Remembrance "Shalom" heard by 500 Sunday

As the signal of Reveille and the Last Post sounded on the bugle, only a handful of shivering citizens were on hand last Sunday morning to view the traditional raising and lowering of the cenotaph flag in commemoration of the men who had so valiantly given their lives during the period of the two world wars from 1914 to 1918 and 1939 to 1945.

The Acton Legion, represented by parade marshal Max Storey and three other members paraded to the Cenotaph with a few Rockwood area World War Veterans. Don Hills was the Comrade in Arms who raised and lowered the flag to the call of the trumpeter. Lloyd Dyer read off the names of veterans whose names are etched on the Rockwood cenotaph and wreaths were placed in memory of the glorious dead with Fred Wright of Acton placing the Legion wreath, Reeve Warren Parkinson the province of Ontario dedication and Mrs. Margaret Lambert of Acton the traditional John Hills family decoration.

Bob Leslie then said words of benediction. Marshal Storey called the parade to attention and standard bearers Mr. and Mrs. Smith from Acton, made an about turn to parade back again to the Centennial School.

Impressive assembly
Those in attendance tried to keep pace with the marchers but it was too cold to walk slowly too windy to move fast and, for some, the 11.15 church service had already begun when they reached the auditorium.

The assemblage itself was an impressive one. Approximately 500 children and adults were on hand to unite in common prayer and dedication commemorating those who had given their lives in past wars but faithfully praying that they were the last.

The service which was conducted by Don Sinclair was an ecumenical one in which all four Rockwood and area congregations participated and the clergy from each of the village churches took part, with the exception of Rev. Ken Cardwell of the St. John's Church who had Ernie Slipp representing him in his absence.

Rev. Don Sinclair, for the Rockwood and Eden Mills Presbyterian Churches, Rev. Ralph Williams, for the Rockwood and Stone United, and taking the place of Father F. C. Elliott who is presently on leave of absence for the Rockwood and Oustie.

Scared Heart
congregation was Rev. Harold Bedford who gave the sermon.

Put aside differences
Rev. Sinclair in his opening salutation said that he was delighted at the response of those people attending the service as it was one day in the year when we can put aside our differences which keep us apart and join together. He said he was grateful for the participation of the Eramosa Choir which added pleasure to the eye, ear and soul, and then Mr. Sinclair extended his sympathy to the McNabb family of Rockwood referring to the lovely flowers on the platform as ones placed in memoriam of their recent bereavement. Mr. Sinclair then extended words of welcome to Father Bedford who took over the service.

Canadians remembered
Father Bedford, in talking to the congregation, presented an account of the valiance of Canadian soldiers throughout both world wars saying that in many countries where they had fought they had been remembered for their courage and abilities to fight together with strength and determination.

Referring to the Jewish salutation "Shalom" which means many things in the Hebrew tongue and is the epitome of everything good, he said, that, with all the peace for which Canadians have fought, too much hatred still exists in the world today and, regardless of the approximate count of some 47 million dead as the results of the last two wars, 112,000 of which were Canadian soldiers, no "Shalom" has been reached and, in depicting the picture of the Canadian part in the two wars, Father Bedford said that there several young adults and young people who had no conception of the horrors faced or the valiance of those who had fought to give them whatever peace they had today but that it was in vain because the "Shalom" which means "Hello, goodbye, God be with you and Peace over all the World" has not really been found.

"We won the War," said Father Bedford, but have yet to win the peace.

The Eramosa Choral group, under the leadership of Mrs. Roberta Hoy was tremendous as rows of youthful songsters, all arrayed in poppy red tunics and boys wearing ties sang beautifully, thus offering their own special "Shalom" to all who attended.

Children's Aid meeting subject

The November meeting of the Rockwood Institute was held at the home of Mrs. George Mitchell. Mrs. W. Guild of Mary Street took over the chairmanship due to the absence of president, Miss Helen Bayne.

The roll call "little courtesies worth knowing and observing" was a constructive one with many members submitting several thoughts on the matter.

Remember to write letters, be a good listener, thank people for kindnesses, visit folks who are ill, and remembering people with cards, were only some of the suggestions which would make for greater happiness.

Informative talk
Miss M. Griffith of the Guelph Children's Aid Society presented a most interesting and informative talk on her work with the Society and most of the evening's program was absorbed with what she had to say.

Reports of the area convention was then given by delegates Mrs. K. Spence and Mrs. G. Mitchell who had attended, after which plans for a Christmas meeting on December 7 were discussed to be held in the Eramosa Community Centre. Mrs. J. Thomson gave a rundown on current events and then Mrs. Mitchell gave a reading.

Eramosa council briefs

At the regular meeting Monday, November 1, Eramosa township council:

—Accepted an invitation from the Wellington Road Superintendents Association to discuss a joint township two way radio network at a meeting November 10.

Road superintendent Bob Hamilton explained the Department of Highways would not sanction the expense by one township and suggested several municipalities band together and share the cost.

—Was notified by letter that the Grand River Conservation Authority considered rebuilding the dam at the old Harris woolen mills in Rockwood Conservation Park but it was lost in this year's priorities. The project will be budgeted for in 1972.

—Decided to ask the Grand River Authority to supply them with plans and reports of the proposed Guelph dam for council's perusal, following receipt of a letter from a resident of the area protesting the forced evacuation of 125 families to make way for the flooding of land.

"A good letter," commented Councillor Dick Strong, "with many valid comments."

