

'Y' Showcase Format Like Three Ring Circus

Two hundred adults and children looked on as the Georgetown YMCA-YWCA presented a showcase of their activities in three ring circus fashion in Georgetown District High School auditorium Sunday afternoon. Julian Reed was master of ceremonies for a program of demonstrations which included everything from go-go dancing to yoga exercises. Along one wall and in the corridors other facets of the YW-YMCA were represented in displays.

To squeeze the many demonstrations into a two hour time period and keep the attention of all age levels in the audience the entertainment was presented in two and sometimes three packages at one time, using two areas on the gym floor as well as the auditorium's stage.

A Milton folk singing group The Half Dozen opened the program, later encircled in the cafeteria when refreshments were served. Sandwiched between their two appearances were a Judo demonstration directed and explained by Fred Daley; women's gymnastics under Mrs. Mary Simpson; a comic fashion show by the Y-Teens with commentary by Andrea Chaplin, and Lesley Brishois; go-go dancing by Cindy Conner's Chapel Street Y-Teens; a vaudeville routine in which Jean Currie and Connie Allen updated the old jokes; gym work on the mats and trampolines by Mrs. Adrienne Becker's class of 6 and 7 year old gymnasts; tumbling directed by John Kavanaugh; gym demonstrations by Bill Bingham's class of boys from 8 to 14 years of age; modern dancing by St. Paul's Y-Teens; and Gray Wrestling demonstration with Tom Dean commenting.

Booth displays represented the local Y's work in world service, Youth in, skt club, crafts, Badminton, and day camp.

Dr. Bruce Duff and Mrs. John Kavanaugh were in charge of arranging the program; Mrs. Tom Soward and Mrs. Bonnie Bottomley were program coordinators; Mrs. Kathleen Kauler was refreshment convener and Mrs. Jo Lister was committee chairman. Assisting were Mrs. Joan Agnis, Mrs. Donna Robbins, Mrs. Heather Hunter, Mrs. Milree Armstrong, Mrs. Ann Smith, Mrs. Helen Van Sicker and Mrs. J. Harris.

As well as staffing their booth, members of Youth-in also served in various capacities behind the scenes.

Confidence Deserved Red Cross Over Top

P.O. Box 7, Georgetown, Ontario, April 26, 1968.

Mr. Editor: When, through the medium of your newspaper a few weeks ago, I appealed to the people of Georgetown and District for financial support for their local branch of the Canadian Red Cross Association, I did so with complete confidence. Confidence in the anticipated warm-heartedness and understanding of the residents of the community and their appreciation of the need for a sound and effective Red Cross Association within their district.

It is, therefore, with a very deep sense of gratitude I wish to think all those whose contributions made possible the fact that our target figure was not only achieved but substantially surpassed. Georgetown is currently placed within the first ten communities and we should all feel very proud of this standing.

To the very many contributors who devoted time and energy to fulfilling house-to-house calls I express my special thanks. To see so many teenagers among this assembly was a most refreshing sight — one to restore confidence in the integrity and moral calibre of that oft-criticized section of the community. Obviously, they are not all to be weighed in the balance and found wanting.

Yours very truly,
A. J. Matthews.

Chairman, Campaign Committee, Georgetown and District Branch The Canadian Red Cross Association.

Murray McCaig Heads 4-H Tractor Club

Elections for the Halton 4-H Tractor Club were held at the first regular meeting on Thursday at the Agricultural office in Milton. Jim Jenkins, Halton's Extension Assistant, opened the meeting with the 4-H pledge. Following the roll call Mr. Jenkins conducted the election of a club president. Immediately upon his election he conducted the election for the remaining club officers. The results were as follows: President Murray McCaig, vice president, Doug Stokes, Sec. Bob McGee, press reporter, John Nurse.

Mr. Jenkins and Neil McLaughlin then passed out 4-H material to the club members. Mr.

