Tulsa Firm Building Canadian Plant Here

McNally Construction has started work on a 15,000 sq. ft. factory on Armstrong Avenue for T. D. Williamson (Canada) Limited. The company, with head office in Tulsa, Oklahoma, is the fifth American-based firm McNally has located here in the past 18 months.

It is hoped the Williamson company, which makes component parts for transmission pipelines, will go into production in April.

McNally Construction is currently negotiating with two other companies, one which would build a 125,000 square foot plant, and the other a 35,000 square foot plant here.

Seek Expropriation for Reservoir Development

Haltom Region Conservation Authority may seek to expropriate 25 acres of land owned by Bruce Frame of R.R. 3, Milton for the Scotch Block reservoir project.

pages are impossible to meet," resources manager Dave Murray told the executive last week.

The project has been delayed while engineers attempt to devise a more economic type of structure for the dam.

The full authority next Tuesday will be asked to approve an executive recommendation to ask a county judge for permission to expropriate the parcel. The authority already has approval to expropriate 67 acres owned by three other persons for the project.

The executive decided to seek expropriation after solicitor for Frame asked that a new clause be added to the proposed agreement of sale, permitting him to go onto the property to obtain water.

A police report said Jacqueline Hills, 23, and Billy and Terry Hills age three and four, all of R.R. 1, Georgetown, were injured in a broadside two-car accident at the Guelph - Mountainview intersection Friday.

The solicitors said Frame has been unable to find sufficient water on the remaining property where he is building a house and has an orchard.

A police report said Jacqueline Hills, 23, and Billy and Terry Hills age three and four, all of R.R. 1, Georgetown, were injured in a broadside two-car accident at the Guelph - Mountainview intersection Friday.

Town Roads, Army Set For Winter's Worst

The town works force is ready for its annual battle with winter snow and ice. Two thousand tons of sand mixed with one hundred and twenty-five tons of salt are stockpiled in the town yard. An extra twenty-five tons of straight salt is there too, ready to corrode the car fenders.

This year, the twenty-three man force has an added fifteen men to maintain, since the now subdivision roads have been taken over by the town.

Tenders are being called for two tail-gate spreaders to supplement the existing big sand spreader. The town has one truck-mounted snowplough and is calling tenders on another. In addition they now have front end loaders for loading the snow.

A grader with wings is rented on a standby basis to ensure the town can go about its business in a heavy storm.

The snowploughs are now radio equipped, so they can be called to the worst spots in a hurry.

"Please keep your ears off the road," is the plea of the works department, so they can go about their business of clearing the way for others.

Along with other duties, the town men will maintain four outdoor skating rinks this year, the boards are built and ready to be installed.

Rinks will be built, and flooded, at Cedarvale, Park School, Harrison School, and at the new park on Weber Drive. These should all be in operation for the Christmas holidays.

No Trace Here Yet of Dread Hong Kong Flu

The Hong Kong flu has not arrived in Halton yet.

Dr. L. M. Stuart, director of the Halton County Health Unit, said although there is a fair amount of influenza going around, the unit has not been notified of any cases of Hong Kong flu.

He said individual doctors, who have conducted tests on patients, may have come across cases of the Hong Kong flu but that he has not heard of any.

The flu has already affected a number of United States residents after killing a number of people in Hong Kong. Dr. Edward O'Rourke, New York City health commissioner, has predicted the flu will take 300 to 400 lives in that city this winter.

Dr. Stuart said with the open border between Canada and the United States the flu will naturally be carried up here. He said the unit has received no word from the Ontario minister of health regarding the use of preventative vaccines.

Water Supplies To Be Piped From Lakeshore

Three years and three months of negotiations ended Tuesday as five Peel County municipalities agreed to participate in the largest project in Ontario Water Resources Commission history.

Under the $88-million scheme the OWRC will supply Peel County's five southern municipalities, Mississauga, Port Credit, Streetsville, Brampton and the urban area of Chinguacousy Township, with a municipal water supply piped from Lake Ontario, and accept sanitary sewage from the five for treatment and disposal.

