

ALL IN GLITTERING gold, Cathy Weldon, Dolores Jordan, Susan Schupp and Colleen De Bruyn starred in Goldfinger. About 1100 saw the annual carnival at two performances Saturday.—(Staff Photo)

SENIOR TROPHY was presented to Diane Charette for year's progress.—(Jim Jennings)

TWO BONNIES AND two Clydes — Brad Timbers, Susan Schupp, Diane Charette, George McPhail. Their number was part of the Salute to the Movies section of the annual show.—(Staff Photo)

Figure skaters end season with colorful carnival for 1100 at two performances in arena Saturday

Added to yearly increasing skill and abilities of skaters were sparkling costumes, decorated ice, special lighting and lively music, making the Acton Figure Skating Club's Ice Revue probably the best yet. Two performances, Saturday afternoon and evening, brought close to 1100 to the arena for the quick-moving show.

Parents, friends and neighbors made a partisan audience that thoroughly enjoyed each number. There were two sections to the program, Underwater Fantasy and Salute to the Movies, with beautiful costumes enhancing the peppy young performers.

Talented club professionals

Mrs. Nancy Skuce and Mrs. Sally Leatherland were presented with bouquets of flowers at the end of the show by George McPhail and Brad Timbers.

Presentations were made for the skaters showing the most improvement and co-operation, Debbie Ruppert for the juveniles, Kathleen Cheyne of the novices, Robin Marshall of the juniors and Diane Charette for the seniors.

Ticket-selling prizes were given to Robin Marshall, Patty Dunn and Debbie Drinkwalter.

Robin Marshall just made it to the show in time. As well as her two awards, she had a solo as Snow White. But by the first of the week she and several other performers were newly down with mumps. As was three of the young skaters were home with mumps instead of at the carnival — Rick Gibson, Heather McCann and the son of the pro, Bobby Skuce.

Solo parts highlighted Debbie Ruppert, Debbie Drinkwalter, Diane Charette, Robin Marshall and Patti Dunn as they demonstrated their growing skill.

Underwater Fantasy, the first half, had striking costumes ranging from sea ferns to octopus. The juniors taking part in this section included the very youngest enthusiasts, who slid around the ice and waved delightedly at their parents.

In the junior group are Diane Baginski, Marilyn De Bruyn, Robin Marshall, Diane Buckman, Rolf Seiz, Cindy McGilloway, Pamela Simmons, Heather McAnn, Gloria Bowman, Anne Bomans, Cindy Brouillard, Susan Rosenbursky, Carolyn Gibson, Lynda Creasey, Susan Skuce, Joanne McArthur, Bradley Ottoway, Gordon

Glenn, Robbie Hall, Derek Neely, Elliott Newman, Gordon McArthur, Gerda Seiz, Anne Marie Luty, Janice Ellerby, Peggy Huxley, Mary Jean Hall, Helen Gunther, Theresa Luty, Kathy Toth, Kevin Parker, Scott Malcolm, David McGilloway, Rick Gibson, Ronnie Haefner, Ivan Hearn, Bruce McPhail, Sherri Trotter, Jennifer Dupuis, Lisa Maddeaux, Connie McCristall, Theresa Conroy, Beverly Kirby, Kathleen Cheyne, Paul Ruppert, Janet Britton, Judy Shadbolt, Kim Ottaway, Alana Turner, Lesley Jenkins, Susan Milne, Lori De Bruyn, Carrie McCristall, Lynda Shadbolt, Kelly Buchanan, Karen Glenn, Dawnne Street, Jane Hudson, Penny Kirton, Monika Heptner, Judy Jones, Diane Hickey.

Brad Timbers and George McPhail played a monstrous green sea serpent.

