

Hornby Hunters Tally Two Moose, Larder Lake

Gordon Lee filled his larder at Larder Lake.

The Hornby butcher, boner and slaughterhouse owner sliced 460 pounds of meat in cold storage this week at his Base Line abattoir.

The meat was one half of the edible portion of two young bull moose shot Sunday by Lee's 19 year old son Grant and by Bob Presley of Milton.

One carcass remained up north where Grant stayed over, trying to bag a trophy with a record-breaking rack.

The three moose-keteers from Halton County — Lee made the trip too — were among a party of five hunters operating 385 miles north of here over the weekend. The other two were Frank Satcher and Jim Turner of Virginiatown.

TWO SHOTS
The two moose were felled with two shots. "But one of the party took ten shots at three moose and didn't take a hair out of one," Lee grinned.

The four quarters will hang a week before being converted to moose steaks. Lee said both bulls were 1 1/2 years old, were small but quite fat, and would make excellent eating.

"Calves make the best eating," he added. "But since they only run to 250 pounds and a hunter is only allowed one moose per license, he just can't afford to shoot one."

The older the moose the tougher Lee said. "If you get into an old bull, you have to hang it two or three weeks, until it starts going moldy."

21 YEARS
Lee, who has been hunting and fishing 21 years, said it took four hunters twelve hours to get the meat out of the bush.

Because the fresh-killed meat was too soft to carry they had to leave it overnight to stiffen up. The two moose were slain within five minutes of each other, but it was a 60-minute, three mile walk back to the hunters' boat.

In all, the men made three round trips, the first with the two heads, hearts and livers the second and third with two quarters each, carried one at a time on the hunters' back.

From the shore of Larder Lake, it was a twelve-mile boat trip to the town of Larder Lake and from there half the meat travelled to Hornby by station wagon.

SNOW ON GROUND
It's better with about eight inches of snow on the ground," Lee explained. "Then you can pull the moose out with snowmobiles." He said the high temperature at Larder Lake last Monday was 75, but it fell to 34 at night.

• DEDICATED • EXPERIENCED • CAPABLE

HALTON EAST faces many problems at this critical point in its development. Nothing can take the place of experience when it comes to carrying these problems — large or small — to the proper people for action.

JIM SNOW is a lifelong resident of this Riding. He shares with all of us the problems of a fast developing area . . . has firm ideas about how to get action on those problems at Queen's Park.

HALTON EAST wants a provincial member who is closely identified with our Riding . . . who knows each and every district and the people who live here . . . who has experienced our growing pains first hand.

JIM SNOW has an outstanding record as a full partner in community affairs. Many Town committees, local associations and civic groups have shared his interest . . . added to his vast knowledge of our neighbourhood.

HALTON EAST needs a member who will be listened to by our Queen's Park government . . . a highly regarded voice who will speak out strongly on our behalf . . . and who will be heard.

JIM SNOW is the candidate of Premier John Robarts in this election. He stands for continued good government in Ontario . . . for even greater progress in the years that lie ahead.

Don't Cross in Middle Safety Poster Warning

The traffic safety poster that will be displayed in Halton schools this month reminds children not to cross the road in the middle of the block.

A different safety poster is distributed every month by the Hamilton Automobile Club to provide "continuity and uniformity of safety messages throughout the school year."

This month's poster was drawn by 16 year old Lorie Shiparo, a student in Denver, Colorado. The official automobile club message that goes with the poster reminds pedestrians that even being in proper crosswalk area does not guarantee safety.

"Though the pedestrians have the right of way in crosswalks when the signal is green, it is well not to rely wholly on markings or mechanical signals. — Your eyes are the real safeguard."
