turned out and had the appearance of being proud of their role of representing the Branch. Yours truly was not on parade on this occasion. We had the chore of assuring that those on parade were made comfortable when they returned to the Branch.

Gardens Tickets

The winner of the big prize on Saturday evening was Barbara Lorusso. Door prizes went to Mabel Coughlin and Harry Allen while Rocky Lorusso and Ormie Carter will enjoy a Maple Leaf hockey game with the tickets they won on a draw.

Jack O'Sullivan and his sonic music will entertain next Saturday. Jack is always tops.

It was pointed out that should Saturday morning hockey discontinue, there was a possibility that the future revenue of the arena could suffer for Saturday morning hockey is the foundation of 'All Star Hockey' Pee-Wee up to and including Junior C and without these 5 teams a percentage of the arena's income could be cut. Although Chairman Ivan Crabtree seemed to be in a capricious frame of mind, the feeling was that he felt sympathetic towards the Branch.

From the meeting there were four recommendations which Ivan will take to a full board meeting and Dave will bring to the General Meeting, after which a solution may be reached.

$13 per Pound

Lots of friends, non-members and members alike will soon be taking off to the wild north country in search of moose. We are hoping Buster will get lucky. Maybe then the Branch will have a moose supper.

We forgot who it was or where we heard it but the story being told went something like this. A group of hunters

Industry, Civic Buildings Viewed by Urban Councillors

Almost fifty members of the North Halton Urban Board and their wives toured Acton by bus stopping at the dredging site on Fairy Lake and looking in on Micro-Plastics Ltd., the H. K. Porter plant and the new Centennial Library and hydro building.

The tour wound up in the Acton Citizens Band music centre where a social evening was enjoyed. A buffet lunch was served by bandmen and their wives.

The social night is an annual event which each town in the Board hosts alternately. This year Urban Board chairman Bob Drinkwater and Cr. Charlie Perry and Ted Tyler Jr. arranged the tour.

Plant officials acted as the guides at Micro Plastics and H. K. Porter plants while library board chairman George Lee and Fred New showed the group, 48 in all, the library. Secretary Audrey Urquhart guided the tour through the new hydro building.

Centennial saws were presented to Georgetown Mayor Joe Gibbons, Mayor Sid Childs of Milton and Acton mayor Les Duly on behalf of H. K. Porter by company manager Tom Shields.

Beardmore and Co. presented the lady visitors with leather wallets as a memento of the tour.

Visiting councillors were impressed with the Acton industries and showed a special interest in the centennial library and hydro building as well as the band hall. They commented favourably on the library layout.

Acton's one man band, Cr. Charlie Perry entertained at the social function replete with an old fashioned waistcoat and top hat. Mrs. Pat McKenzie was pressed into service to tickle the ivories.

Two Litters in Six Weeks, Prolific Sow

A sow on the farm of Lorne Massias near Acton produced a litter of 10 recently which averages no surprise. However, less than 6 weeks later, 13 piglets were born to the same mother.

All the young pigs were normal and healthy although two from the first litter died and all of the second litter succumbed.

The veterinarian said in his long service in the profession he had never run into anything like this.

Normal period of time between litters for pigs is 112 days. The first litter was born August 3rd the second litter September 8th.

Esqueuing Council Briefs

During the Esqueuing Township Council's meeting on Monday, September 18:

- Members signed a contract with Blue Chip Restoration Co. of Milton to make $3,970 worth of repairs to the township building. The building is leaking and some of the face bricks are to be replaced.
- Council also authorized the Tomlinson and Associates consulting firm to make a $8,100 report on traffic and road needs in the township. Members are considering having a local group or several groups make a manual traffic count in connection with the survey, which would cost about half the price of a mechanical count by the consultants.
- The CNR was asked to install flashing lights as warning signal at the Five Sideroad crossing.
- Accounts paid included $7 for one fox shot by a township resident September 15.
- The roads department was urged to apply calcium to several townships roads where ratepayers have complained of dust to a limit of $1,500.
- Building inspector Tom McLean was asked to meet with P. Straw, RR 2, Georgetown, who wants a permit to wreck one building and use a second building in Norval for a storage warehouse.

Very old England. What to parade watchers should appear but a double decker bus, and all.