Favorite movies came to life again in the second half, with stars in skaters Dolores Jordan, Debbie Drinkwalter, Gerda Seiz, Cathy Weldon, Becky Baxter, Kathy Turkoz, Patti Dunn, Diane Charette, Linda Perry, Sharon Barber, Susan Schupp, Susan McPhail, Anne Marie Luty, Colleen De Bruyn, Diane Baginski, Marilyn De Bruyn, Joyce Denny, Pat Gibson, Becky Baxter, Erika Heptner, Peggy McCrea, Barbara Turkoz, Joanne Hearn, Kim Jackson, Debra Neely, Colleen McGilloway, Kim McCristall, Cindy McGilloway, Kathleen Cheyne, Debbie Andres, Debbie Ruppert, Julie Townsley, Diane Buckman, Robin Marshall, Kathy Toth.

Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs was a hit, despite the fact Sleepy the dwarf—Rick Gibson—was home with mumps. Robin Marshall played Snow White and the dwarfs were Kevin Parker, Scott Malcolm, Rolf Seiz, Ivan Hearn, Bruce McPhail and David McGilloway.

George McPhail, Brad Timbers, Diane Charette and Susan Schupp played double Bonnie and Clydes.

Test pieces Dutch Waltz and Fiesta Tango were demonstrated.

Mrs. Skuce filled in for a mump victim and shared skating roles in larger group numbers.

The guest skaters Susan Patterson and Mark Linton gave a vivacious performance.

Jim Gibson made many of the special effects such as the underwater divers' tanks and the lighted hats and canes.

Mrs. Peggy De Bruyn was carnival chairman, Ed Leatherland in charge of music, John Buckman, Don Ford and Don Price operating lights; Charles Perry stage director and Ron McKnight master of ceremonies.

Skating club officials are president Garry De Bruyn, vice-president Ron Pickles, second vice-president Mario Baginski, secretary Mrs. Marie Shadbolt, treasurer Mrs. Jean McPhail, test chairman Mrs. Doris Townsley.

There are 102 children in the club.

The show was successful in all aspects except finances, according to concerned treasurer Jean McPhail. She pointed out conflicting events cutting attendance and increased costs this year.

JUNIOR TROPHY went to Robin Marshall during presentations.—(Jim Jennings)

JUVENILE TROPHY was presented to Debbie Ruppert.—(Jim Jennings)

FEATURED IN Shenandoah were brightly costumed Joanne Hearn, Kim Jackson, Debra Neely, Colleen McGilloway, Kim McCristall, Cindy McGilloway, Kathleen Cheyne, Debbie Andres, Debbie Ruppert and Julie Townsley.—(Staff Photo)

NOVICE TROPHY winner was pert Kathleen Cheyne.—(Jim Jennings)

GUEST SKATERS, wearing matching chocolate brown and blue outfits, were Susan Patterson and Mark Linton.—(Staff Photo)

SNOW WHITE (Robin Marshall) was short one dwarf. Rick Gibson came down with mumps.—(Staff Photo)

MOPPETS FROM Mary Poppins are Kathy Toth, Marshall, Diane Baginski. They swept at the ice with their big green mops.—(Staff Photo)

BIG WINK for the audience from Cecil the Slimy Sea Serpent. He was Brad Timbers and George McPhail, in combination.—(Jim Jennings)

