Halton East riding race

Gelok NDP candidate

Ken Gelok, a 28-year-old Oakville man captured the NDP nomination for Halton East, winning over Brian Thrippleton, a White Oaks high school teacher. For Gelok it was the second time around. He and Albert Tugel of Georgetown lost to Bill Gillies at an earlier nomination meeting in the spring.

Gillies withdrew from the race some time ago and is in the process of moving to Niagara Falls. Gelok, a young unionist and devout socialist said the NDP would unveil their secret weapon in the coming election.

He said the NDP was putting up people to fight and the main line parties were using their money.

Gelok attacked the free enterprise system, faulting it for fouling rivers and lakes, selling industry to foreign concerns and treating old age pensioners unjustly.

Knock education

He criticized the government for allowing senior citizens to subsidize "menage allowances". He blasted the government for producing an educational system that stunts imagination. "It seems to be one continuous drill," he said.

He called for more Canadian texts, some action on housing, regional government, unemployment and a host of other issues.

Gelok won the nomination by a 32-24 vote over Brian Thrippleton. In his speech Thrippleton lashed out at high unemployment in Canada and wondered how a country with such a sparse population could be troubled by unemployment. He

Acton youth injured

An Acton youth sustained minor injuries when he was involved in an accident on 22 Sideroad west of Ninth Line, Esquing on Thursday evening. Glen Tallefer, 18, of R.R. 1 Acton was treated at Georgetown District Hospital for head lacerations and was later released. Damage to the car was estimated at $1,000.

North Halton OPP investigated the mishap.

Predicts NDP in power

McDonald lifts hopes

In a colorful speech, former Ontario NDP leader Donald McDonald lifted hopes of local NDP supporters as he scorned the record of the Liberal and Conservative parties. He was speaker at the Halton East NDP nomination meeting Tuesday night in Milton at the UAW Union Hall.

McDonald said if the trend set in the last election continues, the NDP will hold power after the coming election. He said his party had gained ground from both Liberals and Conservatives.

He noted by-elections in Brant among other areas have gone NDP. "Even in Middlesex-South, that solid bastion of Toryism we made ground and won the by-election," he told supporters.

Trend changing

"Across the province the farmers are angry and in ferment and in the city people are maturing politically," he said. "We can take new confidence. Our party is becoming inevitably stronger."

He said the Tories would have gone to the polls in June right after the leadership race but they knew they couldn't run on their record. McDonald said the government had brought in a deluge of legislation in the past 10 days to help change their image and make people believe in the "new wave".

The speaker took special joy in joking about the new legislation making 18 the age for drinking, voting and signing legal contracts.

Rebelling

McDonald said the Davis government had to beat down opposition in its own party before it was able to introduce legislation. McDonald said "He (Davis) sounded like an old fashioned father about to administer a dose of castor oil to a rebellious child, assuring everybody that it was really in everybody's interest that this should be done."

"Obviously the government has introduced this legislation not only over great opposition in its own ranks, but with very qualified enthusiasm."

McDonald said Davis was "damned if he did and damned if he didn't" bring in the new legislation. He said the Tories fear they won't get their share of the 412,000 new voters and they are right. The government knew they were beaten before they started if they didn't use the lowering the age issue to further their new image, he added.

Suffering a deep gash from broken glass, Gary Edge, 17, received first aid Sunday morning from John Price. The young man had apparently been cut by glass at the high school, and was brought downtown by friends.

Here Mr. Price saw him, and taking a borrowed shirt quickly applied a tourniquet. OPP Const. Nick Farion took him to Milton hospital.

Mr. Price learned first aid from his father, Norm, who is a firefighter.
