

The clergy speak out

By The Rev. Harry J. Dawson
Church of St. Alban, the Martyr

Labor Day passed this year in the shadow of a contract dispute. After months of negotiation the postal union and government representatives finally ratified a new contract.

This specific issue tended to focus the attention of many concerned people on the whole question of labor-management settlement in light of the present collective bargaining process.

Labor and management too often tend to see themselves as warring factions. Labor tends to see itself as the downtrodden group slaving for all-powerful masters denying them God-given rights. Management either looks on itself as somehow intelligently or morally superior, or else feels sorry for itself, and talks about the pendulum having swung too far the other way.

Surely labor and management have reached the point where they are two equal professional groups, who should have the same aims and ideals for the betterment of our health and welfare!

The collective bargaining process must develop to the point where it involves a real effort on both sides to understand each other's problems and needs, sublimating their own interests to those of the whole of society.

Both labor and management need to develop a sense of social responsibility. Maximum wages and maximum profits must take second place to the promotion of the economic and moral health of the whole of society.

The unanimous report of the labor-management committee set up by the late President Kennedy had this to say with regard to collective bargaining. "Labor and management must recognize not only their individual responsibility to society, of which they constitute an important and integral part - they must develop improved methods of reconciling their separate and mutual interests with those of the larger community, and for reducing still further the extent of unavoidable interruptions in operations."

President Kennedy expressed this confidence that both labor and management would use their concentrated economic power with a high degree of social responsibility and a sensitive concern for the public interest.

Many today claim that if the collective bargaining process does not evolve from what it is now, it will soon become an out-moded luxury. Both sides then would be responsible for its demise.

Poet's Corner

The Mentor, a penal publication in South Walpole, Mass., printed this poem in the June issue. It was found on the body of a 19-year-old U.S. soldier in Vietnam.

Look God! I have never spoken to you, but now I want to say: "How do you do?" You see God, they told me You didn't exist
And like a fool - I believed all of this.
Last night from a shell-hole I saw your sky - I figured right then they told me a lie.
Had I taken the time to see the things you made, I'd know they weren't calling a spade a spade.
I wonder, God, if you'd shake my hand.
Somehow - I feel that you will understand.
Funny, I had to come to this hellish place,
Before I had time to see your face.
Well, I guess there isn't much more to say,
But I'm sure glad, God, I met you today.
I guess the zero-hour will soon be here
But I'm not afraid since I know you are here.
The signal-well, God - I'll have to go,
I like you lots - this I want you to know.
Looks like this will be a horrible fight.
Who knows - I may come to your house tonight.
Though I wasn't friendly with you before,
I wonder God - if you'd wait at your door -
Look - I am crying, me shedding tears,
I wish I'd known you these many years.
Well, I'll have to go now, God - goodbye
Strange - since I met you - I'm not afraid to die.

Obituary

Was resident of Ballinfad

A Ballinfad resident for four years, and before that a resident of Georgetown since 1966, Pius Edward Rau, 65 died suddenly in Georgetown hospital on September 2.

Mr. Rau, who had been self-employed for the past few years, had worked with P. Greco and Sons, and Scott-Jackson Construction, Toronto, at the Avro plant in Malton and the Great West Felt Company, Elmira.

Born in St. Clements, he was the son of Albert and Catherine Fortney Rau and attended school in Elmira and St. Jerome's College, Kitchener.

In 1933 he married Lillian May Errington, who survives him with two children, Mrs. Reuben (Marlene) Gannon, Brampton, and Philip Edward Rau, Georgetown; three grandchildren, Mark, Craig and Cynthia; and brothers and sisters, Clayton Rau, Stratford, Mrs. Jack Zinger, Mrs. Martina Kraefling, Mrs. Albert Duguay and Jerome Rau, Kitchener and Mrs. George Tapping, Elmira.

He was predeceased by twin brothers Leo and Leonard, sisters Anna May and Mrs. Stan Potter and brothers Albert and Herbert, all of Elmira.

Father Gerald Craig conducted regular mass in Holy Cross R. C. Church on Saturday morning and interment was in Greenwood Cemetery. Pallbearers were Reginald Duguay, Kitchener, Ed Smith, Ballinfad, Jack Saunders, Robert McMenemy, Arthur Bullivant and James Goodlet.

New Baptist pastor in Cheltenham too

New pastor at Acton Baptist church, the Rev. Francis M. Byrne also has the ministry of the Cheltenham Baptist church.

He will be in Acton Sunday mornings for services at 9.45 a.m., and then will drive back to Cheltenham for the 11.30 a.m. service. There will no longer be evening service at the Baptist church here on Sundays.