Brookville subdivision is approved

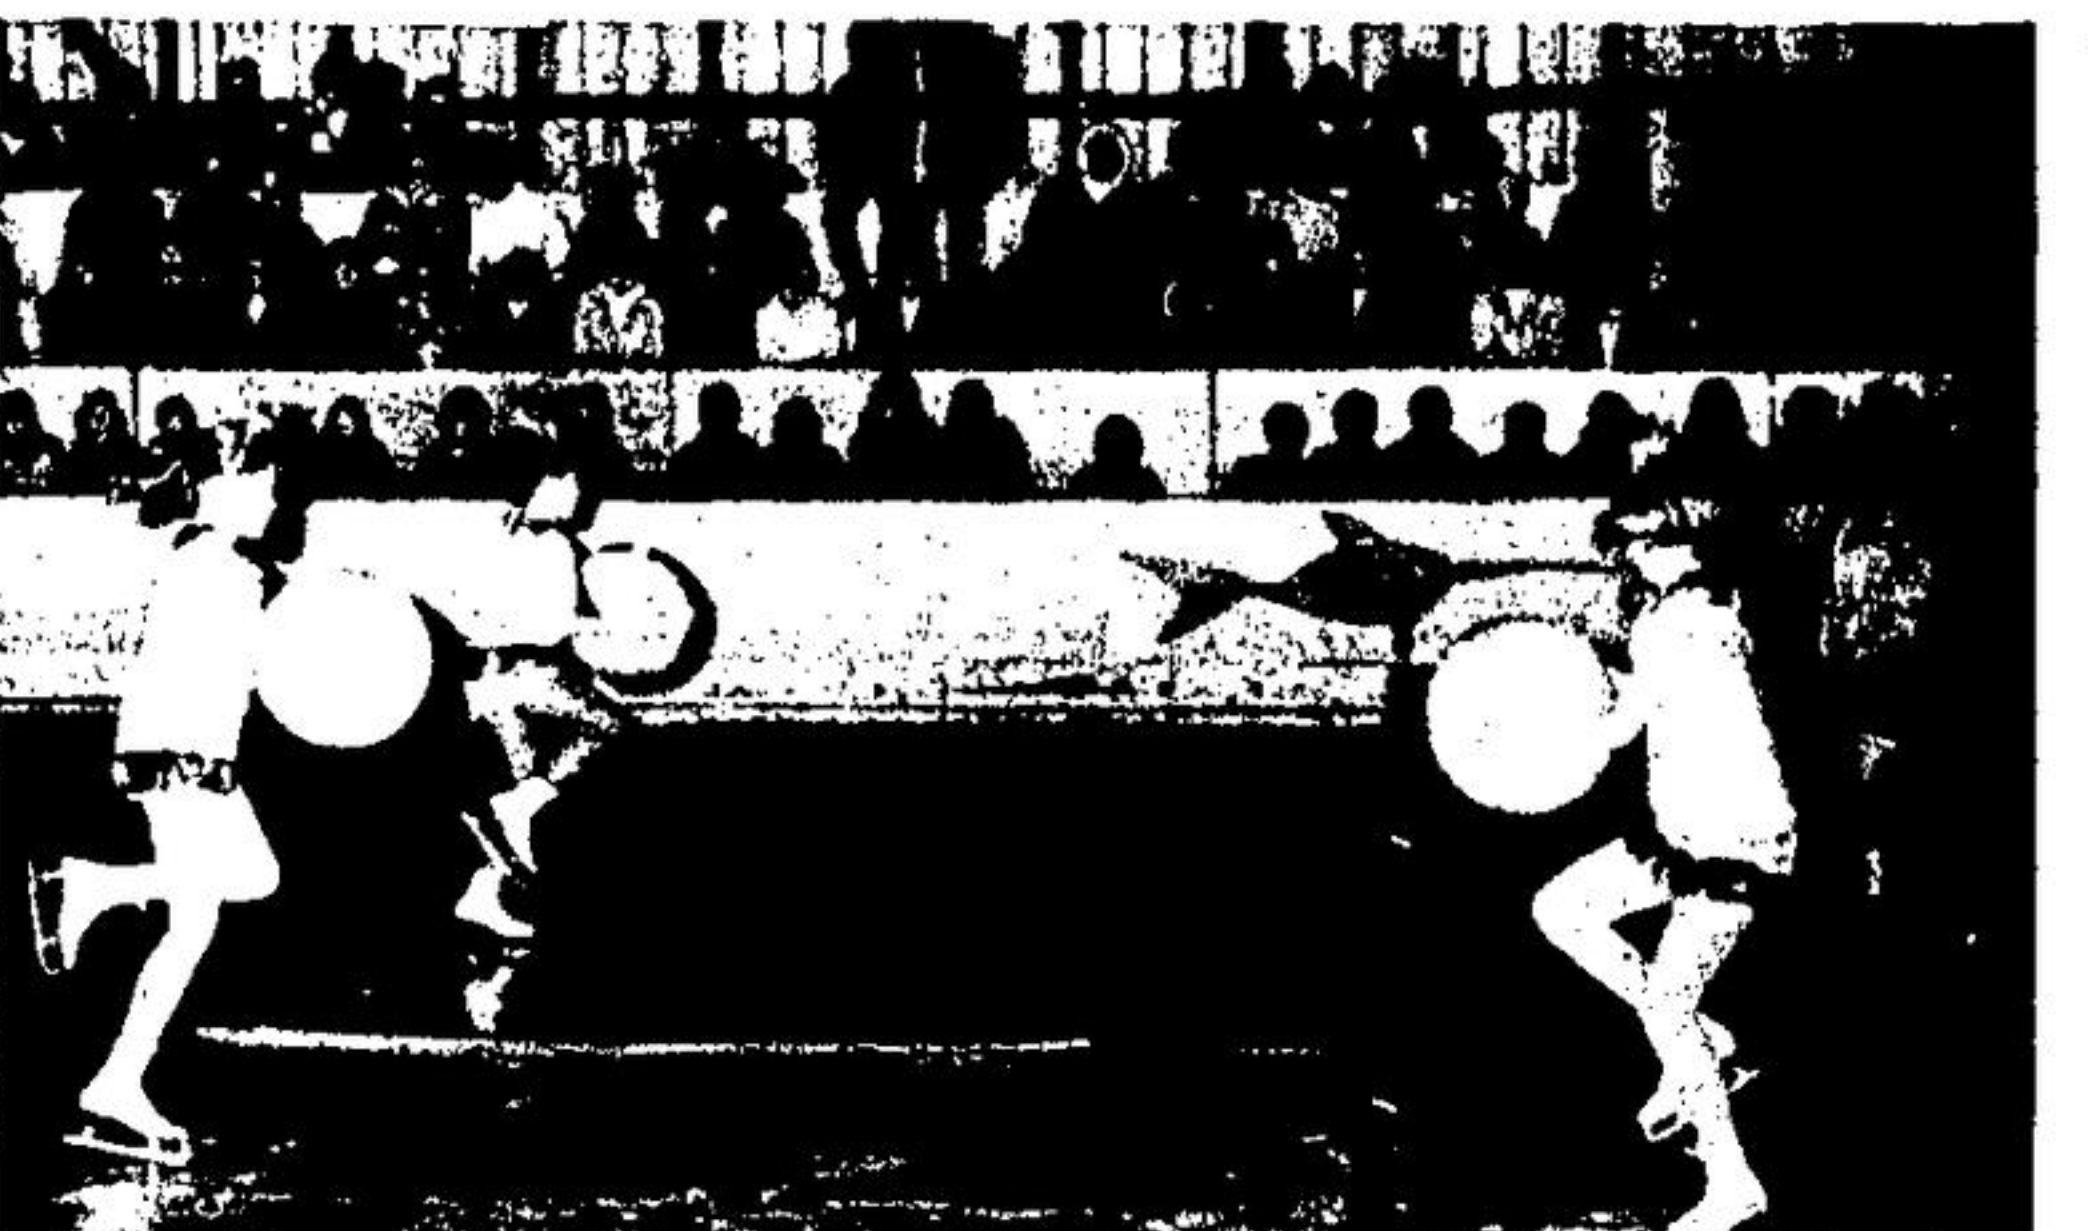

A Nassagaweya application to rezone land at Brookville for a 95-acre, 155-lot subdivision was given three readings and will be forwarded to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval.

The Council action came over the earlier opposition of the Nassagaweya Planning Board. A letter from Canadian Mitchell Associates Limited, representing unidentified principals, noted development would not take place until the township released the lands and approved a plan of subdivision.

The land involved is located south and west of the township offices with access from the Guelph Line.

The Planning Board, in declaring the rezoning premature, noted there were already 500 separated parcels in the township for building.

Deputy Reeve Gordon Agnew, chairman of the Planning Board, maintained his opposition to the project through the three readings of the township by-law.

BEACH FROLICS complete with bouncing balls DeBruyn, Robin Marshall and Diane Buckman.—(Photo by Jim Jennings)