EAGER EATERS survey the traditional stirring of the pots at the Y's Day Camp at Terra Cotta Conservation Area where a cookout is a high point of the week's activities. Children are bussed from Georgetown and the Glen Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays for a full day of outdoors fun, and returned in the late afternoons.

WHAT WOULD A CAMP LUNCH be without a watermelon to top it off? Here Jeff Richardson attempts the old problem — how to get a mouth full of melon without and seeds. Georgetown operates the Day Camp annually during July.

A blind net tournament gave every one a chance at a prize last Tuesday at North Halton Golf & Country club ladies day.

For the 18 hole players, 71 was the lucky figure, and Mabel Sanderson and Millie Dutilburn shared honours with their nets of 72 and 70.

The 37 blind net for the nine hole players was hit right on the button by three golfers, Phyl Monekton, Mary Patterson and Verna Grozelle.

John McNally Vies for Ont. Junior Golf Title

John McNally, 22 Market St., will be taking a crack at the Ontario Junior Golf title at the London Hunt Club on July 30-31.

Playing at the Markland Wood course in Etobicoke, John's two over par score of 73 earned him first place in the Toronto District tournament for Juniors and the right to enter the Ontario match.

Three years ago he won similar honours as a bantam but failed to place in the provincial competition. He plays his golf locally at North Halton.

Another North Halton player, Leslie Owen was a winner in the Ontario contest for junior girls which took place this week at Summit.

Leslie was entered in the novice section who do not have handicaps and play only nine holes each day. Leslie's 119 was best in this section.

Mr. Mackenzie was playing a foursome with assistant pro Don Williamson, Ed Wakefield and John Thomas.

He was repeating past history in 1931 and again in 1932, at the same course, then known as Cedarvale, and operated as a private 9 hole club by the late J.E. Willoughby, he also had access.