—Decided to purchase 600 1972 red dog tags from the Toronto Stamp Works at a price of $45.

—Was advised a rabies clinic would soon be held in the area, time and date to be announced later.

—Was advised by letter from the insurance company that the township would be covered by liability should council decide to open the new Fourth Line deviation road around the Rockwood Conservation Area. Road superintendent Bob Hamilton told council he intended to close the old Fourth Line road the next day so traffic would be obliged to use the new one.

Reeve Warren Parkinson presided for the meeting with all councillors present.

Unscramble Eden Mills

One section of the Eden Mills news was put in the Free Press in the wrong place last week. As a result three of the items didn't read properly.

Here's the correct version.

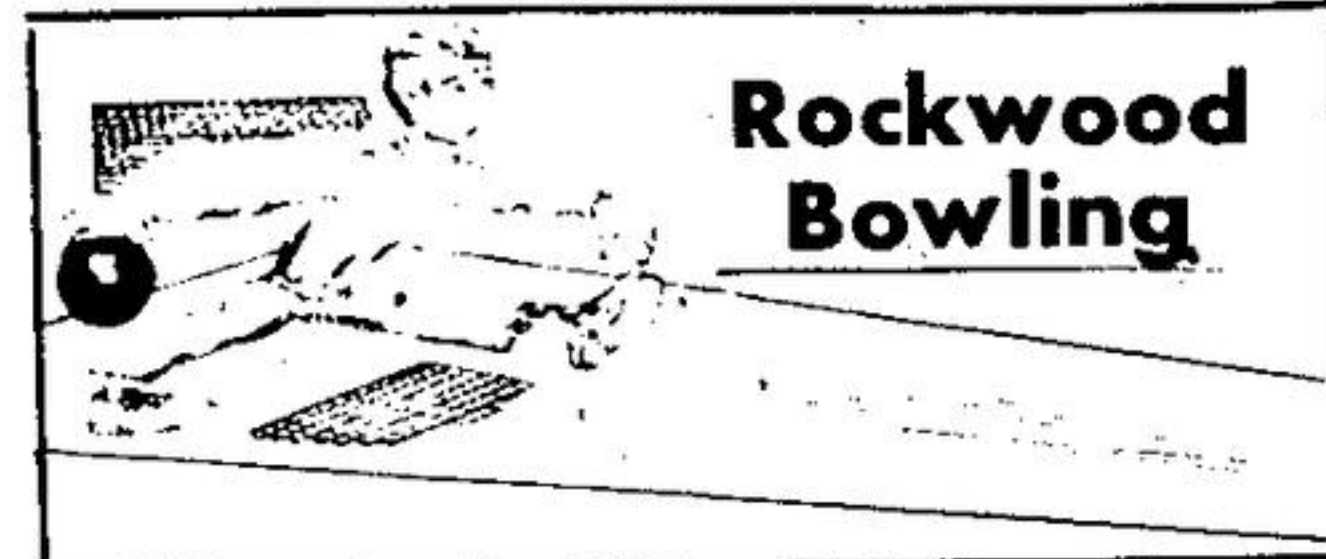

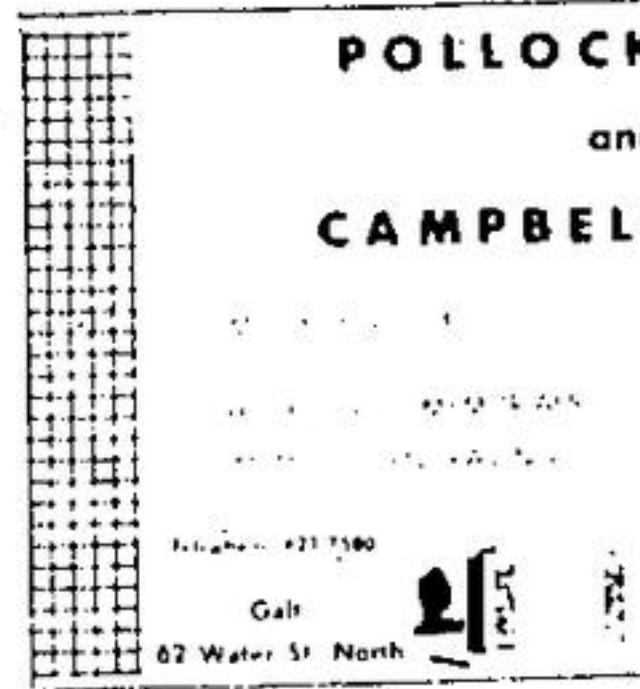

The Women's Missionary Society of Eden Mills Presbyterian Church celebrated their 80th birthday last week with a special invitation to neighboring church women to attend a special meeting. Guest speaker was Mrs. John Smith, Guelph. Greetings were given by Mrs. Gordon Crowe, president of Guelph Presbyterian and from Mrs. H. W. Kellington of the Salvation Army. Mrs. Wallace Lasby welcomed everyone.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Robert Wright Two carloads of residents from Eden Mills Nursing Home enjoyed the meetings and refreshments after.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Stanley were taken by surprise Wednesday evening when members of the United Church and friends gathered to wish them well in their new home in Guelph as the farm was sold. Rev. Russell Finlay read the address and a pole-lamp was presented to the couple on behalf of the community. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley suitably replied and regretted leaving the district. Refreshments followed.

So he went down by the seaside to sit down and watch where the tide went, when it went out—and it finally came to him.
