problems attached to quarries

should be separated and dealt with. He spelled out the first problem as trucks and the road maintenance and construction problems attached; the second problem as blasting and the possibility of provincial supervision or co-operation with other municipalities in making seismicographic equipment available; and the third problem, environmental. He suggested the need for assurances the end of the quarry would leave it for conservation or other attractive use.

Policy didn't work
The deputy reeve maintained there was a need for change in the township approach because its basic policies hadn't worked effectively.

Councillor C. MacIntyre suggested he had always felt a proper agreement drawn up between the individual quarries and the township would be far more effective than by-laws and the need for costly prosecution.

Members agreed the by-law committee should study current township and provincial legislation on quarries and the meeting with the provincial member and Minister of Mines should be arranged.

Severances sought Mon.

The Committee of Adjustment will hear two applications for severances next Monday. Neighbors have been notified.

One is from Altheo Construction for the four semi-detached houses on Main St. N. The other is from Bev-Ton Construction which will be building two six-storey apartments on Church St. on the former Beverley property.
