

Fire Hazards Can Ruin Hallowe'en for Children

Hallowe'en night is fun for the youngsters, but parents received a warning this week from Halton Fire Prevention Bureau about the fire hazards that can ruin the celebration.

The Bureau suggests that with proper parental supervision, Hallowe'en can still be a lot of fun. But your children should be warned of the hazards that exist.

Use a battery-powered light or flashlight instead of an open candle to light up your Jack-O-Lantern the Bureau suggests. Do not let your children play with matches, and make sure they wear fireproof costumes. These warnings are featured in the Bureau's Hallowe'en poster, being distributed throughout the county this month.

Other hints for a safer Hallowe'en: Small youngsters going 'trick or treating' should be accompanied by an adult or older brother or sister, says the Bureau.

Make sure the children wear masks and costumes that do not obstruct their visibility. And try to choose a light-colored costume. A child with restricted visibility and dark coloured costume and a busy road are the main ingredients for a 'witch's brew of Hallowe'en trouble'.

Don't leave a leaf bonfire burning in the evening. Someone is sure to stumble into it during the exciting night of gathering treats.

Older children should restrict their 'tricking' to harmless pranks, as Hallowe'en night is no excuse for the costly vandalism and property damage that has marred the occasion in previous years.

Brainard-Bonathan Wedding in Ohio

At a ceremony in First Presbyterian Church, Youngstown, Ohio, on September 30th, the marriage was solemnized of Mrs. Margaret Hayward Bonathan of Georgetown and Edward Littlefield Brainard of Youngstown.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hayward, 60 King St. E. and the groom is the son of Mr. George C. Brainard of Kirtland Hills, Ohio and the late Mrs. Brainard. Dr. and Mrs. Edward Jones, Jr. were their attendants.

A family reception was held afterwards at the Youngstown Country Club.

After a wedding trip in the New England states, Mr. and Mrs. Brainard have taken up residence at 3032 Northgate Dr. in Youngstown.

F.C. Freestone One of Town's Oldest Residents

One of Georgetown's oldest residents, Fredrick Charles Freestone, 97, of 23 Temple Rd. died in Georgetown Hospital on October 13.

Mr. Freestone, whose home town was St. Pancras, Kentish Town, London had been a Georgetown resident since 1930.

It was when he was a ship's steward that he met his future wife, Margaret Tuynbee, who was travelling with her family to Australia. She returned to England for the marriage and they lived for twelve years in London where he worked at the British Museum, and later in Cornwall where he was an employee of the tin mines.

Mr. Freestone served with the British army in World War I. When he moved to Georgetown he was employed with Smith & Stone Ltd. for twenty years until his retirement.

When Mrs. Freestone died in 1965, the couple were only a month away from celebrating their 72nd wedding anniversary.

He leaves eleven children, John, Stanley and James in England, Fredrick and Mrs. D. Goruk (Mary) of Toronto, and Mrs. Clarence Phillips (Alice), William, Thomas, Clarence, Mrs. Robert Martin (Margaret) and Ivy of Georgetown; 23 grandchildren, 30 great-grandchildren and seven great-great-grandchildren. He was predeceased by sons Charles and Henry, and two daughters in childhood.

Rev'd Eric Mills of St. George's Anglican Church conducted the funeral service at the Harold C. McClure Funeral Home and interment was in Greenwood Cemetery, Georgetown. Pallbearers were five grandsons, Ken, Tom, Douglas and Robert Freestone, Daniel Martin and a neighbour, Philip Hayes.

Six Local Persons are Injured, Highway Pile-Up

Six local persons were injured and $4,500 property damage resulted in a five car and truck pile up on Highway 7, Wednesday, October 18.

Two of the injured, Myrtle Anderson and Eleanor Henderson, both of Georgetown, were trapped in their demolished vehicle for the better part of an hour. Police feared gasoline from ruptured tanks would ignite before the women were freed.

Constable Tom Vincent Brampton OPP detachment, investigating the crash, described it as a four car and truck rear-end collision, about a quarter-mile east of Chinguacousy Second Line.

The accident occurred about 8:30 a.m. when traffic backed up at Dixie Road and Highway 7 signals.

Also taken to Peel Memorial Hospital were Mary Chissom, Victoria Street, Georgetown, Joan Coughlin, Norval; James Braddock and Ron Black, both of Moore Park Crescent, Georgetown.