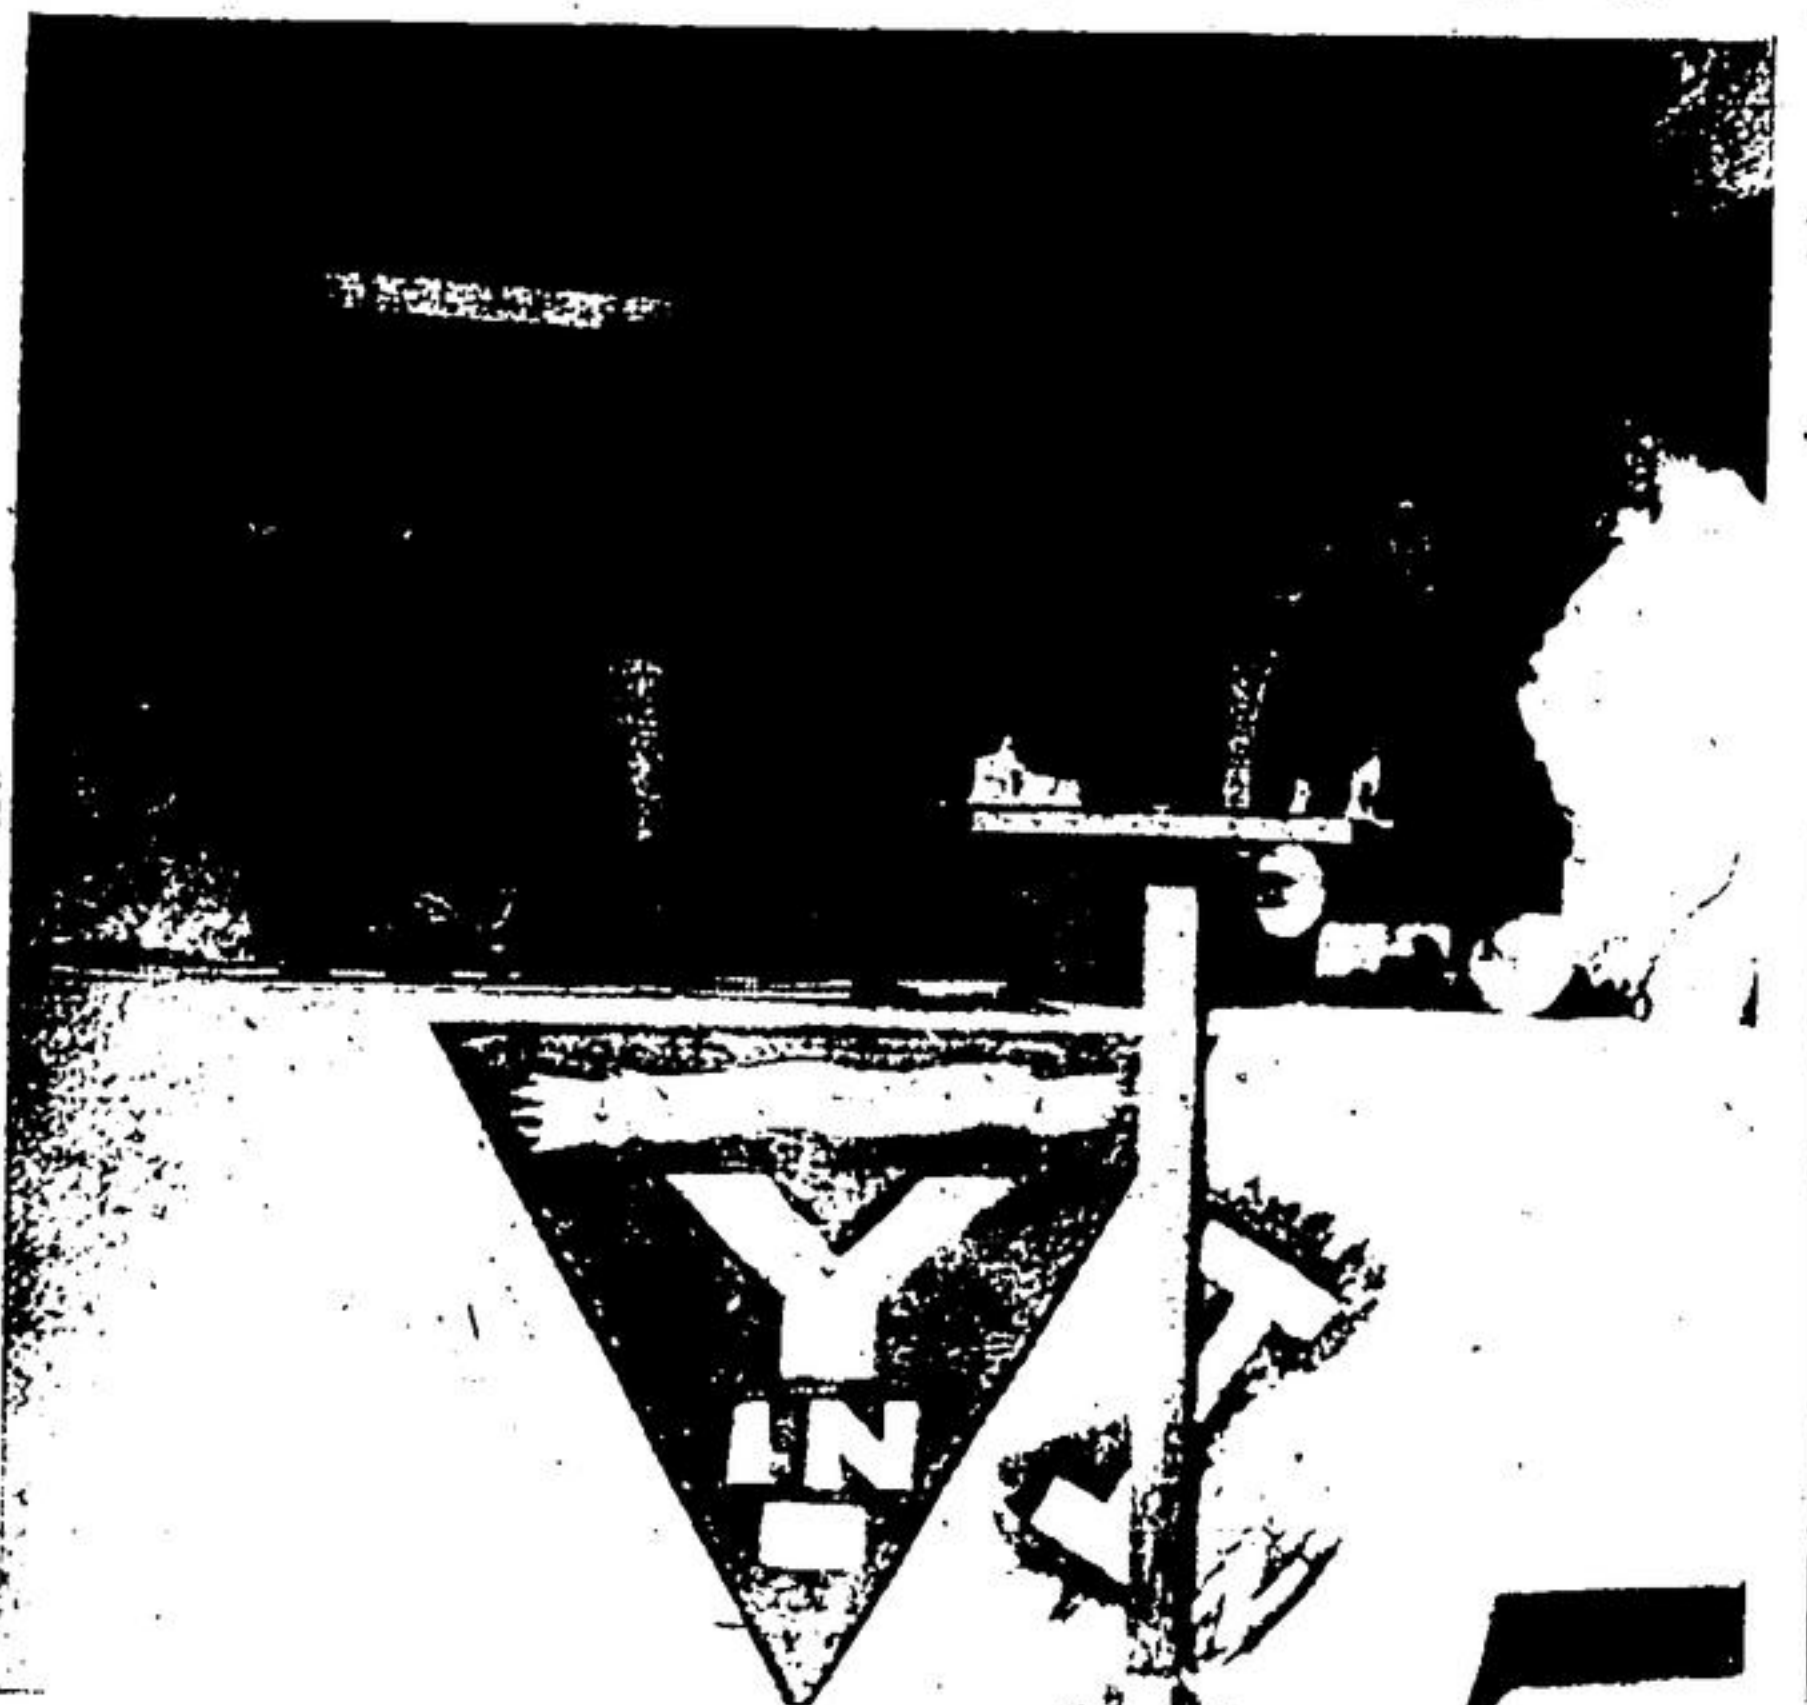

McLaughlin outlined the club program of the year, and Jim Jenkins gave a short lecture on safety equipment. The lesson, conducted by Neil McLaughlin, was followed by a short quiz, after which the club president Murray McCaig closed the meeting.
