

New Members Swell Ranks for St. Andrew's Bazaar

Newer members had a large hand in the success of St. Andrew's United Church Women's bazaar held Saturday, November 23 in the church at the corner of Mountainview Road and Sinclair Avenue.

The large number of new residents in the St. Andrew's area resulted in a membership boom and because of the size of the organization the bazaar was undertaken.

Many new members were table conveners assisted by long-time members: Peggy Shannon had charge of a bake goods and candy table; Lynn Hart; sewing table; Marjory Ackroyd, knitting table; Janice Smith, doll's clothes; Joanne Schweyer, Christmas decorations; Evelyn Martin, parcel post; Patricia, Children's table; and Florence Skilling, miscellaneous.

A unique table was that operated by Mrs. Connie Johnston who sold children's and adults' books from the Ryerson Book Store in Toronto.

Mrs. W. J. Ashlee headed the bazaar committee.

The project, one of the most successful ever for the St. Andrew's UCW, made $470 for the treasury.

It's expected the bazaar will be held annually.

COUNTING THEIR MONEY with an eye on the cupcakes at the bake table are a couple of young bazaar customers, Kerry Kaulback and Marie Milne.

MRS. A. SKILLING holds a flower arrangement, one of the many articles which caught the eye of customers at the miscellaneous table.

"Y" TALK

by JIM EGERTON

by Jim Egerton

Last week on my day off from work, I was watching my Friendly Giant on television, when the mailman delivered the following letter:

Dear Jim:
Is there really a 'Y' in town? Where is the building, the swimming pool, the gym? Where does the money go? I gave to you during the campaign? Could you please answer so as to ease my mind.

Signed,
— VIRGINIA

Dear Virginia:
Yes, Virginia, there is a 'Y' in Georgetown. As for the building, etc., we don't have one. After all, Virginia our theatre wasn't built in a day. If I may be allowed to start from scratch, The 'Y' is run by a board of directors. This is a group consisting of keenly interested citizens of Georgetown.

This group then sets up programmes throughout the year. Some of these programmes include: judo, gym classes, badminton, all at the high school here in town. Others include golf, skiing, skiing starts in January at Hockley Valley. For this program watch the Herald ads.

Another program is 'Y' teens. This should interest the young set who want something to do. One programme which should interest the average everyday housewife who has dishpan hands and all is 'Ladies Take a Break'. This was set up to give the housewife something to do while

Social Evening for Baha'i Community

The Baha'i community of Oakville were the hosts recently at the Cedarvale Centre in Georgetown when they invited the local Baha'is and their friends to enjoy a social time with them.

After an hour of music and games a film on Halton County was shown. This depicted the variety of choices which are available to the High School graduate right in this area as he faces the responsibility of manhood.

A few visitors from Brampton and Dundas also contributed to the success of the evening.