He will also be in Acton on Wednesdays and Fridays and is joining the Ministerial Association.

Bible today

A recent resident of a house in Sydney, Australia, run by Anglican deaconesses was a Muslim girl from Tanzania. By agreement the hosts tried not to influence their guest away from her faith or dissuade her from reading the Koran - but they did remember her in prayer, according to the teller of the incident.

One day copies of Scripture was distributed in the house. The Tanzanian youth showed in her face "an unspoken yearning, an inarticulate request. With a simple gesture a copy was tentatively tendered in her direction, and with an eager response a New Testament was accepted.

No one knows the details of her reading, nor the way in which the Spirit moved in her soul to bring to life the words she had read. But sometime later she left a note for all to see." It said:

"My dear sisters: I have accepted the Lord Jesus Christ as my Lord and Saviour. The words of St. John's Gospel have been ringing in my ears for a long time. I know that the Scripture is truth. Thank you for your prayers."

Bert Allan dies suddenly

Funeral service for Albert Ray (Bert) Allan was held at the Rumley-Shoemaker funeral home Thursday, Sept. 3. The Rev. A. H. McKenzie of Knox Presbyterian church officiated. Interment was in Fairview cemetery.

Mr. Allan died suddenly while at work at the Beardmore plant where he had been employed for the past three years. He had farmed most of his life at the family homestead at R. R. 3, Acton.

He was the son of the late William and Minnie Allan and was born at Lot 4, Erin Township.

He is survived by sisters, Mrs. Lena Cleave, Mrs. Elda McKinnon, Mrs. Jennie Holmes of Acton, Mrs. Ada McLean of Ballinfad, Mrs. Isabelle Perryman of R. R. 1, Georgetown, Mrs. Myrtle Beswick of Hamilton, Mrs. Viola Crosier of Toronto and Thomas Allan of Nobleton. He was predeceased by two brothers Roland Allan and Wesley Allan.

Pallbearers were four nephews Lloyd Swindlehurst, Gordon Holmes, William McKinnon, Blake McEnery and two fellow workers, Harold Harris and Ed Thatcher.

Baha'is summer school studies world's fate

Mrs. Mary Lamon of R.R. 3 Milton was among 140 Baha'is of Southern Ontario who attended a Baha'is summer school at Everton Cub Camp this week.

Hundreds of summer schools are held annually in the 360 countries and dependencies in the world where Baha'is live.

All founders of world religions such as Buddha, Mahomet, Jesus Christ, Zoroaster and many others have predicted a time of terrible troubles, the coming of a great spiritual leader with the remedy and the "beating of swords into plowshares and spears into pruning hooks" and everlasting peace. The Baha'is Faith is a new world religion which claims that Baha'u'llah has come with God-given remedies which will cure the chaos and disunity of the world. Study and discussion centre around applying these remedies.

Mrs. Betty Frost of Toronto and Mr. and Mrs. Jack McCants of South Carolina were the main speakers.

About 40 per cent of those attending were young people between the ages of 15 and 25 years who are becoming Baha'is in great numbers throughout the world.

Father Morgan now recovered

Father V. J. Morgan returned to say both Masses at St. Joseph's Parish Sunday, after recovering from a brief illness. Father Lloyd Ryan, pastor of Church of Our Lady, Guelph, said Masses here on Sunday September 6, in Father Morgan's absence.

Fair display, dance fashion show in plans

L'Arche Auxiliary held the August meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Conroy with six members present. The meeting opened with a prayer for the retarded read by Mrs. Conroy.

The Open House at the workshop in Hornby was attended by Mrs. Conroy, Mrs. Beryl Bennett and Mrs. Grace Graham. They reported a good attendance and also many orders for articles made by the trainees.

Tickets are now available for the Fall Dance, October 3, from Mrs. J. Lausten, 853-0975, at $3. a couple. The Novelists will provide the music.

Fashion show
The Fall Fashion Show will be held Thursday, October 8 at the Robert Little School. Tickets are $1. per person and are available from members or phone Mrs. J. Rao, 853-0786, or Mrs. J. Conroy 853-2663. The last fashion show was very enjoyable and members hope this one will be as successful.

Again this year L'Arche Auxiliary will be having a booth at the Fall Fair where refreshments will be served and work done by the trainees will be on display.

At the executive meeting it was reported that the tender of Chisholm Construction was accepted for the extension to the workshop in Hornby. Excavation has begun and construction should be completed by November.

Jake Kuiken is campaign manager this year and the project is an auction of new articles donated by the merchants of Acton, Georgetown and Milton, as the main venture to raise funds in place of the "Flowers of Hope".

The next meeting will be September 23.
