Cynthia Partridge, foreground, and Aileen Hipkins get set to deliver their shots at North Halton Curling Club. The curling season got under way there a little over three weeks ago with a membership of about 200 women. Because of the swelling number of staff curling devotees the North Halton ice sheets belong to the gals' curling section four afternoons, one morning and one evening every week.

Nancy Tothe delivers a stone during ladies' section play in the current draw. The section's first draw of the season started in mid-November and will run for another week. The ladies' first big bonspiel of the young season comes up this Saturday when the Mackenzie Trophy holds the spotlight. Many of the section members log extra time on the ice by joining the men for the mixed curling program which operates Friday nights and Sundays.

We have noticed when games with every boy playing hockey are over, a few boys waiting around for parents to pick them up. In Tykes, the rules are few, but one we do have and it must be kept — is that all boys must be accompanied by a responsible adult. This does not mean drop junior off at the arena and go shopping, etc. It is meant to imply that

Friday nights there should be at least one parent or responsible adult at the arena. So folks, we know your busy, but so are we. Sitck around for an hour or so and watch junior play, you'll enjoy it and so will he.
