Talks to Businesswomen on Exploiting Members' Talents

Mrs. Dana Heather, Regional Advisor, was guest speaker at the February dinner meeting of the Georgetown Business and Professional Women's Club, at the North Halton Golf & Country Club.

Mrs. Heather's talk was a re-evaluation of the aims and objectives of the club, how to make the most of the various talents of the members, in the fields most suited to them. It was more or less a 'shot in the arm' type of talk and the future will speak of its effectiveness. Mrs. Maureen Walker presented Mrs. Heather with a corsage prior to the meeting and Mrs. Ada Wilkinson thanked her on behalf of the club.

After the regular business meeting closed with the club benediction.

Ninety-three cubs in the 9-10 year age range from each pack in the Georgetown District, plus 12 leaders, attended a Pack Conference at St. John's United Church, Saturday.

After Rev. Robert Scrivens opened the meeting with a prayer, District Cub Master J. R. Colter welcomed the Cubs on behalf of the district staff.

The workshops at this year's conference enabled the Cubs to take a close look at the hobbies and occupations of a number of adults in the district.

Mr. Zmija gave them a look into the world of film collecting while other Cubs peered through Mr. Schenk's microscope to see what water pollution looks like.

Mr. Ralph Bailey introduced electronics and showed the Cubs how their voices appeared on an oscilloscope.

Many inspected the equipment of a photographer's dark room for the first time where Mr. Malcolm Clark explained and demonstrated how negatives are made into prints.

For those who like things on the sweet side, Mr. George Moore showed one of his bee hives and explained how the bees made and stored the honey. A sample of the product was a popular feature of this display.

For those interested in motors, Mr. William Geggie, had a demonstration of motor parts. And for an out-of-this-world display, Miss Diane Giles showed the care and use of a telescope. For future pilots, Mr. Paul Duchin showed a film, "Jet Pilot."

Mr. John Owen, through the magic of chemistry, made foam plastic in a paper cup while Cubs looked on in amazement, and Mr. Youmans showed the boys the art of paper folding. For those who might want to progress to more sophisticated things, he had on hand a working model of a clock he had made of paper.

A noon meal was provided by the Ladies Auxiliary of 1st Georgetown Cubs and Scouts. Primary organizers of the conference were Mrs. Terry Colter and Mrs. Dawn Livingstone.

Realty Firm Appoints District Sales Agent

Don Holst Real Estate Ltd., is now represented in this area by Mrs. Catharine Mathews, R. R. 1, Georgetown.

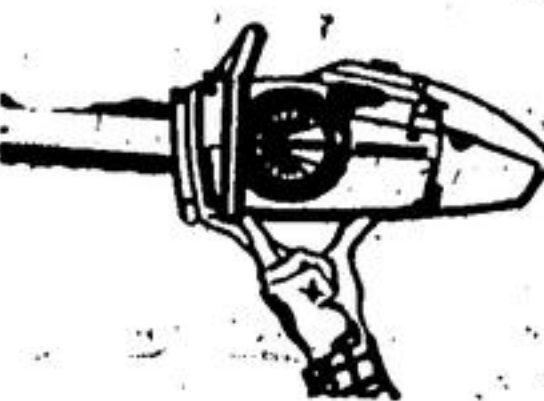

Mr. Holst, a former salesman and district manager in this district for Paul S. Starr & Co. Ltd., purchased three branch offices in 1965 from Mr. Starr—in Owen Sound, Hanover and Wingham.

Since then he has opened offices in Flesherston, Durham, Meaford, Goderich, Kincardine, Stratford and St. Marys.

The firm now has 45 sales representatives and has started an exclusive photo listing service, providing each with a picture and listing information on every property listed by the company.

Kelso Highway Area Prone to Accidents

Motorists using the roads in North Halton continue to pile up a terrible traffic toll, year-end figures on motor vehicle accidents released this week by the North Halton OPP detachment seem to be saying.

During 1968 the force investigated 691 accidents which brought death to 14 people, injuries to another 337 and caused a total property damage of $438,929.

The North Halton OPP force patrols all roads in the North Halton area north of the Base Line excepting roads within the town boundaries of Acton and Georgetown. There are 246 miles of Esquesing and Nassagaweya Township roads, 80 miles of Halton County roads, and 40 miles of provincial highways — for a grand total of 366 miles patrolled.

Their area includes 183 sq. miles and a population of about 11,646. There are 27 men in the Milton OPP detachment — a sergeant, three corporals and 23 constables.

With increased travel by motor vehicle, OPP officers note an increasing accident rate. In the five year period 1962 to 1966, the OPP had roughly the same area to cover and the average calamity rate for the five years was 496 accidents, seven deaths, 192 persons injured and $268,931 in property damage. The 1968 figures show an INCREASE of 195 accidents, seven deaths, 145 injured people and $169,998 damage over the previous five year average.

The story of accidents is grimly portrayed on huge maps of North Halton gracing the