The OWRC announced the 20 year project August 24, 1965 and at that time it carried a price tag of $67 million.

The scheme will cover a 490-square mile area from the western border of Metropolitan Toronto to Oakville and north from Lake Ontario, a distance of about 20 miles. Under the scheme the OWRC will take over major water purification plants and major trunk mains now owned by the municipality. Costs will be borne by the OWRC with the municipalities paying on a user basis.

The initial source will be the existing Lakeview water filtration plant; sewage will be handled at existing treatment plants in Lakeview and Clarkson. First construction will be a major addition to the Lakeview sewage treatment plant.

Students Attempt Protest

An attempt by an unknown number of Georgetown high school students to demonstrate against the Ontario Department of Education's move to extend the school term has apparently failed to gain the support of the student body.

The protesters walked out of classes first thing Wednesday morning. A spokesman told The Herald that as many as three hundred may have been involved but high school principal Michael Furlong said at press time he knew of no more than eight.

He said a few attempted to return to school in the afternoon, but were told they would be readmitted when they produced letters from their parents explaining their absence.

One of the protesting students said the extra two weeks on the school term would affect students' chances at getting summer jobs. He said the protest was spontaneous.

Some placards were made, but nobody chose to carry them.

November Building Permits Exceed Million Dollars

A whopping big total of $1,331,746 in building permits was issued in town during the month of November.

With only two exceptions, the permits were for houses.

The two exceptions were a $10,000 office at Deltacrafts, and a $10,000 car wash on Guelph Street.

Free Hour Parking For Holiday Shoppers

In a spirit of good-will toward the long suffering car owner, council, Monday, decided to have the meters covered, not from December 17th till 27th as originally intended but to Dec. 31st.

Parking will be limited to one hour, with the police keeping an eye, or a piece of chalk on the situation.

Cr. Roy Ballentine opposed, claiming it caused problems with store employees parking all day.

Reverse Procedure Husbands Serve Dinner

Christmas is a time for banquets and so it was at Maple Avenue Baptist Church when sixty women gathered for the most successful and talked about banquet ever to be held by the Women's Missionary Society.

What made it so?

The way in which the waiters (husbands), with so much charm and professional manner, served hors d'oeuvres and punch, followed by delicious turkey dinner.

The good time of carol singing by the Christmas skit presented by some of the ladies — the word of God as it was presented by Robert Wakfer, husband of the retiring president — and the fellowship enjoyed.

In a special way the maitre d' Russell Armstrong, was appreciated as he led the waiters in their work, and made it a personal duty to see that all the guests were made welcome.

The new executive for the coming year was introduced — Mrs. Royden Swin, president; Mrs. Val Stein, vice president; Mrs. Fred Mack, treasurer; and Mrs. Ross Linton, treasurer.

Extend Canvass Area For March of Dimes

Mrs. Mary Cooper who heads the local March of Dimes organization, held a get-together with captains at Cedarvale Community Centre recently.

Slides of the Sheltered Work shops throughout Ontario were shown, also the products of the rehabilitation industries that are made by the disabled.

For last minute Christmas shoppers and a truly Canadian gift, Mrs. Cooper has available a selection of Eskimo dolls and plush stuffed animals, modestly priced.

The area to be canvassed next year has been greatly enlarged and now includes Ashgrove, Hornby, Huttonville, Limehouse, Stewarttown, Noval, Glen Williams and Georgetown. Volunteers are still being sought for the canvass planned for January 27.

The March of Dimes is the fund raising arm of the Rehabilitation Foundation for the disabled.

Refreshments were served in the Sunday School hall at the program's conclusion.

Junior Sunday School classes held their Christmas program two weeks earlier.

Robert Scott Dies in Car Plunge North of Glen

Robert Scott, 27, of Toronto is dead as the result of a single car accident on the 9th line of Equestrian north of Glen Williams Saturday night.

