Took bus to Toronto on gloomy, wet Saturday. Between Georgetown and Acton had a drunken Ojibway Indian sitting next to me. Tried to ignore him but he kept cursing the government and talking about abuse to Indians, along with occasional whoops and hollers.

Struck up a conversation with a neat, clean-cut young man in Toronto bus depot. He said he was going to get a coffee and asked if I would like anything. I gave him a dollar for coffee and cigarettes.

Didn't return He didn't come back! On the bus to Detroit had a colored man from Cuba sitting next to me. He said he taught engineering, and thought I should get off with him.

From there to Atlanta, Georgia it was quiet and peaceful. I met a nice lady from Waco, Texas, who asked me to visit her.

Atlanta incident In Atlanta the bus depot washroom was so filthy I walked right out. Those of you who know how I keep house will realize just how filthy it must have been.

A few minutes later a woman slipped and fell, hitting her head against the sink and splitting it wide open. There was a big fuss as she screamed, managers, police, doctors, ambulance and crowds watching.

Some hours later when I returned to the depot I heard a waitress say "Somebody shoved a knife in dat gal ..."

Prohibited While turning onto a super-highway spotted a sign that said "Pedestrians, horses, bicycles, funerals and weddings prohibited."

Spent two quiet days in New Port Richey, Florida, visiting an aunt. The only excitement was an argument I had with a neighbor about Canada nearly electing a communist government and pretty soon they'd all be communists. He said U.S. had just beat one enemy out there in Viet Nam and now "it looked like they was gonna hafta look to their doorstep afore Canada started nationizin' everythin' and stealin' American propety."

Starting out for New Orleans in a ew hours.

Sad to say I haven't met even one youngster. Whenever I visited Y's there were no programs going on.
