

Annual meeting of Ebenezer church

By Mrs. Ron McLean

Ebenezer United Church held their annual meeting, with the various organizations presenting encouraging reports. Rev. Russell Finley presided and Mrs. Mervin Thomson, the secretary, gave last year's report. Keith Moore gave the report of the Session and Mrs. John Kitching the financial report. Earl Ward reported on Mission and Stewardship, followed by Arthur Diamond for the Manse board. The choir report was given by Mrs. Hayward.

The balance sheet for the cemetery board was presented by Horace Blyth, and Keith Moore reported on the improvement fund. Mrs. Ward reported for the U.C.W. and Mrs. Blyth for the Cradle Roll. Mrs. Thomson reported for the Messengers. Mrs. Don Early reported for the Sunday School. Lunch and a social time brought a pleasant evening to a close.

The choir held their annual meeting at the home of Mrs. M. Hayward. The officers for 1970 are as follows: leader, John Kitching, assistant, Mrs. Wm. Early; organist Mrs. John Kitching, assistant, Sue Ward; president Mrs. R. McLean, secretary-treasurer, Sharon Simpson; librarians, Mrs. H. Heist and Susan Simpson.

Mrs. Bill Trimble and baby Paul enjoyed a visit with her parents, while Bill was having a spot of ice fishing.

Mr. Finley based his Sunday sermon on the last commandment. He said, "Thou shalt not covet" is not the least commandment, because it is the last.

It is not wrong to desire the good things of life. We know nothing about real hunger and thirst. In a poor country, a man may earn about 10c a week. We are blest when we hunger and thirst after righteousness. We do well to keep worship in the church, but what about the hungry? We should still emphasize social justice. Two men were tied up in a houseboat on the Florida coast. The boat became untied.

When one of the men discovered that they had floated away, he reported to his friend, with great excitement, "We ain't here no more." St. Paul, writing to the Philippians, said, "All I care for is to know Jesus. I press towards the mark." As long as you press on, even though you never reach the mark, blessed are you.

Internal revenue agent to taxpayer, "We sympathize with your problems but they won't fit into our computer."

EVER WEAR PETRIFIED WOOD

Ever wear a piece of petrified wood around your neck? Or present someone with a tiger's eye? And have you any idea how many people are walking around decorated with aventurine, porphyry or sodalite? These are some of the stones used by disabled adults in March of Dimes workshops to produce attractive gemstone jewellery. When you buy them, you help the disabled to help themselves.

Councillor charges facts about line being concealed

Attending a Guelph planning board meeting Thursday, Nassagaweya Councillor Allan Ackman charged Ontario Hydro with concealing facts in connection with hydro's proposed 500,000 volt power line which will be cutting through his township.

Mr. Ackman said Ontario Hydro was concealing the facts by using small maps of the area to show the proposed line route, instead of larger and more detailed drawings. He was speaking during an Ontario Hydro presentation to the Guelph board.

An invited guest at the meeting, he appealed to the hydro commission not to destroy his township's official plan with the line which is destined to cut a 740-foot-wide swath across the northwest corner of Nassagaweya.

Intensive care unit operating

GUELPH—The intensive care unit, another department in the new addition of the Guelph General Hospital, is now in full operation.

The four-bed coronary unit which has been functioning since November 1967, will still be in operation as well as the seven-bed medical-surgical intensive care unit.

Executive Director W.A.O. Whitworth said the unit is one of the most up-to-date in Ontario and was completely researched by everyone involved in its operation.

A nursing station is set up in such a way that each of the units can be watched at all times by a nurse on duty.

The development of the department was preceded by a great deal of research, extensive planning and visits to other centres.

Medical and key nursing personnel paid visits to intensive care units and coronary units in hospitals in Toronto which included Humber Memorial, Branson Hospital, Toronto General, St. Joseph's in Toronto, Sunnybrook and North York.

An intensive care committee was formed at the General Hospital in 1965 consisting of representatives from the medical staff, Mr. Whitworth and Miss Campbell, director of nursing service.

A study was carried out for a year on the patients in the hospital, considering which patients could have been cared for better in an intensive care unit if there had been one in operation.

Search for cemetery records

BURLINGTON—Burlington's search for information and records of seven pioneer cemeteries appears to have ended in failure.

The town has cleaned up, fenced, signed and closed down the seven old burying grounds—including several in the northern end of the town.

Deputy Clerk Roger Cloutier said the town tried to find the old records of the cemeteries but they appear to have been lost. Some were family plots, usually on the corner of the family homestead, and some may have been connected to churches which have long since vanished.

Quarantined on luxury liner

MILTON—One Milton man is among 1,500 quarantined passengers on the luxury liner Oronsay, presently docked at Vancouver harbor due to typhoid cases.

William Woods of R. R. 1 Milton is one of the ship's passengers but at last report he was not stricken with the disease. His daughter Mrs. John Conway, Tremaine Rd. received a letter from him Monday which was written last Wednesday and he reported he was fine.

Mr. Woods came to Milton to live with the Conways five years ago after retiring from business in England. He is active in the Milton Senior Citizens Club and is slated to take over as its 1970 president later this month, and is also active with the Milton Arts and Crafts Society.

The 28,000-ton liner Oronsay was bound for the South Pacific on a round-the-world cruise when it docked at Vancouver with typhoid cases. Latest reports indicate 51 confirmed or suspected cases of the disease had been located and medical authorities were searching for the carrier of the disease.

Heat the arena asks club

FERGUS—The Fergus intermediate hockey club suggested to the Fergus Recreation Committee that consideration be given to installing a heating system in the Fergus arena.

Ossie Harper and Dan Peden, representing the hockey club, told the recreation committee that most towns of Fergus's size have some form of heating system.

The committee will consider the request.

MATCH BOXES

These authentic cast iron match boxes were patented in 1862 and made in all shapes and forms.

Attached to walls near stoves, they were kept high and well out of reach of children. The lids (especially on the table type holders) were heavy, as an added precaution for mice who might try to carry them away into the walls and, in chewing, ignite them, causing fires.

Tole Ware matchboxes were made with great ingenuity by local tinsmiths and small, personal miniature pocket match boxes were often distributed as manufacturer's sales gimmicks in the 1890's.

Sometimes small silver matchboxes, gentlemen's pocket types, were given as Christmas gifts and souvenirs.
