Holiday Season Important For Red Cross Blood Bank

Blood — the living gift which only one human can give another — has helped save many lives in Georgetown. Those you help will always remember.

Because citizens donate blood through the Canadian Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service, hospitals have whole blood and blood products available for those who may need it. Blood donations tend to slack off during the festive season, yet the need is inclined to increase because of higher accident rates both on the highways and in the home. Certain kinds of chronic ailments — bleeding ulcers, for example — the treatment of which demands blood transfusions — also seem to take a jump during the frenzy of Christmas and New Year's preparations.

With those things in mind our citizens would do well to visit the Red Cross blood donor clinic on Monday, December 11th.

Your donation will take only a little time. The benefits are great.

Give the gift of life this holiday season.
