Niece High Girl In Oxford Exams

Summer '69 has been a busy one at Cedarvale Community Centre. Activities as different as soccer and freeschool have been attracting crowds to the municipally-operated site at the corner of Maple and Main.

The Georgetown Minor Soccer Association reports that 400 boys are playing soccer this year, with 500 expected next year. Many local spectators and visitors from other teams in the league have turned out to make this newest of spectator sports in Georgetown a success. The dressing rooms, for the soccer association are partially complete now. The organizers of the association have spent many hours installing the necessary equipment themselves.

Freeschool, an enterprise which is the brain child of four local youths, has proven to be an interesting exercise in the art of discussion. The series winds up Tuesday, August 26.

The work of improving the buildings and grounds continues this summer. The main building has received a new coat of stucco, and will acquire a fresh paint job within the month. Eavesdropping repairs will complete the face-lifting. Georgetown's parks crew has also been working hard to beautify the grounds. Along with pruning and clearing away overgrowth, flowers are blooming in the beds surrounding the driveway.

Rooms for meetings are now available at the Community Centre, since the auction sale allowed the board to clear out many of the former storage rooms. Most of the rooms will allow a meeting of up to 20 people to be held; chairs and tables are available as needed. Mrs. Hamilton is the person to contact; she can be reached Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 877-9466.

If you are out for a walk or drive around our town, drop into Cedarvale. It's worth a look. There's lots of play equipment for the children, too!

High honours have been received in England by a Georgetown woman's niece.

Vivian Forster was high girl at Oxford University, receiving 'A' level in her exams.

She is a niece of Mrs. W. R. McMurray, 63 Main Street and cousin of Yvonne Stein of Toronto and Bruce Forster of Huttonville.

Retired Orenda Employee Clarence Bouskill Dies

Clarence Bouskill, of 943 Southdown Rd., South, Clarkson, died at the Oakville-Trafalgar Hospital, Oakville, Aug. 9. He is survived by his wife the former Adele Noble, three sons and one daughter, Clarence (Bud) Los Angeles, California, Betty (Mrs. J. Cross) Milton, Lawrence, Clarkson, John C.F.B. Harper of Trinity Anglican Church, Port Credit was assisted by Mr. John Teewater, who brought a message of comfort and hope from the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints. The soloist, Mrs. Peter McElheron sang "A Stranger from Galilee."

Palbearers were nephews, Dave Wood, Douglas Thompson, Dick Hancock, David Noble, Edgar Haugh and Charles Walters. Interment was in Spring Creek Cemetery, Clarkson.

CLERGY COMMENT:

Some Thoughts on Censorship

by Rev. K. C. Johnston, St. Andrew's United Church

A prominent Canadian recently said that "churches must unite to fight a flood of filth and obscenity reaching the Canadian public. Canada has no effective law against obscenity, and filth virtually enjoys an open season." He cited paperbacks, magazines, radio, and television as "the polluted channels of dissemination of obscenity."

Earlier this year the Supreme Court of the United States announced that it is no longer illegal for a person to have lewd films, books, etc. in his home, provided he does not make them available for public viewing or for sale. What a man does in his own home, then, is his own business. Does this suggest a collapse of all moral decency?

Censorship in any form (as desirable as that might appear) could well point to the beginning of dictatorship, and this is contrary to our concept of democracy. When one group of citizens is in a position to force its will on other groups someone is sure to cry "Totalitarianism!"

Some may say: "Let people choose for themselves. If they really want filth, and obscenity, and violence they'll get it, one way or another. And if they don't want it they won't buy it, and then the authors or producers will go out of business." Others may say, "Most people don't know what they want anyway, or what is good for them. They need controls."

John Milton once said: "Give me liberty to know, to utter, and to argue freely, according to conscience . . . above all other liberties."

The case against censorship might be summed up briefly like this:

1. We must respect the individual's right and liberty to see, read, write, and publish whatever he likes, remembering that liberty is not a license.
 2. Censorship is often the greatest advertisement for that which is bad. The surest way to make a book or play or movie popular (with many people) is simply to ban it.
 3. Truth is truth, and to proscribe or prohibit its publication, or to limit it in any way, is itself an immoral act.
- On the other hand:
1. Society has a duty to preserve moral decency. History

1. proves that moral decline always brings with it disaster. The Bible records that fact, too . . . and more.
 2. The intention behind the publication or production of literature or art should be the governing factor in deciding whether a work is good or unworthy.
 3. Enforcement of necessary law is possible only where public opinion is solidly behind it.
- Those of us who deplore the lowering of moral standards must give careful thought before coming to final conclusions. We can best make our influence felt, not through force, but through love. And that, after all, is the way of Jesus Christ.