He was a passenger in his own car which was being driven by Patricia Ann Cooper, 22, also of Toronto.

The couple were driving south on the 9th line when the driver lost control on a steep hill with a curve. The car left the road and hit a tree killing

Mr. Scott instantly. He apparently died of massive chest injuries.

Miss Cooper suffered a hip injury and was treated at Georgetown and District Memorial Hospital and released.

North Halton OPP constable Ron Hudd investigated the crash and placed damage to the car at $1,600.

Police were notified of the accident at 10:30.

Mailing Volume Down For Christmas Cards

The reason is debatable, but the volume of Christmas cards mailed locally is down. It could be the hike in stamp prices has discouraged the well-wishers or simply a delayed Christmas spirit, which will suddenly catch fire.

If this does happen it means frantic last minute chaos for the postal employees, who will have to move a mountain of mail, just before Christmas day. Seventeen extra employees have been hired for the season, but if the delayed Christmas rush bursts forth, more will be needed.

No resident of town will have to walk to pick up their Christmas mail. Even the newest sections of town now have door to door delivery.

Financing Not Approved Delay Water Contract

A motion to award a $19,805 contract to Rutledge Water Wells for the installation of No. 5 well on Princess Anne Drive, was defeated Monday night, on the grounds the financing had not been approved.

Cr. Roy Ballentine reminded council approval had not been received from the OMB for the financing of No. 4 well, far less No. 5 well. "I feel the OMB would say council if we apply for approval after we bring the well into production, especially since we haven't had No. 4 well approved, and it is in production." He maintained the cost would have to be debentured, since it could not be financed out of current revenue.

forecast an increase in water rates would be necessary to take care of it.

"This will be the first problem facing the new water commission" remarked mayor-elect Steamer Emmerson. "They will have to decide how it will be financed, whether four and five will be debentured together, or one debentured and the other financed out of current revenue."

In conclusion, he urged council to wait two or three weeks for the water commission to have a chance to investigate.

The motion was defeated with Crs. Francis, and Hole and deputy reeve Speight in favour.

"Don't Buy," Speight Advice to Council

Deputy reeve Art Speight accused Halton County of "trying to unload a front end loader" on any unwitting municipality, at council Monday night.

County engineer J. Corbett in a letter to the town asked if they would like to bid on a 1954 caterpillar front end loader, which the county planned to sell.

A motion to have the engineer and works superintendent look at the piece of equipment passed over the objection of Cr. Hole, and deputy reeve Speight.

Cr. Steamer Emmerson pointed out the town has been renting a front end loader at $450 a month for the sanitary land fill site, and wondered if this would serve the same purpose.

"It is fourteen years old, and would at least need a major overhaul," stated the deputy reeve. "Why do you think the county is disposing of it?" he asked.

"You should know, you go to the county," shot back Cr. W. Smith.

"It has outlived its usefulness" replied the deputy reeve, "and the county wants to unload it."

Reeve W. Hunter, the Warden of Halton County, explained this tractor had not been used as much as some others, and had mainly been used in stockpiling sand and salt. "I was told it could be fixed up for three to five thousand dollars," he added.

Cr. Emmerson emphasized it was not a motion to buy but simply to look at it.

Costs between forty and fifty thousand dollars, I think it's worth taking a look at."

The engineer and works superintendent will "take a look."

The engineer and works superintendent will "take a look."

EDIBLE ART: Master Chef of the Terra Cotta Inn staff puts the finishing touches on one of his specialties, truly almost too beautiful to eat. Chef Alfons trained in his native Switzerland, then travelled to Lima, Peru, where he worked for a Swiss hotel. Later in Lima, he established his own bakery business. After fourteen years in Peru, he became chef at a British Columbia hotel. From there he came to the Terra Cotta Inn, where he has been for the past five years. He is the pastry chef who concocts all the fancy desserts, wedding cakes, rolls and decorations for cold buffets. His wife is head cook at the Terra Cotta Inn, where they and their two children live all year round.
