

Jepson-Stockley Georgetown vows

The wedding was solemnized by Mary-Ellen Louise Stockley and Robert Neville Jepson, in St. George's Anglican Church, Georgetown, Saturday, August 8 at 4 o'clock, in a double-ring ceremony conducted by Rev. Eric Mills.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Stockley, 141 Main Street, N. Georgetown. She has been employed for about four years part-time at Superior Food Market in Georgetown. She attended Chapel Street Public School, Georgetown high school and completed the first year of a two year course in computer programming at Sheridan College, Brampton. She has decided to work now and complete her training at a later date.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alec (Bob) Jepson, of 2 Arletta Street, Georgetown. He was employed at Superior Food Market, as produce clerk, for about six years part-time. He also attended Chapel Street Public School and Georgetown High School. The end of the last school term he graduated from a two year course at Sheridan College at Brampton, with honors in mechanical drafting. On returning from the honeymoon he started to work at Shell Canada in Oakville as a research technician.

The church altar was decorated with miniature white carnations and pink bridal roses scattered throughout the arrangements. George De Kleer was the organist.

Family heirloom
The bride was given in marriage by her godfather, Chester Stevens, Georgetown. Her gown was traditional white with a mid-Victorian effect, floor length nylon chiffon over taffeta, with nylon sheer jewel neckline and short puff sleeves with white buttons. The bodice was of a stiff netting with nylon sheer and daisies in the centre and daisy leaves on the outside edges. The train was nine feet long and applied with daisy leaves along the edges.

For something old, the bride wore a family heirloom, a cameo necklace of her grandmother's which had been brought to her by her husband from Italy in 1912; and for something borrowed she carried a white lace handkerchief from her sister-in-law to be, Pat Jepson that she herself had carried at her wedding and which had been given to her from her grandmother.

The bride's bouquet was a cascading arrangement of miniature white carnations with bridal pink roses and lily-of-the-valley in silver netting.

Pastel shades
The attendants' gowns were in pastel shades of nylon sheer over taffeta. Maid-of-honor and cousin of the bride, Janice Comley, Stratford, wore mauve; and bridesmaid and sister-in-law of the groom, Patricia Jepson, Georgetown, wore mint. The girls' gowns had daisies applied in a semi-circle style around the bustline and wore elbow-length gloves. They carried large bouquets of baby mums tinted to match their gowns and ribbon roses in their hair.

The smaller attendants gowns were also in pastel colors of the same material, Peter Pan collars and daisies applied around the waistline. Flower girls were Susan Shafi, Acton and Judy Hall, Georgetown, who wore mint colored gowns and carried smaller bouquets of mint-tinted baby mums.

Train-carriers were Susan and Shelley Jepson, daughters of Patricia Jepson, one of the bridesmaids, nieces of the groom, who wore mauve colored gowns. The little girls all wore large bows with streamers flowing down the side of their hair and wrist length gloves.

link set; and the groom's gift to the bride was a gold heart locket.

Reception at Riviera
An evening reception held at the Riviera Club, Norval, was attended by 110 people.

The bride's mother received wearing a mint green chiffon dress with jeweled necklace, and matching accessories. She was assisted by the groom's mother who chose a metallic brocade dress in shades of pink with silver accessories. Both mothers wore miniature pink carnation corsages.

The bride chose a Spanish effect for a going away outfit — white wet-look sombrero, white crepe blouse with scallops, black tuxedo flared pants, and an orange hand-crocheted vest, with snakeskin accessories and orange-tinted carnation corsage. After throwing the traditional blue garter and bouquet, the couple left for their honeymoon in Niagara and Muskoka. They returned August 28, in time to attend her friend Roseanne Parry's wedding the next day. The couple are living in an apartment of the bride's mother's home in Georgetown.

Three presentations made at A.C.W.

The first meeting of the ACW following the summer recess, was held September 2 in the parish hall. President Penny Bristow chaired the well-attended meeting. The ACW prayer was followed by a Harvest hymn, accompanied by Mrs. Betty Oakes on the piano.

Mrs. Doreen Lindsay read the minutes of the June meeting, and Mrs. Joan Pratt the treasurer's report. Correspondence secretary Mrs. Mabel Denny gave a resume of the cards and letters received during the summer.

In the absence of Mrs. Gail Dawson, Mrs. Bristow read the Family Life report and thanked those who assisted at the wedding suppers during the summer months. An order for the 1971 calendars was placed.

Farewell gift

The meeting was turned over to Rev. Dawson, who spoke on the retirement of the Primate. Photographs of parish activities are being collected to make an album as a farewell gift. Anyone having pictures of the church functions or activities please contact the Rector.

Parting gifts were presented to the members who are moving from town. Mrs. Bristow presented Mrs. Cam Winn, Mrs. Eileen Taylor, and Mrs. Ethel Haggitt with remembrances from the organization. These ladies will be greatly missed in the community and especially by the parish.

The meeting adjourned for luncheon provided by the group in charge.

Sidewalk fashions

A unique sidewalk fashion show will be staged at Milady Boutique this Saturday, from 10.30 a.m. till noon.

John and Anna Coniglio are arranging to have local models show items from their boutique stock including dresses, floppy hats, wet-look handbags, jewellery and smart accessories, as well as the newest styles in wigs.

