

Miss M. Z. Bennett attends closing program for M.Z.B. school grade 8s

A buffet dinner, closing program for parents and guests and then a dance marked the end of public school years for the grade eight students at the M. Z. Bennett public school.

The buffet was prepared and served by grade eight mothers convened by Mrs. Mac Spzywl. Jim Coles said grace and Maureen Gerth thanked the mothers.

Invitations had been sent home to parents to join the graduates in a special program. Robert Wisniewski was master of ceremonies.

Principal Smith spoke to his departing students and Robert Vinski spoke in appreciation of the school.

Miss Josanne Pavli, a graduate who's now in high school, had some encouraging words of advice to the young people. She said for them not to be nervous of high school, but to work diligently, use their own judgment, and they would have plenty of fun as well as work. Be courteous and interested, she recommended.

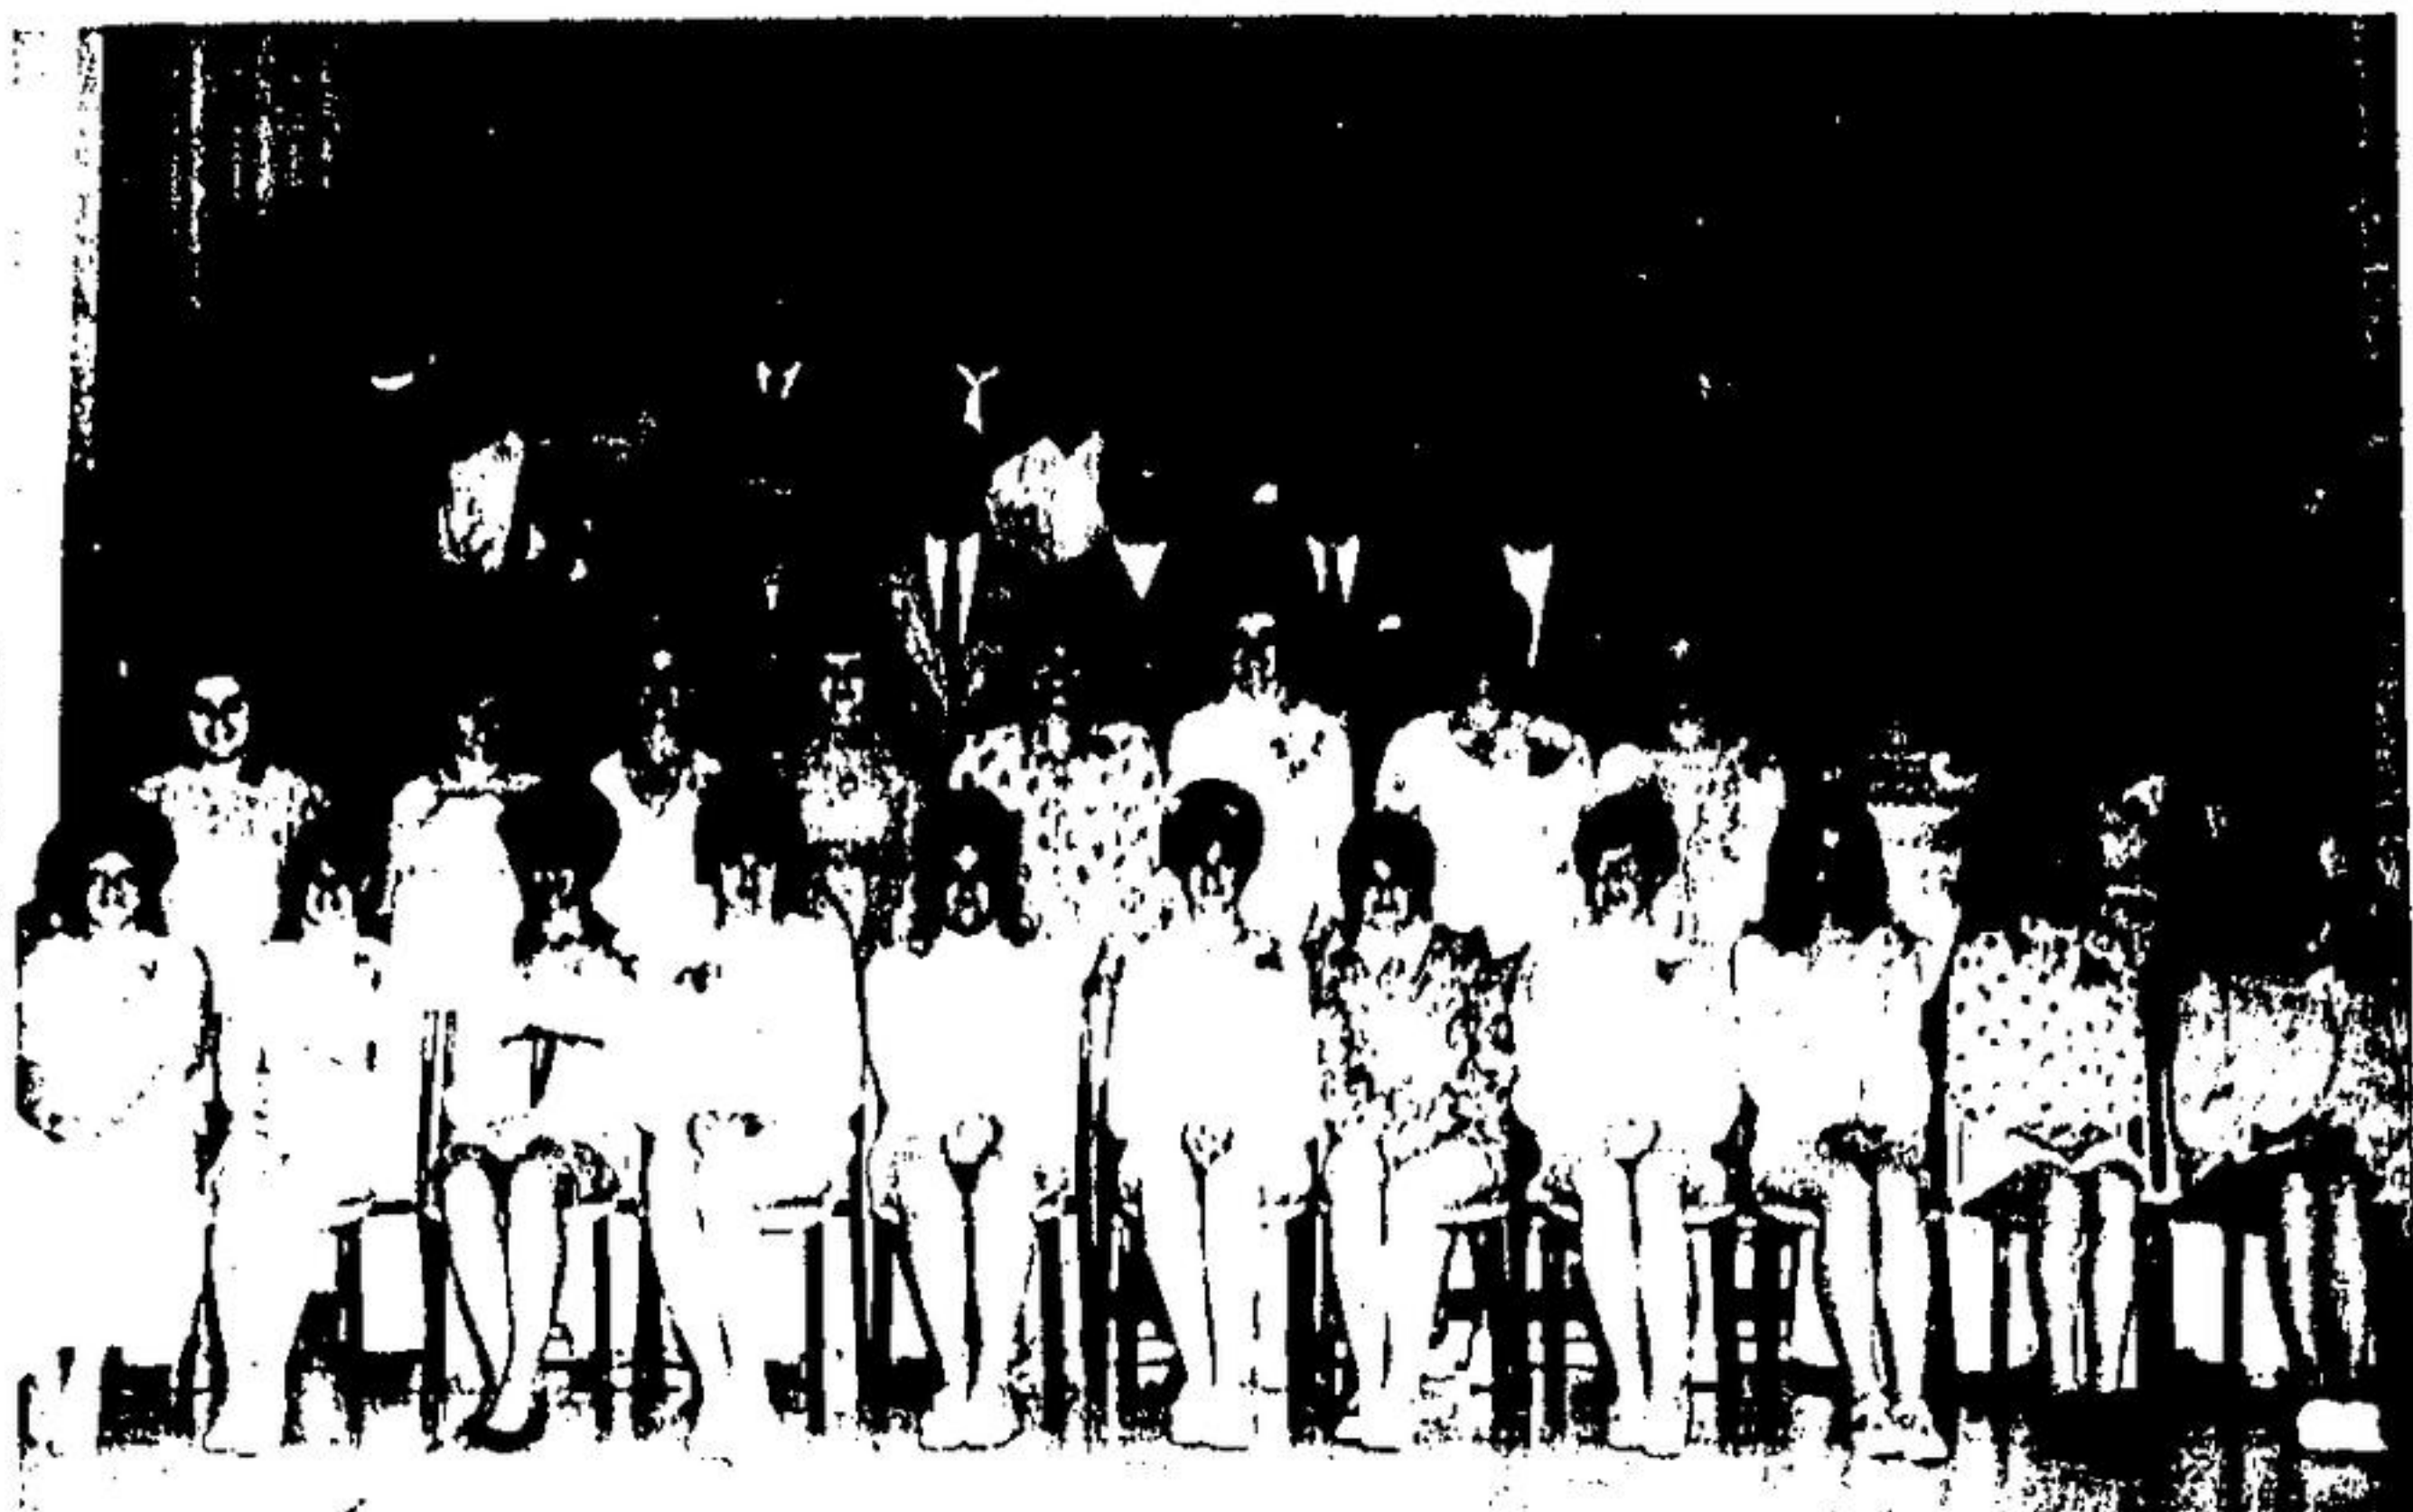

Darlene Holmes introduced the guest speaker, the new principal of the high school David Katz. He also had good advice for the boys and girls. School is not a preparation for life, he observed, it is life. He challenged them to be the best students they could, to accept leadership and put effort into things.

The LODK award for the student making the most progress was presented by Mrs. George Young of the Duke of Devonshire chapter of the LODK to James Lynch, who had 78 per cent. The Legion Ladies' award for general proficiency was presented by Mrs. A. Gordou to Robert Vinski who attained 89 per cent.

The boys' choir which won at the festival sang led by Mr. Bateman with Kenneth Harrison at the piano Val Mitchell and Susan Mills tap danced.

A special guest was Miss M. Z. Bennett, after whom the school is named. She is a former principal of Acton school, long retired and now living in Waterloo. Roses were presented to her as the students and parents applauded. Teacher Miss Fern Small, who is leaving to be married, also received roses. More blossoms went to Mrs. Bruce who organized the banquet with the grade eight students themselves. The Lemmon Ginn, a band which came out victorious in a recent Battle of the Bands at the school, played for the dance which followed.
