

Golden Wedding Celebration In Lindsay Family Homestead

In the 104 year old family homestead, of Donald Lindsay, where Rev. I. F. Cameron officiated, the 7th Line, friends and relatives gathered to honour Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Lindsay, Sunday afternoon, on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. The celebration was held by the couple's family.

The couple well-known throughout the area, were married, on August 18, 1919, at Knox College Chapel, Toronto.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay, the former Isabel Leslie, were born in the district. Mrs. Leslie on the 4th Line Esqueving, and Mr. Lindsay in the house in which the celebration was held. Both attended Georgetown High School.

Mrs. Lindsay is the daughter of John and Mary Leslie and sister of George, former reeve of Esqueving. Three other brothers, Blake, Edward and Dean are deceased.

Mr. Lindsay, son of James R. and Jessie Cowan Lindsay, is one of a family of seven. His sister, Mrs. Alvin McDonald lives in town at 22 Queen St., and Mrs. Hyatt Dobbie in Grimmsby; and there are brothers Bert of Grimmsby, Jack of Hamilton, Jim of Millburn, New Jersey and Hugh of Oakville.

Kenneth Cowan Lindsay, popularly known as "K.C." to friends and business associates alike, farmed on the site of the celebrations, until becoming Esqueving Township treasurer 28 years ago, later he became Clerk-Treasurer, and still holds that position.

Son Donald and his wife now farm the "Century Farm" so designated because it has been in the same family over a hundred years.

The couple had seven children, and now have 18 grandchildren. In addition to Donald who operates the farm, there is Bruce, Bob, Jean, Mrs. D. M. Davidson of Guelph, Mary, Mrs. Thomas Carberry, Tullamore, Barbara, who nurses at South Peel Hospital, and Ruth, who died two years ago.

All day and evening, friends streamed in to wish the couple well on the happy occasion.

Councillor Gordon Agnew was elected to serve as deputy reeve in accepting the position, Mrs. MacArthur said. "This is one of the greatest honours I could have." She went on to say "It is not the desired way to come into this office, though."

The new reeve will continue in her post at county council.

Trailers Replacing Tents in Modern Camping World

Camping Boy Scout style with a bedroom under the stars and a wood fire to warm your beans, is going the way of the buffalo.

Hikers along the Bruce Trail are the last holdouts. And they will have hostels eventually.

Tents, too, will soon be obsolete. And the crackle of a wood fire is getting costly. Some provincial parks are already selling wood at 25 cents and 50 cents an armful. The Niagara Conservation Authority charges 50 cents a bushel.

The Credit Valley Conservation Authority still furnishes wood free for its 86 campsites at Terra Cotta and 30 sites at Minora Park in Orangeville. But in two years, the supply of diseased elm trees being burned now will be gone.

"The trend is toward trailers," says Norman McMahon, CVCA superintendent and secretary-treasurer for the past four years of the Ontario Association of Conservation Authority Officers. "In a few years, nobody will know what a tent is."

Camper trailers, the kind with canvas sides, roofs that collapse for towing, are popular at present. But all-aluminum, $8,000 jobs — oval-shaped, like a big cigar — says McMahon — are being seen more frequently around the campgrounds. From 12 to 16 feet long, they have cooking and bathroom facilities with water storage.

McMahon says camping has increased by about 30 per cent a year for the past six years. Some 40 families were turned away from the Terra Cotta campgrounds over the Dominion Day weekend, despite an overflow area of 60 units in the picnic grounds.

Since they were opened two years ago, the 30 campsites at Minora have never been filled. But pressure for camping has increased so much that the Metro Toronto Conservation Area began camping last year on a limited basis. Reservations are needed for the 50 sites at the
