AVIAN AIRCRAFT LIMITED on Armstrong Avenue is expected soon to be able to release details of financing and production plans for its Avian 2-180 gyroplane which two weeks ago received Dept. of Transport certification. The DOT telegram granting air worthiness certification to the sixth prototype ended nine long years of building and testing by the local firm.

My Fair Lady Features Many Georgetown Performers

Tuesday night 'My Fair Lady' may not be a cast of thousands as the epic movies say, but it involves approximately fifty on stage and another 20 behind the scenes.

It was well received, with the costuming in the ballroom and Ascot scenes, well above amateur level.

The lighting, by the team of Bob Whiteford and Alan Maxwell is imaginatively and delicately done to create just the right atmosphere. The scenery too is right for the era, with even the furniture being real period vintage.

However, the four main leads carry the show. Milren Armstrong as Eliza, the cockney turned aristocrat, Ron Hill as Professor Higgins, her teacher and tormentor, Bob Thornley as Colonel Pickering, the calming force and the impudent ebullient Doolittle, the dustman played by Ron Hunt.

Show a Month May Be Library Innovation

by Marjorie Nazer

Both the play and puppet show were a great success — so much so that at the Board meeting on November 19 it was suggested that we might put on a show a month if our boys and girls will co-operate.

So you budding dramatists and play producers get busy. The library staff are more than willing to go along with you and help. Gary Judd has already offered to do another puppet show for us at the Christmas holidays.

We want to thank the Georgetown Transportation Company for being most generous in transporting a merry crowd to Milton to see Aladdin during Young Canada's Book Week. Also to thank the South Central Regional System for the loan of 100 books to the boys and girls library. Another thank you too — this time to the Georgetown

Arts and Crafts for the gift of $10, which has provided the library with Gordon Green's new book, 'A Heritage of Canadian Handicrafts'. Every province is represented in this book which contains some historical facts of interest to others besides handicrafters.

Our circulation this month looks as if we shall have to make a new and larger chart. With two months records still to be made this year, we are already 21,924 over last year's circulation.

GEORGETOWN HANDLE GLEN SEWAGE?

A letter from Esqueping council read at the town's council meeting Monday said that the Ontario Water Resources Commission says sewage disposal in Glen Williams could best be handled in conjunction with Georgetown.

"Sooner or later we're going to have to do something," was acting mayor Hunter's comment as the letter was referred to a committee for discussion.

Mission Support is Below Average, Presbytery Told

"This is my maiden speech as convener of Stewardship and Budget, but it will be no mini-budget," commented the Rev. R.D. Duncan of Norval, to the Presbytery of Brantford of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, meeting in Boston Church near Milton on Tuesday, November 19.

He revealed that the Presbytery's givings to the budget (the outreach beyond the local congregation, including home and overseas missions) ranked 33rd out of the 48 presbyteries in the country. Thirty-two presbyteries reached or exceeded the national average but this one fell 90 cents per member below giving only $0.38 per member last year to the broader work of the church. The speaker, urging greater response, noted that this was true of one of the most favoured parts of the country.

A forward step was taken by the presbytery in applying to the Women's Missionary Society for the appointment of a deaconess to train Christian education workers in new congregations in this presbytery and East and West Toronto Presbyteries.

Recognizing the challenge of a population trebling in five years through new high-rise, medium-rise and town housing in Bramalea, the presbytery agreed to the suggestion of the congregation to ask the National Church Extension Department

Plans for a conference on adult education and for a meeting of lay people regarding the National Development were announced.

The court convened under the moderator, Rev. D. S. ... with its ...
