

Halton wins at CNE

By H. J. Stanley

Halton County had many top prize animals at the Canadian National Exhibition. Some of these are as follows.

BEEF CATTLE

Shorthorns—S. G. Bennett, Georgetown won five of the seven classes, Premier Breeder and Exhibition banners. Scotsdale Defender was grand and supreme champion bull. Other placings—reserve grand champion bull, junior champion bull, junior champion female, and reserve senior and grand champion cow.

Reford Gardhouse, Milton won the yearling heifer class, second and third in yearling bull classes, and fourth for the two year old bull.

John McKinnon, Milton won a third prize for the two year old heifer class as well as a fifth, two sixths, an eighth and two 10th places in Shorthorn competitions. Hereford—Graham and Evelyn Gillies, Milton exhibited the first prize yearling heifer, third yearling bull, sixth yearling heifer and two year old and were seventh for the herd.

Aberdeen-Angus—John Willmott, Milton, won the aged bull class. This bull went on to be the reserve senior and reserve grand champion. His first prize yearling heifer was reserve junior champion. He also had the third prize aged bull and fourth prize yearling heifer.

DAIRY CATTLE

Holsteins—Exhibitors in the Holstein section from Halton were Claude Pickett, Georgetown; Jeffrey and Fred Nurse, Georgetown; Bertram Stewart, Hornby; Ken Murray, Acton; John Popp, Rockwood; William and Larry Bennett, Burlington, and Harry Moore, Terra Cotta. Halton did not have any winners, but were up near the top on some of the classes.

Bert Stewart and Harry Moore showed the second prize senior yearling bull, and Fred Nurse was fourth in the aged cow class.

Jerseys—Featherstone Bros., Oakville won the breeders' herd and the aged cow class. They also had an impressive number of other high placings—second senior yearling heifer and reserve junior champion, fourth 3 year old, fourth four year old, third junior yearling heifer, fifth and eighth two year old, fifth senior heifer calf, etc.

Rock Elm Farms, Hornby exhibited the third prize senior yearling heifer, fourth five year old, fifth yearling bull and were 5th in the interbred udder class.

Guernseys—Mel McCullough, Acton; Harley Pickering, Oakville; Alton Gunby and Merv Scott, Burlington exhibited in this class. Gunby and Scott placed second with their junior yearling and fifth in the aged cow class. Mel McCullough placed third in the two year old heifer class.

Dual Purpose Shorthorns—The herds of Allan, Patterson and Son, Clarence Peacock, Milton, continued to win many awards.

Patterson's cow won the American Shorthorn Society, and the Wiggin's trophies as grand and supreme champion cow of the show. They were also first for progeny of dam, second bull calf, third herd, fourth two year old and four year old. Clarence Peacock won the senior yearling heifer and four year old classes. The heifer went on to be the junior champion. Other placings from the Peacock herd were third yearling bull, fourth bull calf, five year old cow and breeder's herd, and fifth three year old cow.

HORSES

Percheron—Stan May, Hornby exhibited four horses, winning four fourths, two fifths and three sixths. His daughter, Martha placed third in the ladies' heavy draft driving class. Lloyd Stokes, Campbellville reserve grand champion Percheron stallion. He also placed third in a colt class.

FACED WITH the enviable problem of what to do with his oversized tomato plants, amateur gardener Tom Dawkins, 85 Victoria Street, used a little ingenuity and tied them to the eavestroughs. Tallest of the three plants measures eight feet. They were planted approximately June 1 and Tom reaped his first batch of juicy tomatoes about 10 days ago. All three plants are loaded with tasty treats. —(Staff Photo)