The Coniglios added a boutique sideline to their hairdressing business in the spring, and their stock has been increasing steadily. They now have children's clothes as well as highly fashionable women's garb.

The hairdressing aspect of their business has been moved to the back of their Mill St. quarters.

Acton W. I. tours Enchanted Doll House

The September meeting of Acton W. I. took the form of a tour of the Enchanted Doll House on a farm near Rockwood. Cars met at the library to take the members. A brief meeting took place in the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker.

Miss Dorothy Simmons presided over the meeting. The thought for the day was a poem, A Prayer for Wisdom, followed by prayer.

The opening exercises were repeated by 12 members and three visitors. Mrs. Shoemaker welcomed the ladies and told of the doll house.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and adopted. Mrs. Pickett kindly acted as secretary. Several ladies donated money to the Dr. Ethel Chapman bursary.

Plan fair display
Come Along with Me to a Country of Your Choice is the theme for the display at the fair. It is to be convoked by Mrs. Hargrave and Mrs. G. Fryer; the country chosen is England.

The booth is to be rented by the Scout Mothers. $5 for the bursary is to be sent to the county secretary. Roll call was answered by a distinctive citizen of Halton county. The meeting closed with the Institute grace. The ladies then had a leisurely tour of the Doll House including dolls of many lands in their native costumes, dolls that depict nursery rhymes, dolls dressed as nuns attending a church service, Mennonites in their homespun, a model kitchen, antique doll carriages and dolls, and even a battery-run fortune teller.

Friendship and Love was the theme for the program when the Afternoon Auxiliary W.M.S. of Knox church met in the Ellen Anderson Room of the Church for the September meeting.

Miss Isabel Anderson presided and Mrs. K. Kennedy arranged the very fine program with hymns, scripture readings, poems and meditations following the theme.

Arrangements were made for the fall Thank-offering meeting in October when Mrs. Forbes Thomson of St. Andrews church, Guelph will be guest speaker.

Circle plans Thankoffering

Members of the Marion Rudd Mission Circle of the Baptist church attended their September meeting on Monday evening at the home of Lil Wagner. The president Frances Feltham opened the meeting.

The devotions centred around the thought that the sunshine of life brings out the best in people and day by day Christians should keep themselves in the love of God. Prayer time was taken by Mrs. Page and Harriet Helwig including all phases of Baptist missionary work.

During the business session plans for the fall Thankoffering were discussed but arrangements for a speaker are not yet completed. For the topic Marj. Landsborough gave a collection of missionary items from both home and foreign fields. She touched on the re-organizing of the Grande Ligne work in Quebec, now called the Union of French Baptists in Canada, as well as the work of Baptists in the North West Territories. Questions were asked about foreign missionaries' salaries and the cost of education for those with families.

After a hymn Janice Harris closed with prayer. Mrs. Harrap and Eileen Lott assisted the hostess in serving a delicious lunch. Elda Fryer was courtesy convener.

Officers inducted

Officers were inducted at the Y's Menettes opening meeting Monday. They are president Sally Leatherland; vice-president Shirley Broostad; secretary Mary McKenzie and treasurer Lynn Robertson.

The evening began with a barbecue at the Broostad home although bad weather sent the members inside to eat.

Plans were made for fall projects including a sale of Christmas ornaments in conjunction with the Y's Men's Christmas tree sale.

Hamilton Mountain Y's Menettes will be invited to a meeting soon.

Seek members

The University Women's Club of Milton and district began the fall season with a wine and cheese party at the home of Mrs. Bruce Frame on No. 25 highway. Several Actonians belong to the group and more members here are sought.

U.C.W. reports visits made during summer

Group 2 of Trinity United church U.C.W. met for their first fall meeting on Wednesday of last week in the church parlor. Mrs. Eaton opened with a poem, Thank God for simple things, that each day brings.

All repeated the purpose. Miss Dorothy Simmons as devotional leader led off with a hymn O Master let me walk with Thee. Mrs. J. Lambert took the Scripture reading from Matthew followed by prayer, a solo, The Lord's my Shepherd by Miss Simmons, a poem, The Water Lilies and a study taken from Jane Scott's book. She closed with a hymn Lord I was Blind.

Mrs. Eaton thanked everyone for their help and lunch etc. Minutes and treasurer's reports were read and adopted. Mrs. Shoemaker had a lengthy report on the sick and sim-ims, being extra concerned for Mrs. D. Lindsay and Mrs. W. Little.

Twenty one members answered the roll call reporting 54 hospital calls and 49 home calls. Miss D. Simmons gave her card report and nursing home calls.

Mrs. Force thanked the ladies for cards sent in her double bereavement.

An invitation was read from Velma Norris to attend a meeting at Haltonville Oct. 1, lunch 12 to 1, meeting at 1.30 p.m.

Dr. Jean and Catherine Whittier are to speak and show pictures at the general meeting Oct. 21.

Mrs. Eaton has yarn for anyone who would care to knit baby outfits. She also showed a quilt she made from old sock tops; don't throw old socks away!

Mrs. Pickett asked for old pill bottles. After the benediction a social time was spent around the tea cups.
