tends to lead us to ask ourselves as to how many among us really believe in the old adage, "Honesty is the best pollcy",

Now the suggestion that the much respected profession of doctor of medicine has within its ranks many who are defrauding the Ontario Health Services insurance program of monies to which they have no right, makes us wonder still more as to just how widespread this practice is.

There was a time in the history of Greece when Diogenes went out into the streets of Athens, carrying a lighted lantern in broad daylight. When asked why he was doing this, he replied that that time among the Greeks that, change for the better in our way if one could lie and deceive with of life. This, apparently, is advanced as the reason for the fact that they show no interest in or support of the organized church.

I wonder if they themselves are being perfectly honest with themselves. It could be this is simply a matter of excusing themselves of a responsibility that irks them a little bit at least If the organized church is not what it ought to be-and many of us among the clergy believe that this is so-then we invite critics outside of her ranks to come on in and help to set things straight. As the bishop replied to the business man, who said that he was not associated with any church because there were too many hypocrits therein, "Come on in. There's plenty of room for a few more". A recent cartoon depicted a TV

repair man at work on a TV set. In the foreground there was the housewife with her little son, who who asked her the question, "If he's a robber, like Daddy says he is, why doesn't he wear a gun?" In some cases, we ourselves have felt just like "Daddy" with regard to repair man. The truth of the matter is that there is much dishonesty, in its various forms, within every section of society and in every Plans . profession to-day-and that includes the church. When I use the word "dishonest" here, I am thinking of intellectual and moral and spiritual dishonesty, as well as financial and political dishonesty.

All this is so, for the simple reason that humanity has not yet reached the stage of perfection. There are weaknesses in the church, because the members and the clergy are prone to env, just as the folk outside are apt to do, but let us remember this, in spite of all her weaknesses, the Of course, it was believed at church has blazed the way for

Is this the prevailing attitude that person is doing little or better way, "People who live in Re the latter question, it would glass houses should not throw

> It is our business to try to see that "glass houses" are not our permanent places of living.

> There are many agencies outside of the organized church working for peace and understanding among men. It should be their aim to join forces with the church in a common assault on the powers that enslave and rob mankind in any way whatsoever.

> At the same time, let us recognize the right of others to differ in opinion over matters of secondary importance, knowing this, that the object of the forces of evil is to divide and conquer the groups that are striving for the attainment of the best things
