

HERE'S A MAIN COURSE THAT BITES BACK

LITTLE CRAIG HARVIEUX watches attentively as his mom, Mrs. Arlene Harvieux, tries to coax a smile from a temporary resident at the Harvieux house for the Herald photographer. His buddies lined up on the table seem no more eager to ham it up for the camera. Lobster lovers in town and district have beaten a path to the Harvieux door since they began handling fresh and cooked denizens of the sea a couple of weeks ago. The lobsters are flown in from Halifax.

Judge's Resignation Surprise to Council

A letter from T. Graham of the Ontario Police Commission appointing Judge H. P. Cavers of Orangeville to the Georgetown Police Commission took council by surprise Monday night.

The letter stated that Judge Alan B. Sprague had resigned on the 10th of May.

"It seems funny to me," commented Reeve W. Hunter, "that this happened May 16, and we heard nothing about it until now." Continuing the Reeve reminded the mayor that Orangeville was a lot farther than Terra Cotta, "that you're always talking about," he added.

"I know you get all your news from the thimble clubs in Terra Cotta," retorted the mayor, "but the first I heard of the resignation was four o'clock this afternoon when I read the mail."

"Why did he quit," asked the deputy reeve.

"No idea," replied the mayor.

An accident later the same day did $200 damage to a car driven by James Russell Lowrie of 12 King Street E. Georgetown. No other vehicles were involved in this one on No. 10 Sideroad at the Esqueving-Chinguacousy town line.

On Friday, a school bus driven by Anna Dew of 27 Mountainview Rd. N. and a car driven by a Limehouse resident, last name McLellan, came together near the 4th Line of Esqueving, resulting in $500 in property damage. The car driver's first name was not available since the OPP's accident records were incomplete.

Hold By - Law Till Easement Settled

Third reading on a by-law authorizing the mayor and clerk to sign an agreement for an easement with E. Hyde, Ewing Street, was deferred a week when Cr. Francis and Reeve Hunter questioned the location of the easement at council Monday night.

Reeve W. Hunter claimed the easement would only serve the proposed apartment buildings with no one else on Cherry St. able to cut in.

The mayor pointed out that Mr. Hyde could only give an easement over his own property.

The Reeve claimed it could be extended to service all of Cherry St.

The third reading will be given next week after council is satisfied with the location.
