

Navyman, Bride Making Home in Dartmouth, N.S.

Now living in Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, where the groom is stationed with the Canadian Navy, Carol Ann Penson and Lionel Bruce Fendley were married in Grace Anglican Church, Milton, on October 14th.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Penson of Milton, and was employed in the office of P. L. Robertson, Halifax, before her marriage. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Fendley, Georgetown.

Yellow, gold and white mums decorated the church for the ceremony which was performed by Dr. T. Dusan. Mrs. A. Ledwith was organist and Jim Hopkins sang "O Perfect Love."

The bride wore a taffeta gown with chiffon and lace overdress and a train. An organza headpiece was gathered at the top by a crown of white flowers. She wore a shoulder length veil and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Doug Newton was matron of honour, Misses Linda Deforest and Lynne Wylie, the latter a cousin of the groom, were bridesmaids, and the bride's sister Margaret was flower girl. They wore red velvet floor-length gowns and carried white prayer books with red and white roses and streamers. Red velvet roses were caught with red net for their headresses. Master Michael Timbers was ring bearer.

Mr. Penson gave his daughter in marriage in the double ring ceremony and Donald Fendley was groomsmen for his brother. Ushers were David Sheppard, the groom's cousin, Peter Fendley, his brother, and Harold Penson, the bride's brother.

One hundred and fifty guests attended a reception in Milton Fire Hall. Receiving, the bride's mother wore a green brocaded dress-suit and matching hat, and a corsage of yellow roses. The groom's mother wore a blue lace and silk dress, navy hat and accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For a honeymoon trip to Expo, the bride wore a dark blue suit, black accessories and a red rose corsage.

Guests were from Barrie, Shelburne, Brampton, and Toronto, and included the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Frank Penson, and the groom's grandmother and grandfather, Mrs. Helen Willett and Mr. Harold Fendley.

The bride was honoured at five showers before the wedding. Her aunt, Mrs. George Penson, and cousin, Mrs. Wayne Brading held a family shower of crystal. Mrs. Doug Newton, who was her senior attendant, entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the home of her mother, Mrs. Jack McDougall. Another miscellaneous shower was held by neighbours, Mrs. Art Cooper, Mrs. Jim Hopkins, Mrs. George Winfrey and Miss Linda Deforest. Mrs. Helen Norton, an aunt of the groom, entertained at a shower in Georgetown and Miss Betty Hassenfeld had a shower in Milton attended by members of the P.L. Robertson office staff and other friends.

Abortion Opinions in Halton M.P.'s Mailbag

A sizeable volume of mail is reaching the Common's Health and Welfare Committee on the subject of possible changes in the law on abortions, Dr. Harry Harley, MP for Halton, said today.

Many of the letters are being sent directly to Dr. Harley while others go to the committee secretary.

The committee chairman said he had received about 20 letters Tuesday.

Largest number are coming from Montreal with the second largest number from Powell River, British Columbia. Very few letters have been received as yet from the Oakville area, Dr. Harley said.

He said that so far only about five mimeographed form letters have been received as a result of the appeal by the Catholic churches in the area for such letters to be sent urging that the abortion laws not be relaxed.

The Right to Life Committee of Burlington has written the committee secretary to request a date when representatives can appear before the committee with a brief.

"Our new target date for bringing a report before the Commons is now the end of January," Dr. Harley said. "We have sittings scheduled as late as January 23 and we are starting to hold three meetings a week in an effort to speed up the work."

STUDENT SPEAKS

University Man's Opinion On Secondary Schooling

by David Blaney
This is the first of several articles on education that I am going to write in the next few weeks. You may consider it pre-emptive for a second year university student to write about secondary education, but it is for this very reason, that I am writing a year and one half away from secondary school that I am writing these articles. What I will attempt to do is articulate the feeling of some of the students presently within the secondary system and those who have been out for a short time.

I am going to talk about what happens to students and try to explain why I believe this happens. I will talk about the artificiality of the atmosphere of secondary institutions and the effect this must have on all those within it whether they are students, teachers or administrators.

More and more, schools are dictating from their responsibilities as an independent social institution. They are becoming more than centres of training. I emphasize training not education. How often have you heard read the declaration that students shouldn't drop out because if they stay they will be able to obtain better jobs and make more money?

What a shallow goal for institutions with the potential that schools have. This is not education. Surely the world has more to offer than the search for the better job. Schools should be teaching people to think not simply training them so that they may be shoe-horned into niche that someone before them has vacated.

One can of course advance the argument that one person can't change society so we should prepare students to survive in it as best they may. This argument must however be based on the premise that society is some sort of organic entity with a life of its own and the ability to make decisions. But how can this be true if society is, as it is, of the interaction of individuals.

Our schools should teach each student to tear society apart in his own mind and put it back together again. In this way only one who can truthfully say that he has found nothing wrong, can stand by and take no action on these things which he might otherwise consider abuses.

Students are not just another level a person goes through on the way to becoming an accredited adult. Students are becoming more and more, and must do so, class onto themselves. I do not claim that they have any right to shut themselves off from outside happenings even if they could. I simply declare that a student, as a student, must seize independence of mind and decide for himself where he is going to direct it.

A student gains this independence at grave risk to his advancement, as well as under considerable pressure from society to give it over for the security of fitting in. The more society gains control of the philosophical and physical aspects of education the greater the pressure becomes on the inquiring individual.

The freedom of thought is one of the ideals of western democracy that we pay great lip service to but we stand to lose it by default. It is atrophying like a muscle that is no longer used.

Add Abitibi to Name Of Town Paper Mill

A second Georgetown papermill has had a change of name. Provincial Paper, Ltd. will now have the name Abitibi added. The change to Abitibi Provincial Paper, Ltd. became effective last month at the same time as the firm's Toronto offices changed location.

Executive offices were moved from University Avenue to the new Toronto Dominion Centre in downtown Toronto.

Abitibi Provincial also has mills at Thorold and Port Arthur as well as its fine paper division here.

Some time ago, the Alliance Paper name disappeared when the Howard Smith organization was acquired by Domtar. The Georgetown mill is now known as Domtar Pulp & Paper Ltd. (Howard Smith Division).
