Make, Model Fun Fashions

RUTH KIRKWOOD

Ruth Kirkwood and Dolene De Shies were two of the many Stewarttown Senior School pupils modelling their outfits created in home economics class at the school when they held their fashion show Thursday, June 19th. The creations were modelled in a misty Parisienne setting they designed themselves. Beverly Atkins provided the background piano music.

Summer School Available For Georgetown Students

Registration deadline for Halton County summer school, operating at Thomas A. Blakelock High School, in Oakville this year, is July 3.

Registration will take place at the regular high schools of students intending to attend summer school and who have the approval of their principals.

Make-up courses in grades 9 to 13 subjects will be offered as well as some enrichment or special interest courses.

What subjects will be taught however, will not be known until the students register and the size of each class is known said Robert Langlois, summer school principal.

A tentative staff has already been hired in advance he said. Some teachers have been hired on a full time basis and some part time, to go full time as the situation demands, he said.

Summer school will run for six weeks from July 7 through August 15, including examinations.

Instruction is scheduled to take place from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. five days a week.

Fees will not be charged and transportation will be provided for the first time, said Langlois.

Summer school will therefore probably operate at a deficit of $5,000 to $8,000 because fees cannot be charged students.

Department of Education regulations do not permit a board to charge fees if it accepts provincial grants for the courses according to O. A. Gilmore, superintendent of instruction for the Halton County Board of Education.

Gilmore told board trustees recently that if the board were to charge fees and not accept the grants, the cost per subject would be about $25.

Total cost, including transportation, would therefore be between $55 to $60 for each student enrolled in two courses, maximum permitted in summer school, he said.

The board has accepted provincial grants for summer school similar to night school grants, and for transportation costs said Gilmore.

Regiment at Camp Petawawa

There are no hazy lazy days ahead for the militiamen of the Lorne Scots Regiment.

Sunday they joined other citizen-soldiers of Ontario militia units for two weeks of intensive training at Canadian Forces Base, Petawawa.

Until this Saturday, the Ontario Regional Reserve will gather at the sprawling base, and there the men will be trained to the rifle platoon level of offensive opposition.

Highlighting the training will be day and night patrolling and long hours of firing on the ranges. They will be integrated with regular forces for most manoeuvres.

The following week, the men assigned to the Mobile Command Reserve will gather at Petawawa for their workout.

In July and August, courses will be held at Petawawa to qualify militiamen as officers and NCOs with their units.
